A. Identity of Petitioner

Appellant Sandy Shaotao Ou, respectfully asks this Court to accept review of the Court of Appeals' decision designated in Part B of this petition.

B. Court of Appeals Decision

Ou respectfully requests review of the Washington State Court of Appeals for Division I opinion dated September 15, 2014. Ou also respectfully requests review of the Washington State Court of Appeals for Division I order denying her motion to reconsider entered on October 2 2014.

A copy of the decision is in the (Appendix (App.) A). A copy of the order denying petitioner's motion for reconsideration is attached. (App.B.)

C. Issues Presented for Review

1. Whether the Washington State Court of Appeals for Division I erred in upholding the trial court's ruling that Petitioner's petition for child support modification to establish postsecondary support should be denied because the obligor has no ability to pay for tuition at the dependent's chosen private university despite his statutory obligation of support.

2. Whether the trial court and the Court of Appeals for Division I failed to give plain effect to the statutory meaning of RCW 26.19.090.
3. Whether the trial court and the Court of Appeals for Division I failed to give plain effect to the statutory meaning of RCW 26.19.011.
4. Whether the trial court and the Court of Appeals for Division I failed to give plain effect to the statutory meaning of RCW 26.19.020 in determining economic support and basic monthly support obligation.
5. Whether Court of Appeals for Division I erred in dismissing Ou's Motion to Reconsider by not applying the plain meaning of RCW 26.19.090(2) and RCW 26.19.080(3).

D. Statement of the Case

The right to request post-secondary support was reserved at page 8 in the original support order (App.C), the petitioner exercised this right timely and in the proper venue. The petition for modification of child support at front of the trial court addressed the post-secondary support of then minor child. The Petitioner, Sandy Ou (hereinafter Ou) and the Respondent, Hung K. Cheung (hereinafter Cheung) met in early 1994 while Ou attended college. Ou is of Chinese origin. Cheung is from Hong Kong originally. Their initial attraction to each other was the fact that Ou pursued higher education that Cheung only aspired to, but was not able to attain since he had already worked for years as a cook. Clerk Papers (CP) at 37.

The couple got married in 1994 following a brief dating period. Their common child, Henry Cheung (hereinafter Henry) was born in early 1995. Cheung deserted his family and Ou raised Henry alone. CP at 38.

In 1999 the couple's marriage was dissolved and Ou was designated as the custodian of Henry in the Parenting Plan—Final Order issued by the court on November 5, 1999. This order was never modified by the court or by the parties. The Order of Child Support, issued on the same date, reserved the right to request post-secondary support before Henry turned 18 years old or graduated from high school, whichever occurred later. (App.C.) Cheung was ordered to pay 538.69 a month in child support. CP at 7 and at 8.

Ou petitioned the court to modify and establish post-secondary support for Henry in October 2012. He would turn 18 in early 2013 and graduate from high school in May 2013. Cheung failed to respond to the summons and the trial court issued an order awarding post-secondary support by default on December 28, 2012. (App.D.) Cheung later hired an attorney and, through various filings, moved to vacate the default order against him. On March 22, 2013 the latest child support order granting payment for post-secondary expenses was vacated and the court set the case for trial by affidavit. CP at 4.

Cheung submitted to the court several documents attesting to their truthfulness under penalty of perjury. Cheung claimed his wife's adult parents as his dependents and his wife's teenaged son as his own dependent. Cheung did not disclose his wife's income on his financial declaration or on his child support worksheets filed with the court nor did he disclose the child support his wife had been successfully collecting from the biological father of her child, and the income generated or received by the other adult members in his household, namely the two adult parents of his wife which all are of Hong Kong origin. In his financial declaration (App.E.), Cheung declared a total monthly net income of $2,508 and a total monthly expense of almost twice that amount, $4,960, all the while he was duly represented in these proceedings by an attorney that he had paid for. CP at 14, at 19 and at 24.

Furthermore, Cheung filed with the court his 2012 tax return. That year on the joint tax return with his wife Cheung declared that their combined income was $59,004.00. (App.H.), Cheung specifically stated to the court that he was always timely and never missed any child support payments for Henry since the issuance of the original child support order in 1999. CP at 8.

The trial court terminated the payment child support for Henry on July 18, 2013 by finding: “that the parties did not form an expectation for the child regarding post-secondary education while they were together and the parents do not have the means to provide post-secondary support.” (App.F), and CP at 2.

Ou sought to reverse the trial court’s decision while she continued alone the support of their dependent child during his post-secondary education. In his respondent brief (App.G.), Cheung states that he and his wife earn a monthly income of $4915.08 and he calculates their combined monthly expense as $4280, leaving a difference of $635.08, which is greater than Mr. Cheung's historical rate of support payment of $538.69 for Henry. (App.H.). Additionally, on the only page of the 2013 Income Tax Return that he provided to the court, Cheung indicates a capital gain income of $6,383 and a combined income of $64,251 with his wife. On his 2012 Income Tax Return, Cheung declared no capital gain. (App.E and G.) Cheung failed to disclose during appeal his own monthly income to court on which the child support could be based, nor does the court have evidence of the amount child support received by his wife and the amount of social security income the "dependent parents" of his wife collect. He has no evidence for his household expenses. Actually petition Ou found it out that his house has no more mortgages and already paid in cash in full and he has additional houses for rental too. See (App. I.).

Henry has completed two years community college credits of his education and they are transferring to Embry Riddle University to continue his Aerospace Engineering Bachelor degree. Ou continues to provide financial support of Henry who is fully dependent on his parents and is relying upon them for the reasonable necessities of life.

E. Argument Why Review Should Be Accepted

- a. The decision of the Court of Appeals is in conflict of the decision of the Supreme Court; and
- b. The decision of the Court of Appeals is in conflict with another decision of the Court of Appeals.

There have been several decisions rendered by the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court in earlier cases that are in conflict with the decision of the Court of Appeals in this instant case.

Cheung has had notice since November 1999 that his support obligation could continue past the age of majority of Henry and it was more than twelve years later when Ou filed her petition for child support modification in September 2012.

[As part of the dissolution of marriage procedures], the trial court reserved for the future the determination of whether postsecondary support would be appropriate and, if so, the specific amount. And by referencing postsecondary educational support and reserving ruling for a future date, the order put the parents on notice that their support obligations could continue past the age of majority. In re Marriage of Gimlett, 95 Wn.2d 699, 703, 629 p.2d 450, Balch v. Balch, 75 Wn. App. 776, 780, 880 P.2d 78 (1994), review denied, 126 Wn.2d 1003 (1995).

Ou, exercised her right to petition for Henry's post-secondary support timely (before he turned 18 and before he finished high school) and within the correct venue in King County, Washington. When postsecondary educational support has been reserved in a child support order, it is properly requested in a petition for modification without the necessity to show a substantial change in circumstances has occurred. In re Marriage of Morris. 176Wn. App. 893, 904, 309 P. 3d 767 (2013).

The Court of Appeals found no error in the trial court's omission to make a determination about the child's continued dependency and to calculate the proportional share of support each parent required to pay.

However, in Newell the court found that the trial court must accurately determine each party's income and proportional share, using the standards of the child support schedule worksheets, before making its decision about the amount each parent should be required to pay for post-secondary education support. Newell v. Newell, 117 Wn. App.711, 72 P.3d 1130 (2003).

The trial court failed to determine accurately the parents' income and proportional share for support in this case. RCW 26. 19. 090(2) gives the trial court discretion to order support for post-secondary educational expenses and sets forth criteria the trial court should consider when making such an award. The trial court initially must find that the child is dependent and "relying upon the parents for the reasonable necessities of life." RCW 26.19.090(2). Once that threshold requirement is satisfied, the trial court must also consider non-exhaustive list of factors.

The child support statutes do not address the parameters of the term "child support". Specifically, RCW 26.19.090 does not state whether "postsecondary educational support" constitutes "child support". Similarly, RCW 26.19.011 — the definitions section of chapter 26.19 RCW — does not define "child support" or "child support obligation." RCW 26.19.011(1) does define "[b]asic child support obligation" as the "monthly child support obligation determined from the economic table" set out in RCW 26.19.020. But use of the term "child support obligation" in RCW 26.19.065(1) contemplates a broader concept.

"There are no other statutes that provide insight into whether the legislature intended to include postsecondary educational support in the definition of child support obligation. We are guided by two cases tangentially discussing this issue. In In re Marriage of Daubert, Division One of this court addressed the allocation of postsecondary educational support in light of RCW 26.19.090(1), which provides that the "child support schedule" is advisory and not mandatory for postsecondary educational support. 124 Wn.App. 483, 499 -500, 99 P.3d 401(2004), overruled in part on other grounds by McCausland v. McCausland, 129 Wn.App. 390, 118 P.3d 944 (2007). The issue was whether all of chapter 26.19 RCW (entitled "Child Support Schedule") was advisory or just the economic table set out in RCW 26.19.020. Daubert, 124 Wn.App. at 500 - 01. In this context, the court stated (without analysis or citation to authority) that "[p]ostsecondary educational support is child support." Daubert, 124 Wn. App. at 502. More significantly, our Supreme Court addressed the meaning of "child support" in In re Marriage of Schneider, 173 Wn.2d 353, 367 -68, 268 P. 3d 215 (2011). In Schneider, the court addressed whether postsecondary educational support constituted "support" within the meaning of the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act, chapter 26. 21 RCW. 173 Wn.2d at 367. The court explained that postsecondary educational support "fits within the structure of the child support statute in general" and in some situations "can function just like ordinary child support." Schneider, 173 Wn.2d at 368. Accordingly, the court concluded that postsecondary educational support "is money paid to support a dependent child, therefore it is child support.” Schneider, 173 Wn.2d at 368. Although Schneider did not involve RCW 26.19.065(1), we believe that our Supreme Court’s statement that post-secondary educational support is child support controls here. Therefore, we hold that postsecondary educational support is part of a parent’s “child support obligation” RCW 26.19.065(1) allows the trial court to exceed the 45 percent cap “for good cause shown,” which includes "educational need". In re the Marriage of Regina Katherine COTA, Court of Appeals of Washington, Division 2. Case No. 43037–1–II. (Order on Appeal, November 5, 2013).

Postsecondary support may, but need not be, based on the economic table. RCW 26.19.090(1) states, “The child support schedule shall be advisory and not mandatory for postsecondary educational support.” The term "child support schedule" refers to the economic table in RCW 26.19.020. In re Marriage of Daubert, 124 Wn.App. 483, 505, 99 P.3d 401 (2004), abrogated on other grounds by In re Marriage of McCausland, 159 Wn.2d 607, 152 P.3d 1013 (2007). The specific exclusion of the economic table in RCW 26.19.020 suggests that the rest of chapter 26.19 RCW applies. Failure to base postsecondary support on this nonmandatory calculation is not an abuse of discretion. In re Marriage of Morris. 176 Wn. App. 893, 904, 309 P.3d 767 (2013).

Washington's statutory scheme also supports the conclusion that postsecondary educational support is "support" [] the provisions for postsecondary educational support are found in chapter 26.19 RCW along with the child support schedule. RCW 26.19.090. Educational expenses for minor children are also available in a child support award. See RCW 26.19.080(3) (providing for tuition as a "special child rearing expense []" that will be shared in the same proportion as the basic child support obligation). The child support schedule may be used to set the amount of postsecondary educational support. RCW 26.19.090(1). Moreover, an award of postsecondary educational support is contingent on a finding that the child is dependent and relying on the parents for the "reasonable necessities of life." RCW 26.19.090(2). In other words, the child, even after achieving the age of majority, is not self-sufficient and must be supported as would a minor child (emphasis added). Additionally, when the dependent child lives with one of the parents, postsecondary educational support can function just like ordinary child support, i.e., the obligor parent can be ordered to pay a monthly amount to the parent with whom the child resides. RCW 26.19.090(6). Postsecondary educational support, therefore, fits within the structure of the child support statute in general. Schneider, 173 Wn.2d 353 at 371.

Court records indicate that Ou submitted all necessary documentation to establish the dependency of the child when petitioning for post-secondary support. During her appeal, she provided further evidence of not only about the child's enrollment into Embry-Riddle University's aeronautical program, but she has submitted documents of his progress in his studies to earn a baccalaureate of science degree. Henry remains dependent on both of his parents. A dependent child is 'one who looks to another for support and maintenance, one who is in fact dependent, one who relies on another for the reasonable necessities of life.'" Childers v. Childers, 89 Wn.2d 592, 595, 598, 575 P.2d 201 (1978).

According to RCW 26.19.090(3), the child must enroll in an accredited academic or vocational school, must be actively pursuing a course of study commensurate with the child's vocational goals, and must be in good academic standing as defined by the institution. The court-ordered postsecondary educational support shall be automatically suspended during the period or periods the child fails to comply with these conditions.”

While the trial court denied Ou’s petition after Cheung’s successful vacating of the post-secondary order, that fact on non-support from his father still did not alter Henry’s determination to pursue his university level studies with only Ou’s financial support. He remains enrolled in an accredited academic school and has been “actively pursuing a course of study commensurate with (his) vocational goals.” Henry fulfills the statutory requirements to be considered a dependent child and be eligible to the continued support of both of his parents.

The record is clear that Cheung did not dispute the appropriateness of post-secondary support under the statutory factors in fact he offered himself the calculation of tuition costs to the trial court at a public university in Florida. The contested factual issue was only the amount of support each parent is required to contribute. The trial court had the discretion to adopt the calculation of support based on the Economic Table and it also had the authority to require Cheung to provide a complete and correct account of his financial circumstances. The trial court did neither.

Notwithstanding of the trial court failure to make the determination that Henry in fact remained dependent on his parents for his basic necessitates of life and its failure to calculate support based upon the actual income of the parents and in accordance with RCW 29.09.090(1), the Court of Appeals determined that the trial court did not err. The substantive question at front of the Court of Appeals was whether the trial court had authority to terminate the child support order and deny post-secondary support for a dependent child.

Therefore, based upon earlier decisions of the court and applicable statutes, the Court of Appeals is constrained to hold that postsecondary educational expenses constitute “child support” under RCW 26.19.065(1), and, consequently, to find that the trial court's order improperly terminated the child support of a dependent child and without the finding of a good cause.

c. The petition involves an issue of substantial public interest that should be determined by the Supreme Court.

The number of children who are denied any post-secondary support due to the parent's limited income and the trial court's unwillingness to adopt a support calculation based upon the Washington State Child Support Schedule—Economic Table and order the obligor's transfer amount accordingly, although no exact statistic is available, it is estimated that more than 7,000 Washington residents are affected annually.

It is estimated that at least one-third of student's enrolled into the College Bound Scholarship's graduating class every year, a program administered by the State of Washington's Student Achievement Council for low-income families, are from single parent families. As of December 1, 2014, 185,000 low-income students have signed up for the College Bound Scholarship across Washington State.

Parental contribution is just one funding source for a low-income student who displays aptitude and commitment to his post-secondary educational goals. However, until the trial court continues to rule by denying support for a child who has remained dependent on his parents beyond his age of majority in pursuit of his post-secondary education goals rather than to order payment of support, albeit limited according RCW 26.19.020; large number of children of lower income parents will be forced to rely exclusively on the custodial parent's continued financial support while the former obligor is allowed to stop any and all support.

F. CONCLUSION

Ou respectfully requests review is granted because the petition meets at least 3 of the criteria outlined in RAP 13.4(b).

DWYER, J. — Sandy Ou appeals from the denial of her petition to modify a child support order. Ou sought to obtain for her son substantial educational postsecondary support from Hung Cheung—her former husband and the biological father of her son. Finding that the trial court, in denying Ou’s petition, did not abuse the ample discretion conferred by RCW 26.19.090(2), or otherwise err, we affirm.

In 1994, Ou and Cheung were married. The following year, the couple had a son—Henry Cheung.¹ By 1998, however, Ou and Cheung had divorced. In 1999, Henry resided a majority of the time with Ou, and Cheung was ordered to make child support payments, which he did until Henry turned 18.

¹ We refer to Henry by his first name in order to differentiate between father and son. No disrespect is intended.

Before marrying Cheung, Ou obtained a postsecondary degree. She then worked as an interpreter for a number of years before becoming a self-employed real estate agent in Florida. In 2013, she estimated that her income for the year was $18,000.00 and listed her monthly net income as $1,671.

Cheung does not have a postsecondary degree. He worked as a cook in the bakery of a grocery store where his annual income is around $28,000. He also remarried. His current wife's dependent child and her two parents live with Cheung.

Henry excelled in school. During his final year of high school, he earned college credits at the local community college and was granted admission by the University of Florida, Virginia Technical Institute, Penn State University, and Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University. His first choice was to attend Embry-Riddle and study aerospace engineering. The annual cost of attending Embry-Riddle is over $46,000. However, through various scholarships and financial aid awards, Henry was capable of paying for about half of the annual cost.

Several months before Henry's 18th birthday,² Ou filed a petition to modify the child support order in order to obtain postsecondary support for Henry. After Cheung failed to respond, a default order was entered in which Cheung was ordered to pay postsecondary support for Henry. Nevertheless, on July 18, 2013, a hearing was held in King County Superior Court, which resulted in a denial of Ou's petition.³ Additionally, a written order was entered on the same day memorializing the denial of Ou's petition.

Ou appeals.⁴

II

Ou contends that the trial court abused its discretion in denying her petition. This is so, she asserts, because the trial court failed to consider the statutory factors in RCW 26.19.090(2). We disagree.

"When considering a request for postsecondary educational support, RCW 26.19.090(2) directs the superior court to determine whether the child is in fact dependent and relying upon the parents for the reasonable necessities of life." In re Marriage of Morris, 176 Wn. App. 893, 904, 309 P.3d 767 (2013). Once the superior court has made this determination, it "may then exercise its discretion in determining whether and for how long to award support." Morris, 176 Wn. App. at 904. Factors it may consider include, but are not limited to, the following:

Age of the child; the child's needs; the expectations of the parties for their children when the parents were together; the child's prospects, desires, aptitudes, abilities or disabilities; the nature of the postsecondary education sought; and the parents' level of education, standard of living, and current and future resources. Also to be considered are the amount and type of support that the child would have been afforded if the parents had stayed together.

RCW 26.19.090(2). However, because the trial court is not obligated to enter written findings of fact, "we review the record to determine whether the court engaged in the appropriate analysis," which includes a presumption "that the court considered all evidence before it in reaching its decision." Morris, 176 Wn. App. at 906 (quoting In re Marriage of Kelly, 85 Wn. App. 785, 793, 934 P.2d 1218 (1997)). Our review of the trial court's determination is for an abuse of discretion. Morris, 176 Wn. App. at 905.

³ Ou states that Cheung successfully moved to vacate the adverse default order. However, there is no evidence in the record supporting Ou's explication of the procedural history between the entry of the default order against Cheung and the denial of her petition.

⁴ Respondent's brief was untimely filed. Appellant's motion to strike respondent's brief is granted.

Ou contends that the record does not show that the trial court properly considered all of the factors in RCW 26.19.090(2). However, the parties presented both evidence and argument with regard to all of the factors, and the trial court explicitly considered and made specific findings with regard to certain factors on the record. Several of these specific findings were memorialized in the trial court's written order. In the absence of evidence to the contrary, we presume that the trial court in this case considered all of the evidence that was before it in fashioning its order.

Moreover, the record reveals that the trial court considered the particular factors that Ou avers were not considered.⁵ The trial court was aware of Henry's age⁶ and his needs.⁷ It was further aware of Henry's prospects, desires, ⁵ Ou also argues that the trial court erred by calculating Cheung's income in disregard of the evidence. However, Ou failed to designate as part of the record any evidence of Cheung's income. Pro se litigants are held to the same standard as attorneys and must comply with all procedural rules on appeal. In re Marriage of Olson, 69 Wn. App. 621, 626, 850 P.2d 527 (1993). "The appellant has the burden of perfecting the record so that the court has before it all the evidence relevant to the issue." In re Marriage of Haugh, 58 Wn. App. 1, 6, 790 P.2d 1266 (1990). Due to Ou's failure to include all the evidence relevant to resolving this issue, we decline to consider her argument.

⁶ The Court: When does Henry turn 18? Has he already turned 18?

Ms. Ou: He already turned 18 in January 6th.

⁷ I think the amount that was indicated was for the tuition or the costs of Embry-Riddle was about $46,000 a year. The total net income of both parents together is $35,000 a year, and even—even with the—what Ms. Ou indicated that the—aptitudes, abilities, or disabilities,⁸ as well as the nature of the postsecondary education that he sought.⁹ Finally, the trial court was aware of the amount and type of support that Henry would have been afforded if his parents had stayed together.¹⁰

Nevertheless, Ou contends that it was incumbent upon the trial court to make specific findings as to the cost and availability of a postsecondary education at a publicly-funded institution before denying her petition. In support of her contention, she cites to In re Marriage of Shellenberger, 80 Wn. App. 71, 906 P.2d 968 (1995), in which we held that a trial court must “make specific findings as to the cost and availability of college education in the child’s chosen field at publicly funded institutions before ordering an objecting parent to support a more expensive private college education.” 80 Wn. App. at 85. We reasoned that an objecting parent of “modest means” should not be required “to pay for private college where the child can obtain a degree in his or her chosen field at a publicly subsidized institution.” Shellenberger, 80 Wn. App. at 85. Given that the trial court did not order Cheung to pay postsecondary support, both the rule and the rationale set forth in Shellenberger are inapposite.

Our review of the record reveals that the trial court did not abuse its that the amount after grants and scholarships is about $26,000 a year, that’s still two-thirds of the parents’ net income.

⁸ “And—and we have to be realistic about what our means are, unfortunately, because this may be a very [good] school and a very good opportunity for a good student.”

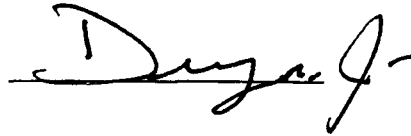

⁹ “[T]he other [question] is whether or not [the parents] can afford to provide the Mercedes of education and pay for a university such as Embry-Riddle.”

¹⁰ “The total net income of both parents together is $35,000 a year, and even—even with the—what Ms. Ou indicated that the—that the amount after grants and scholarship is about $26,000 a year, that’s still two-thirds of the parents’ net income.”

discretion pursuant to RCW 26.19.090(2) and did not otherwise err.¹¹

Affirmed.

We concur:

¹¹ Ou cites to our decision in State ex rel. Stout v. Stout, 89 Wn. App. 118, 948 P.2d 851 (1997), in support of her argument that a minimum need standard is imposed by RCW 26.19.065(2), unless a court deviates for reasons specified in RCW 26.19.075. Neither the statutory provisions cited by Ou nor our decision in Stout relate to the issue of whether the trial court complied with RCW 26.19.090(2). Thus, they provide Ou no basis for the relief that she requests.

STATE OF WASHINGTON

FORM MOTION

COURT OF APPEALS, DIVISION I OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON
County of King

In re:

Sandy S. Ou
Henry Cheung

Petitioner(s), and

Hung K. Cheung

Respondent(s).

Case No. 70790-6-1

A motion to Reconsideration

1. Sandy S. Ou and Henry Cheung, Appellants ask for the reconsidering of designated in Part 2.
2. Reconsideration of the mother and son's appeal, order post-secondary education support and decide the amount of support which would not cause a financial burden for the father.
3. Questions? Is that true that the total income of both parents is the main reason to deny the post-secondary education order? Do the rich parents need to pay the post-secondary support? But the poor parents don't need to pay post-secondary support as long as they say they have no money left? If so, rich parent's children go to college; poor parent's children cannot go to college, not even their dream choice of private university?
4. Let's look at the father's brief. The father says that: "this amount of money for my son Henry Cheung post-secondary education will cause a financial burden on my family. I do agree the post-secondary education is important to my son success. However, my wife and I wage and salaries $58,981 in 2012 file income tax return. My wife and I wage and salaries $57,666 in 2013 file income tax return." Ok. He does agree the post-secondary support is important to his son success. He also made a large research to look for the public universities in Florida during the trial court period. See his researched universities that he preferred like Daytona State College, Florida State University, University of Florida. See attached A, B and C. Respondent does want to affirmatively state that he intends to assist his son. He values education and is proud of his son and his academic achievements thus far. So he is in favor of contributing to his sons' postsecondary educations, but not to the extent that it creates a financial hardship to provide for his household as a result. So it is just a matter of support amount issue. Is $58,981 income too low for him? Otherwise should we leave our smart and deserving son without needed support?
5. This is a big misleading. The Father said: "Ms. Ou stated that she wants me to pay $1,497 a month for my son Henry Z Cheung post second-education at Embry-Riddle University." But the mother never asked for $1497 from the respondent in her whole brief. Please do not mislead by the respondent's reply. The mother's brief only asks the appeal court to order the father to pay motion

the post-secondary education support and decide the support amount because only the court has the power to do so.

There is another big mistake here. The $35000 a year is not the right figure. The court said: "The total net income of both parents together is $35,000 a year, and even—even with the—what Ms. Ou indicated that the—that the amount after grants and scholarship is about $26,000 a year, that's still two-thirds of the parents' net income." The total net income of both parents has much more than $35,000. Because the father's household adjustable income is $58,000, the mother's household adjustable income is $18,000. Last year and this year the mother has made a large different amount of income plus her company's income. The Tuition and fee expensive is actually less than $40,000. This amount included to live and eat in the school. This semester the smart boy chooses to share with 5 roommates to live in a 2 bedrooms apartment and cook on his own. He lives in the couch so he pays very little.

6. Your Honor, Please look at the 1998 child support order "reserved" the issue of postsecondary support: The right to petition for post-secondary support is reserved, provided that the right is exercised before support terminates.

2.5 Post Secondary Support

Does not apply.

The right to request post-secondary support was reserved in the support order and the Court needs to determine each parent's obligation;

The previous support order provided that the parents shall pay for post-secondary Support and the court needs to allocate the expenses;

Is this the best reason to order the post-secondary education support?

7. The father had been paying $538 child support each month without delay. He is very proud of it because it had no financial burden on him. Now why doesn't the court order the post-secondary education for at least that amount and maybe more as long as no financial burden on him? The right amount should be decided by our court, not by the mother and not by the father. But both parents need to provide the updated financial paper in order to let the court to make the right decision.

Your honor, please considerate the facts: the son has already been studying in the University for two semesters. Besides the financial aid and scholarship, the mother has been supporting their son alone by herself, providing a car to drive, paying all the expenses for the son's living. She has been exhausted, tired and sick. Does she have no financial burden at all? Why can the father go away from his support at this most critical time?

Your Honor, Please do not make this father inhumanity. Order the post-secondary education support and decide the amount.

Respectfully submitted,

Sandy Ou and Henry Cheung

 - Child support actually paid or received for other children from other relationships;
 - Gifts;
 - Prizes;

- Special needs of disabled children;
- Special medical, educational, or psychological needs of the children;

[] the parties have reached a written agreement which the court approves that provides for an alternate arrangement.

[] The Division of Child Support provides support enforcement services for this case [see 3.11] and there is good cause [as stated below under "Good Cause"] not to require immediate income withholding which is in the best interests of the child and, in modification cases, previously ordered child support has been timely paid:

The court finds that the obligor's child support obligations owed for all his or her biological or legal children exceed 45% of his or her net income and it is just unjust to apply the 45% limitation based upon the best interests of the child(ren) and the circumstances of each parent as follows:

3.6 Standard Calculation

$ _____ per month. (See Worksheet line 17.)

3.7 Reasons for Deviation From Standard Calculation

- The child support amount ordered in paragraph 3.5 does not deviate from the standard calculation.
- The child support amount ordered in paragraph 3.5 deviates from the standard calculation for the following reasons:
 - Income of a new spouse or new domestic partner of the parent requesting a deviation for other reasons;
 - Income of other adults in the household of the parent requesting a deviation for other reasons;
 - Child support actually paid or received for other child(ren) from other relationships;
 - Gifts;
 - Prizes;
 - Possession of wealth;
 - Extraordinary income of child(ren);
 - Tax planning which results in greater benefit to the child(ren);
 - Income from overtime or second jobs that was excluded from income of the parent requesting a deviation for other reasons;
 - A nonrecurring source of income;
 - Extraordinary debt not voluntarily incurred;
 - A significant disparity in the living costs of the parents due to conditions beyond their control;
 - Special needs of disabled child(ren);
 - Special medical, educational, or psychological needs of the child(ren);
 - The child(ren) spend(s) a significant amount of time with the parent who is obligated to make a support transfer payment. The deviation does not result in insufficient funds in the receiving parent's household to meet the basic needs of the child(ren). The child(ren) do(es) not receive public assistance;
 - Child(ren) from other relationships;
 - Costs incurred or anticipated to be incurred by the parents in compliance with court-ordered reunification efforts or under a voluntary placement agreement with an agency supervising the child(ren);
 - The obligor has established that it is unjust to apply the presumptive minimum payment of $50.00 per child;
 - The obligee has established that it is unjust to apply the self-support reserve.
 - Other reason(s) for deviation:

The factual basis for these reasons is as follows:

3.8 Reasons why Request for Deviation Was Denied

- Does not apply. A deviation was ordered.

- A deviation was not requested.
 The deviation sought by the obligor obligee was denied because:
 no good reason exists to justify deviation.
 other:

3.9 Starting Date and Day to Be Paid

Starting Date: 10/15/2012
Day(s) of the month support is due: 15th of each month

3.10 Incremental Payments

- Does not apply.
 This is a modification of child support. Pursuant to RCW 26.09.170 (9)(a) and (c), the obligation has been modified by more than 30 percent and the change would cause significant hardship. The increase in the child support obligation set forth in Paragraph 3.5 shall be implemented in two equal increments, one at the time of this order and the second on (date) _____ six months from the entry of this order.

3.11 Making Support Payments

Select Enforcement and Collection, Payment Services Only, or Direct Payment:

- Enforcement and collection: The Division of Child Support (DCS) provides support enforcement services for this case because: this is a public assistance case, this is a case in which a parent has requested services from DCS, a parent has signed the application for services from DCS on the last page of this support order. (Check all that apply.) Support payments shall be made to:

Washington State Support Registry
P. O. Box 45868
Olympia, WA 98504
Phone: 1-800-922-4306 or
1-800-442-5437

- Payment services only: The Division of Child Support will process and keep a record of all payments but will not take any collection action. Support payments shall be made to:

Washington State Support Registry
P. O. Box 45868
Olympia, WA 98504
Phone: 1-800-922-4306 or
1-800-442-5437

- Direct Payment: Support payments shall be made directly to:

Name _____
Mailing Address _____

A party required to make payments to the Washington State Support Registry will not receive credit for a payment made to any other party or entity. The obligor parent shall keep the registry informed whether he or she has access to health insurance coverage at reasonable cost and, if so, to provide the health insurance policy information.

Any time the Division of Child Support is providing support enforcement services under RCW 26.23.045, or if a party is applying for support enforcement services by signing the application form on the bottom of the support order, the receiving parent might be required to submit an accounting of how the support, including any cash medical support, is being spent to benefit the child(ren).

3.12 Wage Withholding Action

Withholding action may be taken against wages, earnings, assets, or benefits, and liens enforced against real and personal property under the child support statutes of this or any other state, without further notice to the obligor parent at any time after entry of this order unless an alternative provision is made below:

[If the court orders immediate wage withholding in a case where Division of Child Support does not provide support enforcement services, a mandatory wage assignment under Chapter 26.18 RCW must be entered and support payments must be made to the Support Registry.]

- Wage withholding, by notice of payroll deduction or other income withholding action under Chapter 26.18 RCW or Chapter 74.20A RCW, without further notice to the obligor, is delayed until a payment is past due, because:
- the parties have reached a written agreement that the court approves that provides for an alternate arrangement.
 - the Division of Child Support provides support enforcement services for this case [see 3.11] and there is good cause [as stated below under "Good Cause"] not to require immediate income withholding which is in the best interests of the child(ren) and, in modification cases, previously ordered child support has been timely paid.
 - the Division of Child Support does not provide support enforcement services for this case [see 3.11] and there is good cause [as stated below under "Good Cause"] not to require immediate income withholding.

Good Cause:

3.13 Termination of Support

Support shall be paid:

- provided that this is a temporary order, until a subsequent child support order is entered by this court.
- until the child(ren) reach(es) the age of 18 or as long as the child(ren) remain(s) enrolled in high school, whichever occurs last, except as otherwise provided below in Paragraph

- 3.14.
- until the child(ren) reach(es) the age of 18, except as otherwise provided below in Paragraph 3.14.
 - after the age of 18 for (name) Henry Cheung who is a dependent adult child, until the child is capable of self-support and the necessity for support ceases.
 - until the obligation for post secondary support set forth in Paragraph 3.14 begins for the child(ren).
 - Other:

3.14 Post Secondary Educational Support

- The right to request post secondary support is reserved, provided that the right is exercised before support terminates as set forth in paragraph 3.13.
- The parents shall pay for the post secondary educational support of the child(ren). Post secondary support provisions will be decided by agreement or by the court.
- No post secondary educational support shall be required.
- Other:

- Does not apply because all payments, except medical, are included in the transfer payment.

A. Evidence
 (1) There is insufficient evidence for the court to determine which parent must provide coverage and which parent must contribute a sum certain. Therefore, the court is not specifying how insurance coverage shall be provided. The petitioner’s and respondent’s medical support obligations may be enforced by the Division of Child Support or the other parent under RCW 26.18.170 as described in paragraph 3.18.2, below.

OR

(2) There is sufficient evidence for the court to determine which parent must provide coverage and which parent must contribute a sum certain. Fill in B and C below.

B. Findings about insurance:

- Does not apply because A (1) is checked, above.
- The court makes the following findings:

__ Hung K. Cheung (Parent’s Name)	__ Sandy S. Ou (Parent’s Name)	Check at least one of the following findings for each parent.
[x]		Insurance coverage for the child(ren) is available and accessible to this parent at $ 20 cost (child(ren)’s portion of the premium, only).

<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	Other:

C. Parties' obligations:

- Does not apply because A (1) is checked above.
 The court makes the following orders:

[x]	[]	This parent shall provide health insurance coverage for the child(ren) that is available through employment or is union-related as long as the cost of such coverage does not exceed 25% of this parent's basic support obligation.
[]	[]	This parent shall provide health insurance coverage for the child(ren) that is available through employment or is union-related even though the cost of such coverage exceeds 25% of this parent's basic support obligation. []	[]	This parent shall provide private health insurance coverage for the child(ren) even though the cost of such coverage exceeds 25% of this parent's basic support obligation. It is in the best interests of the child(ren) to provide such coverage despite the cost because :

This amount is this parent's proportionate share of the premium or 25% of this parent's basic support obligation, whichever is less. This payment is only required if this parent is not providing insurance as described above.
[]	[]	This parent's contribution to the health insurance premium is calculated in the Worksheet and included in the transfer payment.
[]	[x]	This parent shall be excused from the responsibility to provide health insurance coverage and from the responsibility to provide monthly payment towards the premium because : This parent has been provided health insurance for more than 15 years. Now the insurance will stopped after the child reach to age 19. This parent has no union and no health insurant hor herself either. (Only one parent may be excused.)

D. Both parties' obligation:

If the child(ren) are receiving state financed medical coverage, the Division of Child Support may enforce the responsible parent's monthly premium.

The parent(s) shall maintain health insurance coverage, if available for the child(ren) listed in paragraph 3.1, until further order of the court or until health insurance is no longer available through the parents' employer or union and no conversion privileges exist to continue coverage following termination of employment.

A parent who is required under this order to provide health insurance coverage is liable for any covered health care costs for which that parent receives direct payment from an insurer.

A parent who is required under this order to provide health insurance coverage shall provide proof that such coverage is available or not available within 20 days of the entry of this order to the other parent or the Washington State Support Registry if the parent has been notified or ordered to make payments to the Washington State Support Registry.

If proof that health insurance coverage is available or not available is not provided within 20 days, the parent seeking enforcement or the Department of Social and Health Services may seek direct enforcement of the coverage through the other parent's employer or union without further notice to the other parent as provided under Chapter 26.18 RCW.

3.18.2 Change of Circumstances and Enforcement

A parent required to provide health insurance coverage must notify both the Division of Child Support and the other parent when coverage terminates.

If the parents' circumstances change, or if the court has not specified how medical support shall be provided, the parents' medical support obligations will be enforced as provided in RCW 26.18.170. If a parent does not provide proof of accessible coverage for the child(ren) through private insurance, a parent may be required to satisfy his or her medical support obligation by doing one of the following, listed in order of priority:

- 1) Providing or maintaining health insurance coverage through the parent's employment or union at a cost not to exceed 25% of that parent's basic support obligation;

Statements of the Case

Ms. Ou stated that she want me to pay $1,497 a month for my son Henry Z Chung post-secondary education at Embry-Riddle University.

Argument

Your Honor, my financial income will not be able to support my son Henry Z Cheung post-secondary education expense. Sandy S. Ou and my son Henry Z Cheung want me to pay $1,497 a month to pay for post-secondary education at private university Embry-Riddle.

This amount of money for my son Henry Z Cheung post-secondary education will cause a financial burden on my family. I do agree the post-secondary education is important to my son success. However, my wife and I wage and salaries 58,981 in 2012 file income tax return. My wife and I wage and salaries 57,666 in 2013 file income tax return. My wife and I earn income need to support my current family of 5.

My wife and I earn income support my current family expense. This includes my wife's parent who is living with us and my eight year old son. My wife's parents are both unemployed and have no source of income to support themselves. Because of this reason my income cannot support my son Henry Z Cheung post-secondary education. If I am forced to pay for my son Henry Z Cheung post-secondary education will cause financial hardship to my current family.

Summary of Monthly expense

- Monthly mortgage expense $1,800
- Car Insurance $150.00
- Car loan $260.00
- Fuel expense $400.00
- Utilities $370.00
- Food $700.00
- Union Dues and medical $200.00
- Family expense $400.00

12 proof of expenses???

Total Monthly expense ~~4280~~

My wife and I earn monthly income before tax is ~~4280~~ My wife and I income pay monthly expense of $4280 to support my current family will have no money left to pay for my son Henry Z Cheung post-secondary education. I asking your honor to denied the motion because of the financial responsibility to my current family.

1 (Thursday July 18, 2013, 1:36 p.m.)

2 (This transcript contains multiple indiscernibles
3 due to the poor quality of the telephonic connection)

4 THE CLERK: We're on -- Number 1, Sandy Ou v. Hung
5 Cheung.

6 MS. OU: Yes.

7 THE CLERK: I do have Ms. Ou on the line, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

9 THE CLERK: And this is Case Number 993054150.

10 MR. GRIFFIN: Good after, Your Honor. For the 11 record, I'm Jim Griffin appearing on behalf of the Respondent.

12 THE COURT: Give me just a minute.

13 Ms. Ou, if you have any trouble hearing, please let 14 me know, and we have had --

15 MS. OU: No problem.

16 THE COURT: We have had some problems with -- with 17 this phone dropping calls. We have a new phone system, so I 18 just want to let you know that in advance.

19 Did you call in or did the court call you?

20 MS. OU: The court call me, and then I gave the court
21 a different number. This is the best phone I have here.

22 THE COURT: Okay. If we get disconnected just wait
23 and we will call you back, okay?

24 MS. OU: I will. Thank you.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MS. OU: Thank you, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: Let me just get set up here. I'm just 3 getting organized a little bit, in case you're wondering why
4 you're not hearing anything, Ms. Ou. We'll be ready in just a 5 second.

6 Okay. You'll each have ten minutes to speak. I want
7 to remind you that -- Ms. Ou, that you cannot testify at this 8 hearing. The only thing that you are allowed to refer to, as 9 far as the facts, are what you've submitted to the Court in 10 writing already.

11 You'll each have ten minutes to speak and if you 12 would like to -- since you're the moving party, you get to 13 start. If you would like to reserve a little bit of time to 14 respond to what Mr. Griffin has to say I'll -- I can give you
15 that opportunity, and let you know when seven minutes is up so 16 that you can save a few minutes.

17 Is that what you'd like to do?

18 MS. OU: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay. You go ahead then.

20 MS. OU: Yes.

21 So my son is getting ready to go to college, and he 22 needs to have financial help from me and his father, and he's 23 quite interested in Embry-Riddle University, and this is -- 24 this college has the best aerospace engineering in the -- in 25 the United States. It's the best one, so -- and that's his

1 dream. He want to -- he want to study the engineering --
2 aerospace engineering and the total cost -- this is the 3 (indiscernible) university and the total cost is more than 4 46,000 a year, almost, and it's in Florida state.

5 My son just -- school scholarship and also the 6 financial aid and also another scholarship, total almost -- can 7 pay half for that total, but after that we still need to 8 working on half of those monies. And my ex-husband and I,
9 we -- we have to share and support the -- the tuition fees for 10 my son to finish that. My son already finish one year college 11 credit, and he just needs three more years to finish the 12 college and also the university credits required. That's all 13 he needs and after that he can -- he can be on his feet.

14 And I submit all the paperwork through the online
15 system, and I believe I submit all I need and I just need Your 16 Honor to decide if I can -- if my son can get a financial 17 support from his father. And the total we -- I ask -- 18 calculate that his father's needs to pay 1497 per month to 19 support him --

20 THE COURT: Did you say $1497 per month?

21 MS. OU: Yes.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. OU: And I will support $659 a month for three 24 years --

25 THE COURT: You said --

1 deny the request for post-secondary support.

2 I'm going to have Mr. Griffin prepare an order which
3 reflects the Court's ruling, Ms. Ou, and we'll send you a copy
4 of it. Thank you.

5 MR. GRIFFIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: That concludes the hearing.

7 MS. OU: That's unbelievable.
