I. INTRODUCTION

Appellant BSRE Point Wells, L.P. (“BSRE”) owns approximately 61 acres on Point Wells,¹ in the extreme southwest corner of Snohomish County. The site is bordered by Puget Sound on the west, the City of Shoreline (“Shoreline”) in King County on the south, and the Town of Woodway (“Woodway”) on the north and east. For decades the site has been used for industrial purposes as a petroleum storage facility, and storage tanks remain there today. In 2007, BSRE’s predecessor in interest, Paramount of Washington,² sought a re-designation of the Point Wells site on the Snohomish County (“County”) comprehensive plan map from an industrial designation to one that would allow it to redevelop the site with residential and commercial uses. By separate actions in 2009 and 2010, the County Council granted that request. It adopted ordinances under the authority of the Growth Management Act (“GMA”) (chapter 36.70A RCW) re-designating the Point Wells site as an “Urban Center” on the County’s comprehensive plan map in 2009. It adopted implementing Urban Center development regulations allowing mixed use development and rezoned the property to an Urban Center zone in 2010.

Neighboring jurisdictions Shoreline and Woodway, as well as Save Richmond Beach (also “SRB”), a neighborhood group of citizens in Shoreline opposed to BSRE's plans, challenged the County's enactments. They appealed the County's 2009 and 2010 ordinances to the growth management hearings board (also "Board" and "growth board"). While those appeals were pending with the Board but before the Board made a decision, BSRE filed permit applications with the County for a mixed use development on the site relying on the new Urban Center comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations then on appeal before the Board.

² For ease of reference, the property owner will be referred to herein as BSRE. However, some of the events discussed took place when the property was owned by Paramount of Washington.

On April 25, 2011, the Board issued a decision ("Final Decision and Order" or "FDO"), ruling that the County's challenged enactments were adopted partly in violation of the GMA and the State Environmental Policy Act ("SEPA")(chapter 43.21C RCW). The Board additionally found the challenged comprehensive plan provisions, but not the development regulations, "invalid" under the GMA, and remanded the enactments to the County for further action to bring them into compliance with the GMA and SEPA. The Board issued a Corrected FDO on May 17, 2011.

Under RCW 36.70A.302(2), a provision of the GMA, the Legislature has clearly established that a property owner may file development permit applications relying on adopted comprehensive plan and development regulation provisions then on appeal before the Board, thereby insulating its vested development rights under those challenged provisions from a later Board decision in that appeal. In this case, BSRE availed itself of that GMA provision and filed complete applications for an Urban Centers development on the Point Wells site to vest those development rights. Thus, prior to the Board's issuance of its FDO, BSRE had filed complete permit applications fully vesting its development rights under the County's Urban Centers plan provisions and development regulations.

Woodway and SRB were dissatisfied that through RCW 36.70A.302(2) the Legislature would allow BSRE to vest development rights under the County's legislative enactments that the Board later found were adopted partially in violation of the GMA and SEPA. Accordingly, five months after the Board issued its FDO, Woodway and SRB filed a Complaint for Declaratory Judgment and Injunctive Relief.³ In that Complaint, they sought a court order declaring that BSRE had vested no development rights under the County's Urban Centers legislative provisions that the Board later found were adopted in partial violation of the GMA and SEPA. In other words, Woodway and SRB sought a judicial determination that RCW 36.70A.302(2) did not mean what it said - its lawsuit asked a judge to issue an order trumping the Legislature.

The County and BSRE filed summary judgment motions requesting the court to dismiss the Complaint. Woodway and SRB filed a concurrent motion for summary judgment seeking the relief requested in the Complaint. Following arguments, King County Judge Dean S. Lum issued an order on November 23, ³ Shoreline, a co-petitioner in the growth board appeal, did not join in this action.

2011, denying the County's and BSRE's motions, and granting that of Woodway and SRB.⁴

Nullifying black letter statutory law, the trial court rewrote the GMA, ruling that BSRE's permit applications (which were deemed vested when filed) instead were not vested to the County's recently amended comprehensive plan and development regulation provisions then on appeal before the Board. That ruling is squarely contrary to the explicit language of RCW 36.70A.302(2). Instead of granting the County's and BSRE's summary judgment motions and dismissing the Complaint, the trial court granted the Plaintiffs' motion, issuing an injunction halting the County's processing of BSRE's Urban Centers applications. The trial court's ruling was erroneous and must be reversed by this court.

II. ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

Snohomish County makes the following assignments of error:

- A. The trial court erred by denying the County's and BSRE's Motions for Summary Judgment.
- B. The trial court erred by granting Woodway's summary judgment motion.
- C. The trial court erroneously held that a landowner's development permit application is not entitled to the benefits of Washington's vesting rules if the growth board later determines that the ordinances that application relies upon were enacted without fully complying with SEPA procedures.

⁴ The County will henceforth refer to Woodway and Save Richmond Beach collectively as "Woodway," except when referring to pleadings filed solely by SRB.

III. ISSUES PERTAINING TO ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

The issues pertaining to the County's assignments of error are as follows:

- A. Whether a landowner's development application vests to a local jurisdiction's land use comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations at the time a complete application is filed, even if a growth board subsequently determines that the local jurisdiction did not fully comply with SEPA's procedural requirements in its enactment of those plan provisions and regulations that the landowner relies on for its application.
- B. Whether Washington's vested rights doctrine and the GMA allow a landowner to have its project considered under the land use ordinances in effect at the time of the filing of a complete application.
- C. Whether a trial court commits reversible error when it determines that Washington's vested rights doctrine, as codified in the GMA, does not apply when the subject legislative enactments relied upon by a project applicant is later determined by a growth board to have been adopted in violation of SEPA's procedural requirements.
- D. Whether the trial court committed reversible error in enjoining Snohomish County from processing BSRE's permit application.

IV. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The County incorporates by reference the Statement of the Case in the Brief of Appellant BSRE.

V. SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

The GMA contains a series of statutes which govern appeals of county and city legislative enactments to the Board. One of those provisions is RCW 36.70A.302(2). That statute contains express provisions describing what happens to land use permit applications that are filed with counties and cities relying on recently adopted GMA enactments (comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations) that are then being challenged in an administrative appeal before the Board. RCW 36.70A.302(2) states that those complete and filed applications vest to those challenged plan provisions and regulations regardless of how the Board later rules in the administrative appeal. In this case, over a month after BSRE's Urban Centers permit application was filed the Board ruled that the challenged comprehensive plan provisions violated the GMA and SEPA, and the development regulations were adopted in violation of SEPA. Under RCW 36.70A.302(2), the Board's ruling was irrelevant to BSRE's permit applications. Those applications had already vested and could not be affected by the Board's FDO.

Before the trial court, Woodway posed the novel argument that RCW 36.70A.302(2) does not mean what it says. Instead, Woodway argued that once the Board found the County's Urban Centers plan provisions and development regulations were adopted in violation of SEPA, any permit applications that had been filed relying on them were "void." Woodway argued that BSRE could vest no development rights relying on those plan and regulatory provisions, and further that a superior court had authority in an independent action to declare those permit applications void and enjoin their processing. Woodway relied for this argument on SEPA case law from the 1970s and 1980s, holding that permits issued in violation of SEPA were void. Grafting that dated, pre-GMA case law onto the law related to Board appeals in 2011, Woodway argued that the effect of the Board's finding of SEPA noncompliance was that BSRE's applications were "void," i.e., they became somehow "unvested," and the County could no longer process them.

However, Woodway's old authorities involved different and inapplicable fact situations and did not address the crucial vesting question at issue in this case. More importantly, Woodway's authorities all pre-date the GMA, and in particular the 1997 enactment of RCW 36.70A.302(2), which controls this case. That statute is clear: a complete land use application relying on GMA enactments which are on appeal to the Board vest to those enactments on the date of filing of the application. Those complete and filed applications, once vested, cannot become "unvested" by a later Board ruling. There are no exceptions to the vesting rule in RCW 36.70A.302(2), not for SEPA or any other reason. The GMA does not allow for an exception to this strict vesting rule based on SEPA because the Legislature made a policy choice not to make such an exception. The trial court's ruling was contrary to established law and must be reversed.

VI. ARGUMENT

A. Standard of Review.

On an appeal from summary judgment, the Court of Appeals engages in the same inquiry as the trial court, and the standard of review is de novo. Bainbridge Citizens United v. Washington State Dept. of Natural Resources, 147 Wn. App. 365, 371, 198 P.3d 1033 (2008) (citing Hisle v. Todd Pac. Shipyards Corp., 151 Wn.2d 853, 860, 93 P.3d 108 (2004)). It is the reviewing court's duty to correctly apply the law, and the court is not confined by the legal issues and theories that the parties argued. Id., [citing King County v. Boundary Review Bd., 122 Wn.2d 648, 670, 860 P.2d 1024 (1993) (applying Maynard Inv. Co. v. McCann, 77 Wn.2d 616, 623, 465 P.2d 657 (1970))].

On review of a summary judgment in which there are no disputed material facts, the appellate court, under CR 56(c), determines if the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Federated American Ins. Co. v. Erickson, 67 Wn. App. 670, 672, 838 P.2d 693 (1992). Here, the parties are in agreement that there are no genuine issues of material fact; this Court's decision is purely a legal determination.

B. Because BSRE's Development Permit Applications Were Filed Prior to the Issuance of the Growth Board's FDO, They Are Vested to the County's Urban Center Ordinances. (Assignments of Error II.A and C).

BSRE's development permit applications were filed with the County and deemed both complete and consistent with County regulations prior to the issuance of the Board's FDO.⁵ That is the crucial fact in this case, and is dispositive of its outcome. Under this state's vested rights doctrine, as articulated by clear statutory language in the GMA, BSRE's applications were "vested" to the County regulations in existence on the date of filing, and must be considered under those regulations.

1. The Vested Rights Doctrine in Washington.

In Washington, "(a) property owner has a vested right to use his property under the terms of the zoning ordinance applicable thereto."⁶ Under this rule, when a property owner files a permit application with a county or city, there are only two inquiries: (1) is the application complete; and (2) does the application comply with the law in effect on the date of application? If the answer to both questions is yes, the local government is obligated to issue the permit.⁷

⁶ State ex rel. Ogden v. City of Bellevue, 45 Wn.2d 492, 495, 275 P.2d 899 (1954).

⁷ Roger D. Wynne, "Washington's Vested Rights Doctrine: How We Have Muddled a Simple Concept and How We Can Reclaim It," 24 Seattle U. L. Rev. 851, 858-59 (2001).

Washington's vested rights rule was founded on the notions of fairness and certainty. The bright line "date of filing" rule was fair because it balanced the interests of the developer with those of the public. As stated by the Washington Supreme Court in Erickson & Associates v. McLerran, 123 Wn.2d 864, 873-74, 872 P.2d 1090 (1994):

Development interests . . . protected by the vested rights doctrine come at a cost to the public interest. The practical effect of recognizing a vested right is to sanction the creation of a new nonconforming use. A proposed development which does not conform to newly adopted laws is, by definition, inimical to the public interest embodied in those laws. If a vested right is too easily granted, the public interest is subverted.

This court recognized the tension between public and private interests when it adopted Washington's vested rights doctrine. The court balanced the private property . . . rights against the public interest by selecting a vesting point which prevents "permit speculation," and which demonstrates substantial commitment by the developer, such that the good faith of the applicant is generally assured. The application for a building permit demonstrates the requisite level of commitment.

The rule provided certainty because it was easy to administer. This reason was cited in one of the early cases explaining why the Washington Supreme Court chose this "bright line" vesting rule over the rule adopted in some other states which evaluated how much time and money the developer had expended:

Notwithstanding the weight of authority, we prefer to have a date certain upon which the right vests to construct in accordance with the building permit. We prefer not to adopt a rule which forces the court to search through . . . the moves and countermoves of . . . parties . . . by way of passing ordinances and bringing actions for injunctions – to which may be added the stalling or acceleration of administrative action in the issuance of permits – to find that date upon which the substantial change of position is made which finally vests the right. The more practical rule to administer, we feel, is that the right vests when the party . . . applies for his building permit.⁸

Freezing in time the law applicable to a local government's consideration of a filed application assures predictability and certainty for the permit applicant.⁹

Initially, the vested rights doctrine applied only to building permits.¹⁰ However, over the course of the late 1960s and 1970s, the rule was extended to conditional use permit applications,¹¹ grading permit applications,¹² shoreline substantial development permit applications¹³ and septic tank permit applications.¹⁴ In 1987, the Legislature extended the rule to preliminary subdivisions,¹⁵ and codified the doctrine's application to building permits.¹⁶

The vested rights doctrine does not apply to all types of applications. It is inapplicable to highly discretionary applications such as rezones,¹⁷ as well as to binding site plan approval requests unaccompanied by building permit applications¹⁸ and master use permits.¹⁹ However, it is uncontroverted that the vested rights doctrine applies to the permit applications filed by BSRE in this case.²⁰

2. Washington's Vested Rights Rule, as Codified in the GMA, Insulates Vested Permit Applications from Later Board Rulings Concerning the Legislative Enactments Upon Which Those Permit Applications Rely.

a. Under the GMA, all SEPA Challenges Must Be Raised With GMA Challenges at the Time of the Appeal to the Board.

The Legislature adopted the GMA in 1990.²¹ It was adopted amid great controversy, with environmental groups demanding state regulation of land use and other interest groups staunchly defending the status quo.²² The GMA imposed obligations on counties required or choosing to plan under it to adopt comprehensive plans and development regulations to carry out the goals and requirements of the GMA.²³ In 1991, the Legislature amended the GMA, adopting provisions allowing administrative appeals of plans and development regulations to a hearings board.²⁴ From this early date, the Legislature provided that the growth management hearings boards had jurisdiction to review petitions alleging that a plan or development regulation was adopted not only in violation of the requirements of the GMA, but of SEPA (“A growth . . . board shall hear and determine only those petitions alleging either: (a) That a state agency, county, or city is not in compliance with the requirements of this chapter, or chapter 43.21C RCW as it relates to plans, regulations, and amendments thereto, adopted under RCW 36.70A.040;”²⁵). This provision, as codified at RCW 36.70A.280(1), now reads:

The growth management hearings board shall hear and determine only those petitions alleging either: (a) That, . . . a state agency, county or city planning under this chapter is not in compliance with the requirements of this chapter, chapter 90.58 RCW as it relates to the adoption of shoreline master programs or amendments thereto, or chapter 43.21C RCW as it relates to plans, development regulations, or amendments, adopted under RCW 36.70A.040²⁶

Thus, from the outset, the Legislature clearly said that the Board had authority to review challenges to legislative enactments based on both GMA and SEPA grounds.

b. Under the GMA's 1995 Legislation Imposing a Determination of Invalidity, a Board Finding of a Violation of SEPA in the Adoption of the Underlying Legislative Enactments Does Not Impact Vested Development Rights.

The Legislature amended the GMA every year during the 1990s,²⁷ perhaps because, “unlike SEPA and SMA (Shoreline Management Act), GMA was spawned by controversy, not consensus.”²⁸ In 1994, Governor Lowry’s Task Force on Regulatory Reform issued a report which became the focus of landmark land use legislation during the 1995 legislative session. Part of that report focused on the issue of property owners and developers being able to vest development rights by filing permit applications relying on legislation adopted by counties and cities under the GMA while that legislation was on administrative appeal to the growth boards and further appeal to court. Environmental interest groups believed property owners and developers should have no right to develop land until the final decision maker on appeal (either the board or a reviewing court) found the challenged legislative provisions to be compliant with the GMA. Property owners and developers believed that, consistent with the State’s vested rights doctrine, they should be able to file permit applications and vest development rights as long as that legislation was in effect. The Task Force recommended that “a comprehensive plan or ²⁸ Id. at 34.

development regulation which is found to be invalid should remain in effect, unless the Growth Management Hearings Board determines that continued enforcement of plan would violate the policy of the GMA.”²⁹ The Task Force thus recommended leaving the individual determination of the imposition of a determination of invalidity to the Board on a case-by-case basis.³⁰

Following receipt of the Governor’s Task Force Report, the 1995 Legislature adopted legislation broadly integrating growth management planning and environmental review.³¹ The legislation amended the GMA, SEPA and the Shoreline Management Act.³² Additionally, it adopted entire new chapters imposing regulatory reform on permit processing,³³ and providing for an entirely new method of appealing local land use permit decisions through the Land Use Petition Act.³⁴

One of the 1995 amendments to the GMA responded to the recommendation of the Governor’s Task Force Report by giving the growth management hearings boards the authority to issue a determination of invalidity.³⁵ The Legislature adopted a compromise approach, choosing to keep intact the ability of developers to vest permit applications during the pendency of any appeal of the challenged legislation to the Board. However, if the Board found that a plan provision or development regulation was noncompliant with the GMA or SEPA, and additionally found that it substantially interfered with the fulfillment of the goals of the GMA, the Board could issue a determination of invalidity on that portion of the challenged plan or regulation. In that event, no further development applications could vest from the date of the Board's invalidity order until the county or city adopted new legislation which the Board found no longer met the invalidity test. As adopted, that provision read:

(2) A finding of noncompliance and an order of remand shall not affect the validity of comprehensive plans and development regulations during the period of remand, unless the board's final order also:

(a) Includes a determination, supported by findings of fact and conclusions of law, that the continued validity of the plan or regulation would substantially interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of this chapter; and

(b) Specifies the particular part or parts of the plan or regulation that are determined to be invalid, and the reasons for their invalidity.

(3) A determination of invalidity shall:

(a) Be prospective in effect and shall not extinguish rights that vested under state or local law before the date of the board's order; and

(b) Subject any development application that would otherwise vest after the date of the board's order to the local ordinance or resolution that both is enacted in response to the order of remand and determined by the board pursuant to RCW 36.70A.330 to comply with the requirements of this chapter.³⁶

³⁶ Laws of 1995, Ch. 347, Sec. 110; former RCW 36.70A.300(2), (3)(emphasis added).

Through this statutory language, the Legislature gave the Board the additional remedy of imposing a determination of invalidity, but left intact Washington's vested rights rule that applications that had already been filed and were vested to the challenged enactments remained vested regardless of the outcome of any pending appeal to the Board.

Tellingly, the Legislature restricted the Board's authority to issue a determination of invalidity to only those instances where the challenged enactment would "substantially interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of [the GMA]." Following the recommendation of the Governor's Task Force that invalidity be limited to those situations where continued enforcement of the challenged plan "would violate the policy of the GMA," and after substantial public input and vetting of the proposed legislation during the 1995 session, the Legislature determined that the remedy of invalidity should only be invoked in those extreme circumstances where the county or city enactment would "substantially interfere with the fulfillment of the goals" of the GMA.³⁷

After a thorough review of the legislative history of the invalidity provision in 1995, the County found no evidence that a violation of SEPA in the adoption of the challenged enactment was ever considered by the Legislature as grounds for a determination of invalidity. This is undoubtedly because although compliance with SEPA is a required component of adopting a legislative land use enactment, it is only a procedural requirement.³⁸ As stated in Moss v. City of Bellingham, 109 Wn. App. 6, 14, 31 P.3d 703 (2001), “SEPA does not demand a particular substantive result in governmental decision making; rather, it ensures that environmental values are given appropriate consideration.” Simply put, a procedural SEPA violation did not rise to the type of substantive violation of GMA principles that the Legislature was concerned about in its enactment of the invalidity provision.³⁹

Despite the fact that the Regulatory Reform Act of 1995 was adopted in part to integrate SEPA with other land use laws, and despite the fact that RCW 36.70A.280(1) clearly gave the growth boards the authority to rule on violations of SEPA as well as GMA, the Legislature did not extend the invoking of a determination of invalidity to include violations of SEPA. Thus, the Legislature decided that a procedural violation of SEPA, by itself, was not grounds for a determination of invalidity.⁴⁰

³⁸ SORE v. Snohomish County, 99 Wn.2d 363, 371, 662 P.2d 816 (1983)(“SEPA is essentially a procedural statute to ensure that environmental impacts and alternatives are properly considered by the decision makers.”)

³⁹ The GMA goals, codified in RCW 36.70A.020, do not contain any reference to a violation of SEPA. However, GMA Goal 10 concerns environmental issues (“Protect the environment and enhance the state’s high quality of life, including air and water quality, and the availability of water”). This Court, in Davidson Serles & Associates v. Central Puget Sound Growth Management Hearings Board, 159 Wn. App. 148, 158, 224 P.3d 1003 (2010), noted that “(o)n the appropriate facts, the Board could find that failure to properly conduct the required environmental review for a city or county action” justified a declaration of invalidity based on substantial interference with the fulfillment of that goal. However, none of the petitioners before the Board raised Goal 10 as grounds for invalidity in challenging the County’s enactments. CP 131-44 (Corrected FDO, pp. 39-52).

c. The 1997 Legislature Reaffirmed the Rule that Vested Permit Applications Cannot be Affected by a Later Determination of Invalidity.

The issue of allowing permit applications to vest while challenged enactments were on appeal to the growth board was not laid to rest by the adoption of the 1995 invalidity statute. The Legislature was sufficiently concerned about the impacts of allowing vesting of permit applications to comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations that were on appeal that it ordered the Land Use Study Commission, established by that same 1995 legislation, to study that issue and make a report on it:

The commission shall: . . .

(4) Monitor instances state-wide of the vesting of project permit applications during the period that an appeal is pending before a growth management hearings board, as authorized under RCW 36.70A.300. The commission shall also review the extent to which such vesting results in the approval of projects that are inconsistent with a comprehensive plan or development regulation provision ultimately found to be in compliance with a board's order or remand. The commission shall analyze the impact of such approvals on ensuring the attainment of the goals and policies of chapter 36.70A RCW, and make recommendations to the governor and the legislature on statutory changes to address any adverse impacts from the provisions of RCW 36.70A.300. The commission shall provide an initial report on its findings and recommendations by November 1, 1995, and submit its further findings and recommendations subsequently in the reports required under Section 803 of this act.⁴¹

⁴¹ Laws of 1995, Ch. 347, Sec. 804(4); former RCW 90.61.040(4).

The Land Use Study Commission's 1995 report failed to report on this topic due to lack of these permitting instances during 1995, and indicated it would report back in its 1996 Annual Report.⁴²

In its 1996 Annual Report, the Land Use Study Commission made the following finding and recommendation regarding invalidity:

Since their creation, the Boards have had the authority to determine that plans or regulations do not comply with the GMA. This authority led to concerns about the effect of a decision of non-compliance on permit applications and projects that are dependent upon those plans or regulations. The Legislature sought to clarify this impact in 1995 by providing that a determination of non-compliance did not apply to permits unless the Board made a specific finding that the plan or regulation was invalid. This order only applies to permits filed after the date of the Board's order. Those projects are subject to the plan or regulations determined by the Board as complying with the GMA. The Boards have issued approximately 10 invalidity orders since the authority was granted to them.

The exercise of this authority has proven to be a potent tool for encouraging compliance with the GMA. However, it has also proven to be a focus for complaints that the Boards are undermining the original purpose of the GMA that local elected officials should make the planning decisions for their communities. The options considered by the Commission to address this authority ranged from eliminating the authority, to allowing projects to be reviewed under the goals and policies of the GMA until a new plan or development regulations are approved, to clarifying the types of permits affected and not affected by the order.

RECOMMENDATION:

The Commission recommends the authority to invalidate comprehensive plans should remain with the Boards. It is recommending changes that clarify that projects that vested prior to the determination are not affected by the order, exempt some types of permits from the effect of a determination of invalidity, and clarify the options available to a local government to have an order lifted.⁴³

The 1997 Legislature re-codified the GMA's invalidity provisions in a new, stand-alone section of the Act, RCW 36.70A.302.⁴⁴ The Legislature retained the grounds for finding invalidity (substantial interference with the fulfillment of the GMA goals) in subsection (1) of RCW 36.70A.302. The vested rights provision was codified in subsection (2) of new section .302. It reads as follows:

A determination of invalidity is prospective in effect and does not extinguish rights that vested under state or local law before receipt of the board's order by the city or county. The determination of invalidity does not apply to a completed development permit application for a project that vested under state or local law before receipt of the board's order by the county or city or to related construction permits for that project.

RCW 36.70A.302(2) (emphasis added). The sentence related to vesting adopted by the 1995 Legislature was moved, with little change, to the first sentence of new RCW 36.70A.302(2). Then, responding to the Land Use Study Commission's recommendation in its 1996 Annual Report that the Legislature clarify with even greater emphasis that "projects that vested prior to the determination [of invalidity] are not affected by the order," the 1997 Legislature added the second sentence to RCW 36.70A.302(2), specifically providing that a “determination of invalidity does not apply to a completed development permit application for a project that vested under state or local law before receipt of the board’s order.”⁴⁵

The Land Use Study Commission issued a Final Report on December 30, 1998, which included a “Study of the Impact of Vesting During GMHB Appeals.”⁴⁶ It found that allowing permit applications to vest during the time of appeal had either little, or only localized, impact.⁴⁷ It recommended no further changes to the invalidity provisions.⁴⁸

d. Subsequent Efforts to Amend the GMA Vesting Provisions Have Been Unavailing.

RCW 36.70A.302(2) remains unchanged from 1997 to this date. However, that does not mean that the effort to prevent vesting of development rights during the period of board appeals has gone away. To the contrary, that debate has continued, as exemplified by several recent unsuccessful legislative proposals to change the vesting laws led by State Senator Adam Kline.

In the 2007 session, companion bills SB 5507 and HB 1463, Section 4, would have amended RCW 36.70A.302 to make a board determination of invalidity retroactive, applying to land use permit decisions that occurred relying on the legislative enactments the board found invalid. See Appendix A, attached hereto. However, the bills did not advance beyond committee.

Then in the 2008 session, companion bills SB 6784 and HB 3202, Section 2, would have amended RCW 36.70A.290 to provide that no development rights vested during the 60-day period for appeal of a legislative enactment to the growth board, or in the event of an appeal, until the board issues a decision upholding such enactment, whichever was later. See Appendix B, attached hereto. Again, the bills did not advance beyond committee.

Yet again, during the 2009 session, SB 5148 was introduced. That bill mirrored the 2008 proposals. See Appendix C, attached hereto. No action was taken on it. Senator Kline co-sponsored the Senate bills in all three years: 2007, 2008 and 2009.

The failure of the Legislature to amend the GMA vesting provisions despite the efforts of some proponents demonstrates that it intended the vesting provisions in RCW 36.70A.302(2) to remain in effect. The Legislature's will, that permit applications relying on legislative enactments then on appeal to the growth board vest development rights, is clear.

3. The Trial Court's Decision that a Violation of SEPA Can Unvest BSRE's Development Applications Was Without Legal Authority and Was Contrary to the Will of the Legislature.

Before the trial court, Woodway conceded that GMA's invalidity provisions did not allow a determination of invalidity based on a violation of SEPA alone,⁴⁹ but charged that this was a "loophole"⁵⁰ that the trial court was required to fill to maintain the integrity of SEPA. The trial court decided to fill that alleged loophole by using the Board's finding of SEPA noncompliance in an administrative proceeding independent of this lawsuit as grounds for ruling in this case that BSRE's applications are void and "unvested." This ruling was both unprecedented and legally indefensible.

It is a fundamental principle of statutory construction that the Legislature is presumed to know the existing state of case law in the areas in which it is legislating.⁵¹ As discussed in subsection VI.B.2.a above, SEPA appeals of GMA enactments were already part of the GMA appeals process in RCW 36.70A.280(1) beginning in 1991. The Board's authority to review GMA enactments for SEPA violations is part of the panoply of statutes governing Board administrative review of local GMA enactments.⁵² Not only did the growth boards have jurisdiction to review SEPA claims in GMA challenges, but a recent case held that this jurisdiction is exclusive.

In Davidson Serles & Associates v. City of Kirkland, 159 Wn. App. 616, 246 P.3d 822 (2011), neighboring property owners challenged two City of Kirkland ordinances amending the comprehensive plan and zoning code designations of a developer's property by filing an appeal with the Board. They also filed a separate declaratory judgment action in superior court raising, inter alia, SEPA challenges.⁵³ Both the developer and City of Kirkland moved to dismiss the declaratory judgment action, asserting that the Board had exclusive jurisdiction over any SEPA challenges to the ordinances.⁵⁴ In affirming the trial court's dismissal of the SEPA claims, the Court noted that the Legislature had clearly placed the review of any SEPA challenge to legislative enactments with the Board:

The Board properly had jurisdiction over Davidson's SEPA challenge to the City comprehensive plan and zoning code amendments. The Board's jurisdiction over these challenges is exclusive. RCW 36.70A.280(1). Thus, the superior court does not have jurisdiction over such SEPA challenges.⁵⁵

See similarly, Brinnon Group v. Jefferson County, 159 Wn. App. 446, 486-89, 245 P.3d 789 (2011), decided five days before Davidson Serles, where Division II of the Court of Appeals dismissed a writ action challenging a comprehensive plan provision that had also been appealed to the growth board, holding that the growth board appeal provided an adequate remedy at law.

As discussed in subsection VI.B.2.b above, when the Legislature was integrating SEPA and the GMA and other land use laws in 1995, it would have been logical for the Legislature to include a violation of SEPA as grounds for a finding of invalidity if it had wanted to. However, it did not. Instead, it restricted a determination of invalidity to only those situations where there was substantial interference with the fulfillment of the GMA goals.

Contrary to Woodway's arguments, and contrary to Judge Lum's decision, the legislative history of RCW 36.70A.302(2) does not reflect that the legislature left a "loophole" in the GMA invalidity provisions for violations of SEPA. Instead, that history shows that the 1995 Legislature, with input from the Governor's Task Force in 1994, made a conscious choice in 1995 that SEPA violations were not grounds for invalidity, and that vested rights in permit applications relying on legislative enactments on appeal to the growth board would be protected. Then, after the Land Use Study Commission studied the interrelationship between vesting and invalidity orders over several years, the Legislature amended the invalidity provisions in 1997 to add RCW 36.70A.302(2) emphasizing this vesting rule. Since then, the Legislature has left these provisions intact despite efforts by some legislators to change them. Furthermore, this Court in the recent Davidson Serles decision confirmed that any SEPA claims concerning a GMA enactment must be brought to and considered by the growth board, not an independent court.

Despite these clear legal precedents, the trial court refused to follow the law. Under RCW 36.70A.302(2), it could not be clearer that BSRE's complete applications vested to and are to be considered under the County's Urban Center plan provisions and regulations. The applications were filed and vested on February 14 and March 4, 2011, and the Board did not issue its FDO determining certain of the County's enactments invalid until April 25, 2011, many weeks after the permit applications vested. By denying the County's and BSRE's motions for summary judgment, rather than following RCW 36.70A.302(2), the trial court issued a ruling that undermined and trumped that statute. This Court must rectify the trial court's error and reverse that decision.

C. The Fact that a Legislative Enactment Was Adopted in Violation of SEPA Does Not Create An Exception to RCW 36.70A.302(2). (Assignment of Error II.B)

Woodway presented various arguments to the trial court contending that RCW 36.70A.302(2) does not mean what it says. First, Woodway claimed that a Board finding of a violation of SEPA in the County's adoption of comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations meant that (a) BSRE's permit application relying on those legislative enactments was void, and (b) the superior court in an independent lawsuit for declaratory relief could issue an order voiding those applications.⁵⁶ Both of those claims are wrong.

First, Woodway cites several cases from the 1970s and 1980s arguing that a violation of SEPA is grounds for voiding the issuance of a permit.⁵⁷ However, these cases are either factually distinguishable from the facts in the case at bar, or do not stand for the proposition cited.

In Juanita Bay, the reviewing court voided a permit because the local jurisdiction had violated SEPA requirements in processing the permit application.⁵⁸ In Eastlake, the court struck down a building permit which had been issued in violation of local code requirements, and a third renewal of a building permit that had been issued in violation of SEPA.⁵⁹ In RUGG, the Supreme Court affirmed the trial court's invalidation of a rezone ordinance and permit based on the city's failure to provide notice and on appearance of fairness grounds.⁶⁰ However, all of these cases involved challenges to permits after they were issued. None involved preemptive attacks seeking to prevent the local jurisdiction from processing the permit application as this case does.

Woodway is wrong in claiming that the case law it relies upon says that a violation of SEPA means permit applications cannot vest. They say no such thing. None of the cases upon which Woodway relies are vesting cases; in fact, they do not discuss vesting. They address whether permits,⁶¹ contracts⁶² or legislative enactments⁶³ adopted in violation of SEPA are valid. Further, all of those cases involved challenges and decisions that came after the challenged permit, contract or legislative enactment alleged to have been issued in violation of SEPA was adopted. None of those cases involved a court ruling voiding a permit application before the local jurisdiction had made a decision on that permit application, as occurred in this case. None of those cases involved a trial court preemptively issuing an injunction preventing a local government from processing a permit application as Judge Lum did here. None of those cases found that a permit was about to be issued in violation of SEPA when environmental analysis had not yet been performed on that permit application. In short, Woodway's cases do not support Judge Lum's order.

Moreover, this Court in the recent case of Davidson Serles & Associates v. Central Puget Sound Growth Management Hearings Board, 159 Wn. App. 148, 161, 244 P.3d 1003 (2010), rejected an argument made by the petitioner in that case that was similar to that made by Woodway here. Citing many of the cases Woodway cites here, the petitioner in that case claimed that where the board found a violation of SEPA, it was required to enter an order of invalidity. This Court rejected that argument, finding that because the Board is a creature of the Legislature, its authority to issue a determination of invalidity was restricted to the grounds provided by the Legislature (in RCW 36.70A.302), which do not include a violation of SEPA. It is an affront to the Legislature to rule, as the trial court did here, that a violation of SEPA is not grounds for invalidity, but is grounds to stop the processing of a vested permit application.

Woodway makes the unprecedented argument that a vested permit application cannot even be processed because of SEPA defects in the adoption of legislative enactments upon which that application relies.⁶⁴ They have cited no cases standing for that proposition, and certainly none since the adoption of the GMA invalidity provisions in 1995.

Woodway claims that BSRE's application should be voided at the outset. However, Woodway and SRB confuse non-project ("programmatic") SEPA⁶⁵ in the adoption of the County's legislative enactments with project-level

⁶⁴ It is ironic that Woodway and SRB have raised this issue since neither of them successfully argued to the Board that the underlying County enactments violated SEPA. Woodway never raised SEPA as an issue, and SRB's SEPA challenge was dismissed for lack of standing. CP 144 (Corrected FDO, p. 52, lines 23-28). The Board ruled against the County on the SEPA issue based on arguments raised by Shoreline.

⁶⁵ WAC 197-11-704(2)(b).

SEPA⁶⁶ in the processing of a permit application.⁶⁷ The environmental review for those actions is different.⁶⁸ The fact that there was a SEPA defect in the adoption of the underlying comprehensive plan amendment and development regulations upon which BSRE's permit application relies does not equate to a SEPA violation in the processing of that application. Ironically, Woodway and SRB argue that the permit application should be denied based on SEPA when the County has not even had the opportunity to process and review the application under SEPA, and BSRE has not even had the opportunity to comply with SEPA by preparing a project-level environmental study for its application.

Woodway argued that Professor Richard Settle's "respected treatise on SEPA,"⁶⁹ "The Washington State Environmental Policy Act – A Legal and Policy Analysis" (2010), supports its position that permit applications relying on development regulations that were adopted in violation of SEPA are void. Woodway is wrong. In fact, Professor Settle's treatise says exactly the opposite. After first noting the cases cited by Woodway, Professor Settle states that the rule relied upon by Woodway changed with the adoption of the GMA amendments in 1995:

⁶⁷ See CP 485 (Save Richmond Beach's Reply in Support of Petitioners' Motion for Summary Judgment at p. 5, lines 5-11: "... [T]he County's attempts to proceed without adequate SEPA review violate ... SEPA ... [A]n injunction is the appropriate remedy when a jurisdiction attempts to disregard SEPA review and move forward without it.")

⁶⁸ See, e.g., WAC 197-11-442.

⁶⁹ CP 442-43 (Petitioner Town of Woodway's Reply on Summary Judgment, pp. 2-3).

Government action taken in violation of SEPA generally has been regarded as unlawful, ultra vires, a nullity. Thus, action taken without an environmental impact statement (EIS), where one was required, or without an inadequate (sic) EIS, generally has been held invalid. The agency must consider the proposed action anew enlightened by proper environmental review. Since generally one may not obtain vested rights in an invalid regulation, SEPA non-compliance in the adoption of a regulation logically would preclude vested rights in the regulation. However, a 1995 regulatory reform amendment to the Growth Management Act (GMA) provisions for the Growth Management Hearing (sic) Board would produce a contrary result. Under this amendment, a GMA plan, development regulation, or amendment, which the Board found to be in violation of SEPA, nevertheless could support vested rights. A building permit, plat, or, perhaps other regulatory approval applicant would have vested rights in a locally adopted plan or regulation even if the Board later decided that the local government violated SEPA by failing to make a proper threshold determination or prepare an adequate EIS. Moreover, under the amendment, vested rights could continue to arise even after the Board finds noncompliance with SEPA unless the Board's final order includes (1) a determination, supported by findings of fact and conclusions of law, that the continued validity of the plan or regulation would substantially interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of the GMA and (2) specification of the provisions of the plan or regulation deemed invalid. Such determination of invalidity are prospective only and do not extinguish rights that vested under state or local law before the date of the Board's order.⁷⁰

This Court has found Professor Settle to be a “recognized authority on SEPA issues.” Waterford Place Condominium Ass’n. v. City of Seattle, 58 Wn. App.

39, 45, 791 P.2d 908 (1990).⁷¹ Professor Settle's treatise supports the County's position, not Woodway's. A violation of SEPA in the adoption of the underlying plan provisions or development regulations does not prevent development rights from vesting, nor does it authorize a court to interfere in the permitting process.

Woodway additionally argued to the trial court that the Legislature never changed the case law authority it relies on. It first claimed that the 1994 Governor's Task Force Report supported its position that a violation of SEPA in the adoption of comprehensive plan provisions and development regulations constituted grounds for voiding the permit applications upon which they rely.⁷²

Woodway and SRB then argued that the Legislature in 1995 failed to state that violations of SEPA in adoption of the underlying legislative enactments no longer caused any permit applications relying on them to be void; therefore, Woodway claims, the case law it relies on remains in effect since repeal of case law authority by implication is disfavored.⁷³ However, that argument ignores the clear language of the GMA. The Legislature did not repeal that prior case law by implication. It did it explicitly through the enactment of former RCW 36.70A.300(2) and (3) in 1995, and then the enactment of RCW 36.70A.302 in 1997. Those statutes clearly said what development rights vested during the appeal of GMA enactments and what ones did not. They also clarified that a violation of SEPA was not grounds for invalidity, and therefore was not grounds for the voiding of any permit applications relying on the underlying legislative enactments. Furthermore, as noted above, Professor Settle's treatise on SEPA, which Woodway recognizes as "respected," refutes Woodway's arguments: Settle clearly states that the 1995 legislative enactments changed the law.⁷⁴

Moreover, Woodway's argument defies logic. When the Legislature adopted its regulatory reform legislation in 1995 integrating the State's land use and environmental statutes, it specifically provided in former RCW 36.70A.300(2) and (3) that vested development applications would be insulated from later Board orders. It makes no sense to believe that in doing so the Legislature also intended to leave intact, sub silentio, a rule that would allow courts to declare vested permit applications to be void and therefore "unvested" months or even years after issuance, if they relied on regulations adopted in violation of SEPA, as occurred in this case. If the Legislature had intended that bizarre result, it would have so provided in the 1995 legislation.

⁷³ CP 406 (Petitioners' Joint Response, p. 8); CP 483 (SRB Reply, p. 3).

⁷⁴ See supra at p. 32.

In contrast, as explained extensively in section VI.B above, the enactment of the GMA, and in particular the invalidity provisions in 1995, codified in statute what the rule of law was to be henceforth: permit applications vested to legislative enactments while they were on appeal to the Board, and an order of invalidity could not be issued for a violation of SEPA. For Judge Lum to rule that under this GMA statutory framework trial courts were still invited to void vested permit applications (1) outside of a Board appeal, (2) outside of a LUPA action, (3) before a local jurisdiction has even made a decision on the application, (4) before a project applicant had even attempted to comply with SEPA, and (5) in violation of the State's (and GMA's) vested rights doctrine, is in defiance of the Legislature's directive. That order was issued contrary to law and must be reversed.

D. The Trial Court's Ruling Undermines Washington's Vested Rights Rule Contrary to the Will of the Legislature. (Assignments of Error II.A, B and C)

The consequences of the trial court's ruling are far reaching, and undermine the State's long-standing rule on vested rights and the Legislature's explicit iteration of that rule in RCW 36.70A.302(2). Instead of a vesting system grounded on principles of fairness and certainty,⁷⁵ there would be a system that was totally unfair and contained no certainty. A permit applicant would not be able to file his application and know that the application was vested, but would be subject to the vagaries of whether the underlying local legislation upon which that application relied was appealed to the Board. If so, someone could file an independent action months (or possibly years) later challenging that permit's vested status, based on an issue that the challenger had never raised before.⁷⁶

Moreover, this situation creates a potential nightmare for local jurisdictions. Where now permit applications are clearly either vested or not vested and local permitting authorities can proceed accordingly, under Judge Lum's decision, BSRE's applications that were vested have become "unvested." Further uncertainty exists based on the outcome of the litigation before the Board: Would BSRE's permit applications declared to be "unvested" later become "re-vested" once the County's comprehensive plan and development regulations come into compliance with SEPA? Or instead must BSRE reapply for its permits at that later date? The concept of vesting, which was supposed to provide certainty to both permit applicants and local jurisdictions, provides anything but certainty under this ruling.

The practical effect of the trial court's decision is to place a moratorium on any development permit applications relying on newly adopted GMA development regulations for months – and even years – while GMA appeals wind their way through the Board and courts. Local governments cannot issue permits because the permit applicant would not be able to rely on them. Judge Lum by judicial fiat has accomplished what Senator Kline and his cohorts have been unable to do in recent legislative sessions:⁷⁷ amend the GMA to prohibit permit applications from vesting while appeals challenging the underlying regulations are pending.

⁷⁵ See Subsection VI.B.1 above.

⁷⁶ See footnote 64.

As stated in State v. Jackson, 137 Wn.2d 712, 725, 976 P.2d 1229 (1999):

[A] court should resist the temptation to rewrite an unambiguous statute to suit [its] notions of what is good public policy, recognizing the principle that “the drafting of a statute is a legislative, not a judicial, function.” State v. Enloe, 47 Wn. App. 165, 170, 734 P.2d 520 (1987).

It goes without saying that a trial court may not overrule the will of the Legislature. However, that is what has happened in this case, in large part due to Woodway’s urging of the trial court to make a policy choice not to follow the State’s vesting rule.⁷⁸ That result is untenable.

E. The Trial Court Erroneously Issued an Injunction Preventing the County from Processing BSRE’s Permit Application. (Assignment of Error II.A, B and C)

The County incorporates by reference the arguments of BSRE on this issue.

⁷⁷ See Subsection VI.B.2.d supra, pp. 22-23.

⁷⁸ CP 298-301 (Petitioners’ Brief in Support of Motion for Summary Judgment, pp. 20-23).

VII. CONCLUSION

Through the enactment of RCW 36.70A.302(2), the Legislature has explicitly provided that vested development permit applications are to be insulated from the impact of Board orders that come after those applications have been filed and vested. Here, the trial court ignored that clear legislative directive and issued an order trumping the statute. That order was without legal authority. This Court should reverse the trial court's decision, and grant summary judgment for the County and BSRE dismissing this action.

32 Sec. 4. RCW 36.70A.302 and 1997 c 429 s 16 are each amended to 33 read as follows:

34 (1) A board may determine that part or all of a comprehensive plan
35 or development regulations are invalid if the board:

1 (a) Makes a finding of noncompliance and issues an order of remand
2 under RCW 36.70A.300;

3 (b) Includes in the final order a determination, supported by 4 findings of fact and conclusions of law, that the continued validity of 5 part or parts of the plan or regulation would substantially interfere 6 with the fulfillment of the goals of this chapter; and

7 (c) Specifies in the final order the particular part or parts of 8 the plan or regulation that are determined to be invalid, and the 9 reasons for their invalidity.

10 (2) A determination of invalidity is ~~((prospective in effect and~~
11 ~~does not extinguish rights that vested under state or local law before~~
12 ~~receipt of the board's order by the city or county. The determination~~
13 ~~of invalidity does not apply to a completed development permit~~
14 ~~application for a project that vested under state or local law before~~
15 ~~receipt of the board's order by the county or city or to related~~ 16 ~~construction permits for that project.~~

17 ~~(3)(a) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (2) of this~~
18 ~~section and (b) of this subsection, a development permit application~~

23 ~~(b) Even though the application is not vested under state or local~~ 24 ~~law before receipt by the county or city of the board's order, a~~
25 ~~determination of invalidity does not apply to a development permit~~ 26 ~~application for)~~ remedial and retrospective and applies to any 27 decision on a project permit that the local government made based on 28 the project's consistency with the plan or regulation that the board
29 has determined to be invalid except:

30 ~~((+i))~~ (a) A permit for construction by any owner, lessee, or 31 contract purchaser of a single-family residence for his or her own use 32 or for the use of his or her family on a lot existing before receipt by 33 the county or city of the board's order, except as otherwise
34 specifically provided in the board's order to protect the public health
35 and safety;

36 ~~((+ii))~~ (b) A building permit and related construction permits for 37 remodeling, tenant improvements, or expansion of an existing structure

1 on a lot existing before receipt of the board's order by the county or 2 city; and

3 ~~((+iii))~~ (c) A boundary line adjustment or a division of land that
4 does not increase the number of buildable lots existing before receipt
5 of the board's order by the county or city.

6 ~~((+4))~~ (3) If the ordinance that adopts a plan or development
7 regulation under this chapter includes a savings clause intended to 8 revive prior policies or regulations in the event the new plan or 9 regulations are determined to be invalid, the board shall determine 10 under subsection (1) of this section whether the prior policies or 11 regulations are valid during the period of remand.

12 ~~((+5))~~ (4) A county or city subject to a determination of 13 invalidity may adopt interim controls and other measures to be in 14 effect until it adopts a comprehensive plan and development regulations
15 that comply with the requirements of this chapter. A development
16 permit application may vest under an interim control or measure upon 17 determination by the board that the interim controls and other measures 18 do not substantially interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of 19 this chapter.

20 ~~((+6))~~ (5) A county or city subject to a determination of 21 invalidity may file a motion requesting that the board clarify, modify,
22 or rescind the order. The board shall expeditiously schedule a hearing
23 on the motion. At the hearing on the motion, the parties may present 24 information to the board to clarify the part or parts of the 25 comprehensive plan or development regulations to which the final order
26 applies. The board shall issue any supplemental order based on the 27 information provided at the hearing not later than thirty days after 28 the date of the hearing.

29 ~~((+7))~~ (6)(a) If a determination of invalidity has been made and 30 the county or city has enacted an ordinance or resolution amending the 31 invalidated part or parts of the plan or regulation or establishing 32 interim controls on development affected by the order of invalidity, 33 after a compliance hearing, the board shall modify or rescind the 34 determination of invalidity if it determines under the standard in 35 subsection (1) of this section that the plan or regulation, as amended
36 or made subject to such interim controls, will no longer substantially
37 interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of this chapter.

1 (b) If the board determines that part or parts of the plan or
2 regulation are no longer invalid as provided in this subsection, but
3 does not find that the plan or regulation is in compliance with all of 4 the requirements of this chapter, the board, in its order, may require 5 periodic reports to the board on the progress the jurisdiction is 6 making towards compliance.

7 Sec. 5. RCW 80.50.100 and 1989 c 175 s 174 are each amended to 8 read as follows:

9 (1) The council shall report to the governor its recommendations as 10 to the approval or rejection of an application for certification within 11 twelve months of receipt by the council of such an application, or such 12 later time as is mutually agreed by the council and the applicant. The 13 council's recommendation shall be based on the council's guidelines in 14 effect on the date the recommendation is made. If the council
15 recommends approval of an application for certification, it shall also 16 submit a draft certification agreement with the report. The council
17 shall include conditions in the draft certification agreement to 18 implement the provisions of this chapter, including, but not limited
19 to, conditions to protect state or local governmental or community
20 interests affected by the construction or operation of the energy
21 facility, and conditions designed to recognize the purpose of laws or 22 ordinances, or rules or regulations promulgated thereunder, that are 23 preempted or superseded pursuant to RCW 80.50.110 as now or hereafter 24 amended.

37 interfere with the fulfillment of the goals of this chapter.

1 (b) If the board determines that part or parts of the plan or
2 regulation are no longer invalid as provided in this subsection, but

APPENDIX B

SB 6784 and HB 3202
(2008 Legislative Session)

SENATE BILL 6784

State of Washington

60th Legislature

2008 Regular Session

By Senators Kline and Fairley

Read first time 01/23/08. Referred to Committee on Government Operations & Elections.

1 AN ACT Relating to Washington's vesting laws; amending RCW
2 36.70A.290, 36.70A.130, 58.17.033, and 19.27.095; adding a new section
3 to chapter 36.70A RCW; and creating new sections.

4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

5 NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the public
6 interest is served when applications for new land use projects are
7 assessed using the laws in effect at that time, not former versions
8 that have been repealed or revised. Washington requires jurisdictions
9 to update their land use and development laws and regulations on a
10 regular basis. The public has an interest in ensuring that projects
11 proposed during the public comment and approval process for these 12 updates follow the new laws, not the version that has been replaced.
13 Local governments have an interest in ensuring that their new laws are 14 followed by all persons, without exemptions for those who were able to 15 file for a permit application during the period of time the new law was 16 proposed, enacted, and subject to appeal. Real estate developers have
17 an interest in ensuring that everyone is required to follow the same
18 laws, without an exemption for those who win a race to the permit

1 counter when a change is proposed. Further, the legislature finds that
2 the public has an interest in meaningfully commenting on large projects
3 to ensure that they fit their community.

4 The legislature finds that other states employ a vesting date of
5 the time an application is approved, rather than when it is filed.
6 Many states do so for all projects at all times, not just when changes
7 to the law are proposed.

8 Development in other states has been able to continue in a
9 reasonable fashion. A later vesting date provides reasonable certainty
10 for the development community while providing better protection of the 11 public interest and improving the ability of local governments to
12 comply with the legislature's land use and environmental protection
13 goals and mandates.

14 This act is intended to better protect the public interest by 15 setting the vesting date for many projects as the date when permits are 16 issued. The courts should construe this and related laws liberally to 17 effectuate that purpose.

18 Sec. 2. RCW 36.70A.290 and 1997 c 429 s 12 are each amended to 19 read as follows:

20 (1) All requests for review to a growth management hearings board
21 shall be initiated by filing a petition that includes a detailed
22 statement of issues presented for resolution by the board. The board
23 shall render written decisions articulating the basis for its holdings.
24 The board shall not issue advisory opinions on issues not presented to 25 the board in the statement of issues, as modified by any prehearing
26 order.

27 (2) All petitions relating to whether or not an adopted
28 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or permanent amendment
29 thereto, is in compliance with the goals and requirements of this
30 chapter or chapter 90.58 or 43.21C RCW must be filed within sixty days
31 after publication by the legislative bodies of the county or city.

32 (a) Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, the date of 33 publication for a city shall be the date the city publishes the
34 ordinance, or summary of the ordinance, adopting the comprehensive plan
35 or development regulations, or amendment thereto, as is required to be 36 published.

1 (b) Promptly after adoption, a county shall publish a notice that
2 it has adopted the comprehensive plan or development regulations, or
3 amendment thereto.

4 Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, for purposes of this
5 section the date of publication for a county shall be the date the
6 county publishes the notice that it has adopted the comprehensive plan
7 or development regulations, or amendment thereto.

8 (c) For local governments planning under RCW 36.70A.040, promptly
9 after approval or disapproval of a local government's shoreline master
10 program or amendment thereto by the department of ecology as provided
11 in RCW 90.58.090, the local government shall publish a notice that the 12 shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been approved or 13 disapproved by the department of ecology. For purposes of this
14 section, the date of publication for the adoption or amendment of a
15 shoreline master program is the date the local government publishes 16 notice that the shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been
17 approved or disapproved by the department of ecology.

18 (3) Unless the board dismisses the petition as frivolous or finds
19 that the person filing the petition lacks standing, or the parties have
20 filed an agreement to have the case heard in superior court as provided
21 in RCW 36.70A.295, the board shall, within ten days of receipt of the
22 petition, set a time for hearing the matter.

23 (4) The board shall base its decision on the record developed by 24 the city, county, or the state and supplemented with additional
25 evidence if the board determines that such additional evidence would be 26 necessary or of substantial assistance to the board in reaching its 27 decision.

28 (5) The board, shall consolidate, when appropriate, all petitions
29 involving the review of the same comprehensive plan or the same
30 development regulation or regulations.

31 (6) Pending a board's final decision on a petition for review, or
32 during the sixty-day period following the publication of a
33 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or amendment thereto as 34 provided in subsection (2) of this section, whichever occurs later, the
35 submission of an application for a proposed division of land, building
36 permit, or other project approval shall not result in the vesting of 37 any development rights that may be affected by the comprehensive plan,
38 development regulation, or amendment. After a board has issued its

1 final decision on a petition for review or the sixty-day period has
2 expired, whichever occurs later, the application for the proposed
3 division of land, building permit, or other project approval shall be
4 subject to the zoning, permitting, or other land use control ordinances
5 in effect at that time.

6 Sec. 3. RCW 36.70A.130 and 2006 c 285 s 2 are each amended to read
7 as follows:

8 (1)(a) Each comprehensive land use plan and development regulations
9 shall be subject to continuing review and evaluation by the county or
10 city that adopted them. Except as otherwise provided, a county or city
11 shall take legislative action to review and, if needed, revise its 12 comprehensive land use plan and development regulations to ensure the 13 plan and regulations comply with the requirements of this chapter
14 according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of this 15 section.

16 (b) Except as otherwise provided, a county or city not planning
17 under RCW 36.70A.040 shall take action to review and, if needed, revise
18 its policies and development regulations regarding critical areas and 19 natural resource lands adopted according to this chapter to ensure
20 these policies and regulations comply with the requirements of this
21 chapter according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of 22 this section. Legislative action means the adoption of a resolution or 23 ordinance following notice and a public hearing indicating at a
24 minimum, a finding that a review and evaluation has occurred and
25 identifying the revisions made, or that a revision was not needed and 26 the reasons therefor.

27 (c) The review and evaluation required by this subsection may be
28 combined with the review required by subsection (3) of this section.
29 The review and evaluation required by this subsection shall include,
30 but is not limited to, consideration of critical area ordinances and,
31 if planning under RCW 36.70A.040, an analysis of the population
32 allocated to a city or county from the most recent ten-year population
33 forecast by the office of financial management.

34 (d) Any amendment of or revision to a comprehensive land use plan
35 shall conform to this chapter. Any amendment of or revision to 36 development regulations shall be consistent with and implement the 37 comprehensive plan.

1 (e) During the review and evaluation process authorized under this
2 subsection, an application for the proposed division of land, building
3 permit, or other project approval shall be subject to the zoning,
4 permitting, and other land use control ordinances in effect at the time
5 the local government takes final action on the application, including
6 all administrative appeals.

7 (2) (a) Each county and city shall establish and broadly disseminate
8 to the public a public participation program consistent with RCW
9 36.70A.035 and 36.70A.140 that identifies procedures and schedules
10 ~~((whereby))~~ for considering amendments to comprehensive plans and 11 development regulations.

12 (b) The procedures under (a) of this subsection must provide that
13 updates, proposed amendments, or revisions of the comprehensive plan
14 are considered by the governing body of the county or city no more
15 frequently than once every year. "Updates" means to review and revise,
16 if needed, according to subsection (1) of this section, and the time
17 periods specified in subsection (4) of this section or in accordance 18 with the provisions of subsections (5) and (8) of this section.
19 Amendments may be considered more frequently than once per year under 20 the following circumstances:

21 (i) The initial adoption of a subarea plan that does not modify the
22 comprehensive plan policies and designations applicable to the subarea;

23 (ii) The adoption or amendment of a shoreline master program under
24 the procedures set forth in chapter 90.58 RCW;

25 (iii) The amendment of the capital facilities element of a
26 comprehensive plan that occurs concurrently with the adoption or 27 amendment of a county or city budget; and

28 (iv) ~~((Until June 30, 2006, the designation of recreational lands~~
29 ~~under RCW 36.70A.1701. A county amending its comprehensive plan~~
30 ~~pursuant to this subsection (2) (a) (iv) may not do so more frequently~~
31 ~~than every eighteen months; and~~

32 ~~(v))~~ The adoption of comprehensive plan amendments necessary to 33 enact a planned action under RCW 43.21C.031(2), provided that
34 amendments are considered in accordance with the public participation
35 program established by the county or city under this subsection (2) (a)
36 and all persons who have requested notice of a comprehensive plan
37 update are given notice of the amendments and an opportunity to 38 comment.

1 ~~((b))~~ (c) Except as otherwise provided in (a) of this subsection,
2 all proposals shall be considered by the governing body concurrently so
3 the cumulative effect of the various proposals can be ascertained.
4 However, after appropriate public participation a county or city may
5 adopt amendments or revisions to its comprehensive plan that conform
6 with this chapter whenever an emergency exists or to resolve an appeal
7 of a comprehensive plan filed with a growth management hearings board
8 or with the court.

9 (d) Land use development applications filed after the submission or
10 filing of a proposed comprehensive plan or development regulation
11 amendment shall not vest until the time the local government takes 12 final action on the application, including all administrative appeals.

13 (3)(a) Each county that designates urban growth areas under RCW
14 36.70A.110 shall review, at least every ten years, its designated urban 15 growth area or areas, and the densities permitted within both the 16 incorporated and unincorporated portions of each urban growth area. In 17 conjunction with this review by the county, each city located within an 18 urban growth area shall review the densities permitted within its 19 boundaries, and the extent to which the urban growth occurring within 20 the county has located within each city and the unincorporated portions
21 of the urban growth areas.

22 (b) The county comprehensive plan designating urban growth areas,
23 and the densities permitted in the urban growth areas by the 24 comprehensive plans of the county and each city located within the
25 urban growth areas, shall be revised to accommodate the urban growth
26 projected to occur in the county for the succeeding twenty-year period.
27 The review required by this subsection may be combined with the review
28 and evaluation required by RCW 36.70A.215.

29 (4) The department shall establish a schedule for counties and

16 the time limits established in subsection (4) of this section.
17 Counties and cities may begin this process early and may be eligible
18 for grants from the department, subject to available funding, if they
19 elect to do so.

8 and, on or after January 1, 2001, has taken action in response to that
9 review and evaluation shall be deemed to have conducted the first
10 review required by subsection (4)(a) of this section. Subsequent
11 review and evaluation by the county or city of its comprehensive plan
12 and development regulations shall be conducted in accordance with the 13 time periods established under subsection (4)(a) of this section.

14 (7) The requirements imposed on counties and cities under this

29 (8) Except as provided in subsection (5)(b) and (c) of this
30 section:

32 this section according to the schedule established by subsection (4)(b)

11 section, only those counties and cities complying with the schedule in 12 subsection (4) of this section, or the extension provisions of 13 subsection (5)(b) or (c) of this section, may receive preferences for
14 grants, loans, pledges, or financial guarantees from those accounts
15 established in RCW 43.155.050 and 70.146.030.

31 ordinance, and zoning or other land use control ordinances, in effect
32 on the land at the time a fully completed application for preliminary 33 plat approval of the subdivision, or short plat approval of the short 34 subdivision, has been submitted to the appropriate county, city, or

4 to the vesting provisions of the growth management act as set forth in 5 RCW 36.70A.290(6).

6 (3) A local government's decision regarding the issuance of plat
7 approvals for the following categories of large development projects

29 the application.

30 ((+3)) (6) The limitations imposed by this section shall not 31 restrict conditions imposed under chapter 43.21C RCW.

32 (7) Beginning July 1, 2008, for a period of up to five years from 33 the date of filing, or once substantial construction has begun,
34 whichever occurs earlier, any lots in a final plat filed for record are 35 a valid land use, notwithstanding any change in zoning laws during the 36 intervening period. Subdivision shall be governed by the terms of 37 approval of the final plat, and the statutes, ordinances, and
38 regulations in effect at the time of approval under RCW 58.17.150 (1)

1 and (3) for a period of five years after final plat approval unless the
2 legislative body finds that a change in conditions creates a serious
3 threat to the public health or safety.

5 as follows:

11 application, and the zoning or other land use control ordinances in 12 effect on the date of application.

13 (2) An application for a building permit that is filed while a

18 provisions of the growth management act as set forth in RCW
19 36.70A.290(6).

20 (3) An application for a building permit that is filed during a

4 uses developed in accordance with RCW 36.70A.177.

5 (5) The requirements for a fully completed application shall be 6 defined by local ordinance ((but)). If such a local ordinance is not

37 application is submitted, the applicant shall so state and the 38 application shall be processed forthwith and the permit issued as if

1 the information had been supplied, and the lack of the information

HOUSE BILL 3202

State of Washington 60th Legislature 2008 Regular Session

By Representatives Simpson, Sells, and Nelson

Read first time 01/24/08. Referred to Committee on Local Government.

1 AN ACT Relating to Washington's vesting laws; amending RCW
2 36.70A.290, 36.70A.130, 58.17.033, and 19.27.095; adding a new section
3 to chapter 36.70A RCW; and creating new sections.

4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

5 NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the public
6 interest is served when applications for new land use projects are
7 assessed using the laws in effect at that time, not former versions
8 that have been repealed or revised. Washington requires jurisdictions
9 to update their land use and development laws and regulations on a
10 regular basis. The public has an interest in ensuring that projects
11 proposed during the public comment and approval process for these
12 updates follow the new laws, not the version that has been replaced.
13 Local governments have an interest in ensuring that their new laws are 14 followed by all persons, without exemptions for those who were able to 15 file for a permit application during the period of time the new law was 16 proposed, enacted, and subject to appeal. Real estate developers have
17 an interest in ensuring that everyone is required to follow the same
18 laws, without an exemption for those who win a race to the permit

1 counter when a change is proposed. Further, the legislature finds that
2 the public has an interest in meaningfully commenting on large projects
3 to ensure that they fit their community.

4 The legislature finds that other states employ a vesting date of
5 the time an application is approved, rather than when it is filed.
6 Many states do so for all projects at all times, not just when changes
7 to the law are proposed.

8 Development in other states has been able to continue in a
9 reasonable fashion. A later vesting date provides reasonable certainty
10 for the development community while providing better protection of the 11 public interest and improving the ability of local governments to
12 comply with the legislature's land use and environmental protection
13 goals and mandates.

14 This act is intended to better protect the public interest by 15 setting the vesting date for many projects as the date when permits are 16 issued. The courts should construe this and related laws liberally to 17 effectuate that purpose.

18 Sec. 2. RCW 36.70A.290 and 1997 c 429 s 12 are each amended to 19 read as follows:

20 (1) All requests for review to a growth management hearings board
21 shall be initiated by filing a petition that includes a detailed
22 statement of issues presented for resolution by the board. The board
23 shall render written decisions articulating the basis for its holdings.
24 The board shall not issue advisory opinions on issues not presented to 25 the board in the statement of issues, as modified by any prehearing
26 order.

27 (2) All petitions relating to whether or not an adopted
28 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or permanent amendment
29 thereto, is in compliance with the goals and requirements of this
30 chapter or chapter 90.58 or 43.21C RCW must be filed within sixty days
31 after publication by the legislative bodies of the county or city.

32 (a) Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, the date of 33 publication for a city shall be the date the city publishes the
34 ordinance, or summary of the ordinance, adopting the comprehensive plan
35 or development regulations, or amendment thereto, as is required to be 36 published.

1 (b) Promptly after adoption, a county shall publish a notice that
2 it has adopted the comprehensive plan or development regulations, or
3 amendment thereto.

4 Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, for purposes of this
5 section the date of publication for a county shall be the date the
6 county publishes the notice that it has adopted the comprehensive plan
7 or development regulations, or amendment thereto.

8 (c) For local governments planning under RCW 36.70A.040, promptly
9 after approval or disapproval of a local government's shoreline master
10 program or amendment thereto by the department of ecology as provided
11 in RCW 90.58.090, the local government shall publish a notice that the 12 shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been approved or 13 disapproved by the department of ecology. For purposes of this
14 section, the date of publication for the adoption or amendment of a
15 shoreline master program is the date the local government publishes 16 notice that the shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been
17 approved or disapproved by the department of ecology.

18 (3) Unless the board dismisses the petition as frivolous or finds
19 that the person filing the petition lacks standing, or the parties have
20 filed an agreement to have the case heard in superior court as provided
21 in RCW 36.70A.295, the board shall, within ten days of receipt of the
22 petition, set a time for hearing the matter.

23 (4) The board shall base its decision on the record developed by 24 the city, county, or the state and supplemented with additional
25 evidence if the board determines that such additional evidence would be 26 necessary or of substantial assistance to the board in reaching its 27 decision.

28 (5) The board, shall consolidate, when appropriate, all petitions
29 involving the review of the same comprehensive plan or the same
30 development regulation or regulations.

31 (6) Pending a board's final decision on a petition for review, or
32 during the sixty-day period following the publication of a
33 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or amendment thereto as
34 provided in subsection (2) of this section, whichever occurs later, the
35 submission of an application for a proposed division of land, building
36 permit, or other project approval shall not result in the vesting of
37 any development rights that may be affected by the comprehensive plan,
38 development regulation, or amendment. After a board has issued its

1 final decision on a petition for review or the sixty-day period has
2 expired, whichever occurs later, the application for the proposed
3 division of land, building permit, or other project approval shall be
4 subject to the zoning, permitting, or other land use control ordinances
5 in effect at that time.

6 Sec. 3. RCW 36.70A.130 and 2006 c 285 s 2 are each amended to read
7 as follows:

8 (1)(a) Each comprehensive land use plan and development regulations
9 shall be subject to continuing review and evaluation by the county or
10 city that adopted them. Except as otherwise provided, a county or city
11 shall take legislative action to review and, if needed, revise its 12 comprehensive land use plan and development regulations to ensure the
13 plan and regulations comply with the requirements of this chapter
14 according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of this
15 section.

16 (b) Except as otherwise provided, a county or city not planning
17 under RCW 36.70A.040 shall take action to review and, if needed, revise
18 its policies and development regulations regarding critical areas and
19 natural resource lands adopted according to this chapter to ensure
20 these policies and regulations comply with the requirements of this
21 chapter according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of 22 this section. Legislative action means the adoption of a resolution or
23 ordinance following notice and a public hearing indicating at a
24 minimum, a finding that a review and evaluation has occurred and
25 identifying the revisions made, or that a revision was not needed and 26 the reasons therefor.

27 (c) The review and evaluation required by this subsection may be
28 combined with the review required by subsection (3) of this section.
29 The review and evaluation required by this subsection shall include,
30 but is not limited to, consideration of critical area ordinances and,
31 if planning under RCW 36.70A.040, an analysis of the population
32 allocated to a city or county from the most recent ten-year population
33 forecast by the office of financial management.

34 (d) Any amendment of or revision to a comprehensive land use plan
35 shall conform to this chapter. Any amendment of or revision to 36 development regulations shall be consistent with and implement the 37 comprehensive plan.

1 (e) During the review and evaluation process authorized under this
2 subsection, an application for the proposed division of land, building
3 permit, or other project approval shall be subject to the zoning,
4 permitting, and other land use control ordinances in effect at the time
5 the local government takes final action on the application, including
6 all administrative appeals.

7 (2)(a) Each county and city shall establish and broadly disseminate
8 to the public a public participation program consistent with RCW
9 36.70A.035 and 36.70A.140 that identifies procedures and schedules
10 ((whereby)) for considering amendments to comprehensive plans and 11 development regulations.

12 (b) The procedures under (a) of this subsection must provide that
13 updates, proposed amendments, or revisions of the comprehensive plan
14 are considered by the governing body of the county or city no more
15 frequently than once every year. "Updates" means to review and revise,
16 if needed, according to subsection (1) of this section, and the time
17 periods specified in subsection (4) of this section or in accordance
18 with the provisions of subsections (5) and (8) of this section.
19 Amendments may be considered more frequently than once per year under 20 the following circumstances:

21 (i) The initial adoption of a subarea plan that does not modify the
22 comprehensive plan policies and designations applicable to the subarea;

23 (ii) The adoption or amendment of a shoreline master program under
24 the procedures set forth in chapter 90.58 RCW;

25 (iii) The amendment of the capital facilities element of a
26 comprehensive plan that occurs concurrently with the adoption or
27 amendment of a county or city budget; and

28 ~~(iv) ((Until June 30, 2006, the designation of recreational lands~~
29 ~~under RCW 36.70A.1701. A county amending its comprehensive plan~~
30 ~~pursuant to this subsection (2)(a)(iv) may not do so more frequently~~
31 ~~than every eighteen months; and~~

32 ~~(v))~~ The adoption of comprehensive plan amendments necessary to 33 enact a planned action under RCW 43.21C.031(2), provided that
34 amendments are considered in accordance with the public participation
35 program established by the county or city under this subsection (2)(a)
36 and all persons who have requested notice of a comprehensive plan
37 update are given notice of the amendments and an opportunity to 38 comment.

1 ~~((b))~~ (c) Except as otherwise provided in (a) of this subsection,
2 all proposals shall be considered by the governing body concurrently so
3 the cumulative effect of the various proposals can be ascertained.
4 However, after appropriate public participation a county or city may
5 adopt amendments or revisions to its comprehensive plan that conform
6 with this chapter whenever an emergency exists or to resolve an appeal
7 of a comprehensive plan filed with a growth management hearings board
8 or with the court.

9 (d) Land use development applications filed after the submission or
10 filing of a proposed comprehensive plan or development regulation
11 amendment shall not vest until the time the local government takes
12 final action on the application, including all administrative appeals.

13 (3)(a) Each county that designates urban growth areas under RCW
14 36.70A.110 shall review, at least every ten years, its designated urban
15 growth area or areas, and the densities permitted within both the 16 incorporated and unincorporated portions of each urban growth area. In 17 conjunction with this review by the county, each city located within an 18 urban growth area shall review the densities permitted within its 19 boundaries, and the extent to which the urban growth occurring within
20 the county has located within each city and the unincorporated portions
21 of the urban growth areas.

22 (b) The county comprehensive plan designating urban growth areas,
23 and the densities permitted in the urban growth areas by the
24 comprehensive plans of the county and each city located within the
25 urban growth areas, shall be revised to accommodate the urban growth
26 projected to occur in the county for the succeeding twenty-year period.
27 The review required by this subsection may be combined with the review

16 the time limits established in subsection (4) of this section.
17 Counties and cities may begin this process early and may be eligible
18 for grants from the department, subject to available funding, if they
19 elect to do so.

26 than seventeen percent in the ten years preceding the date established
27 in the applicable schedule as of that date.

8 and, on or after January 1, 2001, has taken action in response to that
9 review and evaluation shall be deemed to have conducted the first
10 review required by subsection (4)(a) of this section. Subsequent
11 review and evaluation by the county or city of its comprehensive plan
12 and development regulations shall be conducted in accordance with the 13 time periods established under subsection (4)(a) of this section.

30 section:

31 (a) Counties and cities required to satisfy the requirements of 32 this section according to the schedule established by subsection (4)(b)

11 section, only those counties and cities complying with the schedule in 12 subsection (4) of this section, or the extension provisions of 13 subsection (5)(b) or (c) of this section, may receive preferences for
14 grants, loans, pledges, or financial guarantees from those accounts
15 established in RCW 43.155.050 and 70.146.030.

33 the date of filing, or once substantial construction has begun,
34 whichever occurs earlier, any lots in a final plat filed for record are

37 approval of the final plat, and the statutes, ordinances, and
38 regulations in effect at the time of approval under RCW 58.17.150 (1)

1 and (3) for a period of five years after final plat approval unless the

APPENDIX C

SB 5148 (2009 Legislative Session)

SENATE BILL 5148

State of Washington

61st Legislature

2009 Regular Session

By Senators Kline, Fairley, and McDermott

Read first time 01/15/09. Referred to Committee on Government Operations & Elections.

1 AN ACT Relating to Washington's vesting laws; amending RCW
2 36.70A.290, 36.70A.130, 58.17.033, and 19.27.095; adding a new section
3 to chapter 36.70A RCW; and creating new sections.

4 BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF WASHINGTON:

5 NEW SECTION. Sec. 1. The legislature finds that the public
6 interest is served when applications for new land use projects are
7 assessed using the laws in effect at that time, not former versions
8 that have been repealed or revised. Washington requires jurisdictions
9 to update their land use and development laws and regulations on a
10 regular basis. The public has an interest in ensuring that projects
11 proposed during the public comment and approval process for these
12 updates follow the new laws, not the version that has been replaced.
13 Local governments have an interest in ensuring that their new laws are 14 followed by all persons, without exemptions for those who were able to 15 file for a permit application during the period of time the new law was 16 proposed, enacted, and subject to appeal. Real estate developers have
17 an interest in ensuring that everyone is required to follow the same
18 laws, without an exemption for those who win a race to the permit

1 counter when a change is proposed. Further, the legislature finds that
2 the public has an interest in meaningfully commenting on large projects
3 to ensure that they fit their community.

4 The legislature finds that other states employ a vesting date of
5 the time an application is approved, rather than when it is filed.
6 Many states do so for all projects at all times, not just when changes
7 to the law are proposed.

8 Development in other states has been able to continue in a
9 reasonable fashion. A later vesting date provides reasonable certainty
10 for the development community while providing better protection of the 11 public interest and improving the ability of local governments to
12 comply with the legislature's land use and environmental protection
13 goals and mandates.

14 This act is intended to better protect the public interest by 15 setting the vesting date for many projects as the date when permits are 16 issued. The courts should construe this and related laws liberally to 17 effectuate that purpose.

18 Sec. 2. RCW 36.70A.290 and 1997 c 429 s 12 are each amended to 19 read as follows:

20 (1) All requests for review to a growth management hearings board
21 shall be initiated by filing a petition that includes a detailed
22 statement of issues presented for resolution by the board. The board
23 shall render written decisions articulating the basis for its holdings.
24 The board shall not issue advisory opinions on issues not presented to 25 the board in the statement of issues, as modified by any prehearing
26 order.

27 (2) All petitions relating to whether or not an adopted
28 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or permanent amendment
29 thereto, is in compliance with the goals and requirements of this
30 chapter or chapter 90.58 or 43.21C RCW must be filed within sixty days
31 after publication by the legislative bodies of the county or city.

32 (a) Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, the date of 33 publication for a city shall be the date the city publishes the
34 ordinance, or summary of the ordinance, adopting the comprehensive plan
35 or development regulations, or amendment thereto, as is required to be 36 published.

1 (b) Promptly after adoption, a county shall publish a notice that
2 it has adopted the comprehensive plan or development regulations, or
3 amendment thereto.

4 Except as provided in (c) of this subsection, for purposes of this
5 section the date of publication for a county shall be the date the
6 county publishes the notice that it has adopted the comprehensive plan
7 or development regulations, or amendment thereto.

8 (c) For local governments planning under RCW 36.70A.040, promptly
9 after approval or disapproval of a local government's shoreline master
10 program or amendment thereto by the department of ecology as provided
11 in RCW 90.58.090, the local government shall publish a notice that the 12 shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been approved or 13 disapproved by the department of ecology. For purposes of this
14 section, the date of publication for the adoption or amendment of a
15 shoreline master program is the date the local government publishes 16 notice that the shoreline master program or amendment thereto has been
17 approved or disapproved by the department of ecology.

18 (3) Unless the board dismisses the petition as frivolous or finds
19 that the person filing the petition lacks standing, or the parties have
20 filed an agreement to have the case heard in superior court as provided
21 in RCW 36.70A.295, the board shall, within ten days of receipt of the
22 petition, set a time for hearing the matter.

23 (4) The board shall base its decision on the record developed by 24 the city, county, or the state and supplemented with additional
25 evidence if the board determines that such additional evidence would be 26 necessary or of substantial assistance to the board in reaching its 27 decision.

28 (5) The board, shall consolidate, when appropriate, all petitions
29 involving the review of the same comprehensive plan or the same
30 development regulation or regulations.

31 (6) Pending a board's final decision on a petition for review, or
32 during the sixty-day period following the publication of a
33 comprehensive plan, development regulation, or amendment thereto as
34 provided in subsection (2) of this section, whichever occurs later, the
35 submission of an application for a proposed division of land, building
36 permit, or other project approval shall not result in the vesting of
37 any development rights that may be affected by the comprehensive plan,
38 development regulation, or amendment. After a board has issued its

1 final decision on a petition for review or the sixty-day period has
2 expired, whichever occurs later, the application for the proposed
3 division of land, building permit, or other project approval shall be
4 subject to the zoning, permitting, or other land use control ordinances
5 in effect at that time.

6 Sec. 3. RCW 36.70A.130 and 2006 c 285 s 2 are each amended to read
7 as follows:

8 (1)(a) Each comprehensive land use plan and development regulations
9 shall be subject to continuing review and evaluation by the county or
10 city that adopted them. Except as otherwise provided, a county or city
11 shall take legislative action to review and, if needed, revise its 12 comprehensive land use plan and development regulations to ensure the
13 plan and regulations comply with the requirements of this chapter
14 according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of this
15 section.

16 (b) Except as otherwise provided, a county or city not planning
17 under RCW 36.70A.040 shall take action to review and, if needed, revise
18 its policies and development regulations regarding critical areas and
19 natural resource lands adopted according to this chapter to ensure
20 these policies and regulations comply with the requirements of this
21 chapter according to the time periods specified in subsection (4) of 22 this section. Legislative action means the adoption of a resolution or
23 ordinance following notice and a public hearing indicating at a
24 minimum, a finding that a review and evaluation has occurred and
25 identifying the revisions made, or that a revision was not needed and 26 the reasons therefor.

27 (c) The review and evaluation required by this subsection may be
28 combined with the review required by subsection (3) of this section.
29 The review and evaluation required by this subsection shall include,
30 but is not limited to, consideration of critical area ordinances and,
31 if planning under RCW 36.70A.040, an analysis of the population
32 allocated to a city or county from the most recent ten-year population
33 forecast by the office of financial management.

34 (d) Any amendment of or revision to a comprehensive land use plan
35 shall conform to this chapter. Any amendment of or revision to 36 development regulations shall be consistent with and implement the 37 comprehensive plan.

1 (e) During the review and evaluation process authorized under this
2 subsection, an application for the proposed division of land, building
3 permit, or other project approval shall be subject to the zoning,
4 permitting, and other land use control ordinances in effect at the time
5 the local government takes final action on the application, including
6 all administrative appeals.

7 (2) (a) Each county and city shall establish and broadly disseminate
8 to the public a public participation program consistent with RCW
9 36.70A.035 and 36.70A.140 that identifies procedures and schedules
10 ~~((whereby))~~ for considering amendments to comprehensive plans and 11 development regulations.

12 (b) The procedures under (a) of this subsection must provide that
13 updates, proposed amendments, or revisions of the comprehensive plan
14 are considered by the governing body of the county or city no more
15 frequently than once every year. "Updates" means to review and revise,
16 if needed, according to subsection (1) of this section, and the time
17 periods specified in subsection (4) of this section or in accordance
18 with the provisions of subsections (5) and (8) of this section.
19 Amendments may be considered more frequently than once per year under 20 the following circumstances:

21 (i) The initial adoption of a subarea plan that does not modify the
22 comprehensive plan policies and designations applicable to the subarea;

23 (ii) The adoption or amendment of a shoreline master program under
24 the procedures set forth in chapter 90.58 RCW;

25 (iii) The amendment of the capital facilities element of a
26 comprehensive plan that occurs concurrently with the adoption or
27 amendment of a county or city budget; and

28 ~~(iv) ((Until June 30, 2006, the designation of recreational lands~~
29 ~~under RCW 36.70A.1701. A county amending its comprehensive plan~~
30 ~~pursuant to this subsection (2) (a) (iv) may not do so more frequently~~
31 ~~than every eighteen months; and~~

32 ~~(v))~~ The adoption of comprehensive plan amendments necessary to 33 enact a planned action under RCW 43.21C.031(2), provided that
34 amendments are considered in accordance with the public participation
35 program established by the county or city under this subsection (2) (a)
36 and all persons who have requested notice of a comprehensive plan
37 update are given notice of the amendments and an opportunity to 38 comment.

1 (~~(b)~~) (c) Except as otherwise provided in (a) of this subsection,
2 all proposals shall be considered by the governing body concurrently so
3 the cumulative effect of the various proposals can be ascertained.
4 However, after appropriate public participation a county or city may
5 adopt amendments or revisions to its comprehensive plan that conform
6 with this chapter whenever an emergency exists or to resolve an appeal
7 of a comprehensive plan filed with a growth management hearings board
8 or with the court.

9 (d) Land use development applications filed after the submission or
10 filing of a proposed comprehensive plan or development regulation
11 amendment shall not vest until the time the local government takes
12 final action on the application, including all administrative appeals.

13 (3)(a) Each county that designates urban growth areas under RCW
14 36.70A.110 shall review, at least every ten years, its designated urban
15 growth area or areas, and the densities permitted within both the 16 incorporated and unincorporated portions of each urban growth area. In 17 conjunction with this review by the county, each city located within an 18 urban growth area shall review the densities permitted within its 19 boundaries, and the extent to which the urban growth occurring within
20 the county has located within each city and the unincorporated portions
21 of the urban growth areas.

22 (b) The county comprehensive plan designating urban growth areas,
23 and the densities permitted in the urban growth areas by the 24 comprehensive plans of the county and each city located within the
