I. INTRODUCTION

This case is about whether it was lawful and just to terminate the right of Appellant Kitsap Rifle and Revolver Club to operate its 88-year-old shooting range. The trial court divested the Club of a valuable property right without substantial evidence of nuisance conditions and contrary to Washington law. The trial court declared the Club's range a public nuisance based on speculative safety concerns and a handful of recent, subjective noise complaints contradicted by others in the same community. The Club asks this Court to reverse the trial court and affirm that, it like all other property owners, was entitled to intensify its operations within its historical eight acres of active use. Further, the Club requests this Court enforce the plain language of its contract with Kitsap County to secure the Club's right to continue and improve its nonconforming use, where overwhelming extrinsic evidence corroborates this intent. In the alternative, the Club also asks the Court to estop the County from contradicting the assurances that induced the Club to enter into the contract, and from unjustly enriching itself by concealing material facts about the property it sold to the Club. Finally, this appeal challenges the injunctions and warrant of abatement that give the County virtually unlimited control over the Club without judicial oversight and without any showing by the County of what it intends to do with that power. These remedies should be reversed because they are arbitrary, excessive, and premised on multiple reversible errors.

II. ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

1. The trial court erred in declaring the Club's nonconforming use right terminated.
2. The trial court erred in judging the Club a public noise nuisance.
3. The trial court erred in judging the Club a public safety nuisance.
4. The court erred in concluding the Club unlawfully expanded, changed, or enlarged its nonconforming use.
5. The court erred in denying the Club's accord and satisfaction defense and related breach of contract counterclaim.
6. The court erred in denying the Club's estoppel defense.
7. The court erred in its issuance of two injunctions and a warrant of abatement.

III. ISSUES PERTAINING TO ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

1. May a trial court terminate an ongoing nonconforming use that has not been abandoned where there is no applicable amortization ordinance and no ordinance expressly authorizing immediate termination?
2. Should a property owner be able to continue enjoying his property when a local government claims it is a noise nuisance but has no objective decibel evidence and a significant number of landowners in the community testify the noise has no effect on their rights?
3. Should a property owner be allowed to act freely on his property absent evidence of a substantial and likely harm to his neighbors, as opposed to a mere possibility of future harm?
4. May a court find an expansion, change, or enlargement of use where the property owner has not increased its area of activity or substituted the use for a different kind altogether and has only increased the use within its historical area?
5. May a local government sell a property and then take legal action against the new owner for activities and improvements expressly authorized by the contract of sale where extrinsic evidence confirms the contract was intended to avert such disputes?
6. Should a local government be allowed to induce a person to take title to property by assuring his land use is approved and the sale is intended to secure his right to continue, concealing the contrary

- allegations of its code compliance officer, and then, after completing the conveyance, sue the landowner for continuing the land use?
7. May a trial court issue injunctions and a warrant of abatement that are not narrowly tailored and prohibit lawful conduct.

IV. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This appeal arises from the judgment of the Pierce County Superior Court, following a bench trial, which prohibits the use of the Club's property as a shooting range unless it obtains a conditional use permit (CUP) from the County. The court terminated the Club's nonconforming use right based on the conclusion that the Club unlawfully expanded or changed the use of its property. The court also concluded shooting at the Club constitutes a public noise and safety nuisance. The court issued declaratory and injunctive relief prohibiting all shooting at the Club unless it obtains a CUP. CP 4084–86. The CUP process will give the County broad power to control and condition virtually every aspect of the Club's operations and facilities. See KCC 17.421.030.B.

The Club is a Washington non-profit corporation founded by charter in 1926 “for sport and national defense.” CP 4054 (FOF 4, 6). From its inception, the Club occupied the property where its facilities are presently located and where it has continuously operated as a gun club and shooting range. CP 4054–55 (FOF 7–8). The property consists of approximately 72 acres, including approximately eight acres of active or intensive use or occupancy containing the Club's improvements, roads, parking areas, open "blue sky" shooting areas, targets, storage areas, and associated infrastructure (the "Property"). CP 4054–55 (FOF 8); Exs. 438, 486 (maps delineating eight acres).

Shooting was not historically confined to the developed ranges and cleared areas at the Property, but also took place on the periphery of the pistol and rifle ranges and within the eight-acre historical use area. CP 4059 (FOF 29). Some of the Club's historical activities involved rapid fire shooting and shooting in a variety of directions. VT 1782:21–1784:12, 1873:1–1874:13, 1907:14–23. The Club historically offered firearms training to classes of as many as 70 people. VT 1917:16–1919:21.

In 1993, the Kitsap County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) authored a letter to the Club that recognized and "grandfathered" the Club's nonconforming use right as a shooting range. CP 4055 (FOF 10); CP 4075 (COL 6); Ex. 315. As of 1993, Club activities included rapid fire shooting, fully automatic firearms, cannons, explosives, and "sight in" season for hunters. CP 4059, 4073–74 (FOF 30, 83, 87). Shooting at the Club occurred during daylight hours, which are from as early as 6 am to as late as 10:15 pm. CP 4059 (FOF 30); VT 1027:24– 1028:14, 1096:10–18, 1068:28–25, 1069:7–9. At the time of trial, the Club’s hours were from 7 am to 10 pm. CP 4073 (FOF 80).

Military training occurred at least once in the early 1990s. CP 4071 (FOF 72); VT 2019:12–2020:3. Between 2002 and 2010, the Club hosted U.S. Navy small arms training exercises. CP 4071–72 (FOF 72–75). There is no finding that any Navy training is planned for the future.

The State of Washington owned the Property and leased it to the Club until 2009. CP 4055 (FOF 11). In 2009, the County took title to the Property as part of a package deal in which it obtained other property from the State that the County wanted to develop into a park. CP 4056–57 (FOF 16–17). The State would only convey the parkland to the County if it also took the Club Property. Id. (FOF 17). The County did not want to retain title to the Property because it was concerned about potential heavy metals contamination from its long use as a shooting range, which its appraiser valued as a $2–3 million cleanup liability. CP 4057 (FOF 19). The Club wanted title to the Property because it was worried that if the County owned the Property it would end the Club’s operations there. Id. (FOF 18). The Club’s attorney understood that if it continued operating its shooting range the facility would not be treated as a hazardous waste site. VT 2894:7–2895:9.

The parkland and Club Property were the subject of months of negotiation and years of communication among the County, State, and Club. CP 4056–57 (FOF 17–20). The Club and County eventually negotiated a written Bargain and Sale Deed (“Deed”) to document the conveyance of the Property and their agreement to certain “covenants and conditions” regarding its use. CP 4056 (FOF 14); CP 4087–92 (Deed). On May 11, 2009, the County passed a written resolution stating: “it is in the public interest for firearm safety as well as in the best economic interest of the County to provide that KRRC continue to operate with full control over the property on which it is located.” Ex. 477 at 3 (emphasis added). The public record also represents that the Commissioners had determined the Club was compatible with the community and the County’s long term land use plan. Ex. 293; VT 2116:10–2117:1.

On June 18, 2009, the County recorded a deed transferring the Property from the State to the County, and then immediately recorded the Deed negotiated with the Club. CP 4056 (FOF 14); CP 4087–92 (Deed). Paragraph three of the Deed contains language requested by the Club’s attorney stating that the Club “may upgrade or improve” its facilities within its historical eight acres “consistent with management practices for a modern shooting range.” CP 4088–89 (¶ 3). The Deed also states the Club’s active shooting range shall be confined to its historical eight acres, and any expansion will require an application to the County and compliance with land development ordinances. Id. The Deed requires the Club to offer public access to its shooting range, and requires its activities to conform to “accepted industry standards and practices.” CP 4088–89 (¶¶ 3–5). The Deed requires the Club to indemnify the County against any environmental liabilities at the Property. CP 4087–88 (¶ 1).

Unbeknownst to the Club, before the parties signed the Deed the County’s code compliance supervisor communicated to the County Commissioners and the County’s Deed negotiator his allegations that the Club was, in essence, an unlawful nuisance. VT 2827:3–9, 2828: 19–23, 2829:19–2831:3 (negotiator); VT 415:17–25, 574:9–576:3 (compliance supervisor). The County did not share this information with the Club until after it signed the Deed. VT 2097:2–2098:19, 2090:4–23, 2092:3–20; VT 2893:13–2894:4.

Approximately 18 months after the parties entered into the Deed, the County filed this lawsuit. See CP 2, 88. The County alleged the Club had committed noise and safety nuisance violations, nonconforming use violations, and site development permitting violations. Id. The County’s complaint and three amended complaints have never alleged a breach of the Deed. Id.; see, e.g., CP 2, 88, 630,649, 1491, 1553, 1695, 1757.

After the parties' 14-day bench trial, the Club was continuing its operations when the trial court issued a declaratory judgment permanently terminating the Club's nonconforming use right. CP 4084. The trial court also enjoined all shooting at the Property without a CUP, and permanently enjoined certain specific activities and hours of operation, even with a CUP. CP 4085.

V. ARGUMENT

Conclusions of law are reviewed de novo.¹ Factual findings are reviewed for substantial evidence.² A declaratory judgment is reviewed "as other orders, judgments and decrees."³

A. Termination of the Club's Nonconforming Use Right Is Not Authorized By Law.

The trial court did not decide the scope of the Club's nonconforming use right. Instead, it issued a declaratory judgment abruptly terminating the nonconforming use right, in its entirety, on the grounds that there had been a change of the use, the use had expanded, there was unpermitted site development, the use was a nuisance, or the use

² Jenkins v. Weyerhaeuser, 143 Wn. App. 246, 256–57 (2008) (reversing fact finding that was not supported by substantial evidence). Bering v. SHARE, 106 Wn.2d 212, 721 P.2d 918 (1986); see also In re Request of Rosier, 105 Wn.2d 606, 717 P.2d 1353 (1986) (appellate courts are not bound by the trial court's findings if those findings are based entirely on written material; the court can judge the sufficiency of such materials for itself).

had increased. See CP 4076–80, 84. The Club disputes each of these conclusions, but even if they were correct the law would not authorize termination.

The trial decision cites several legal authorities as support for the termination remedy. At one point, the decision cites to “KCC Chapter 17.460 and Washington’s common law regarding nonconforming use.” CP 4080(COL 26). Later, the decision references KCC 17.455.060, KCC Chapters 17.381 and 17.420, KCC Title 17, and Rhod-A-Zalea & 35th, Inc. v. Snohomish County, 136 Wn.2d 1, 7, 959 P.2d 1024 (1988). CP 4081, 83 (COL 27, 35). None of these authorities support termination.

Title 17 of the Kitsap County Code (“KCC”), “Zoning,” includes Chapter 17.460 regarding “Nonconforming Uses, Structures and Use of Structures” The stated purpose of Chapter 17.460 is “to permit those nonconformities to continue until they are removed or discontinued.” KCC 17.460.010 (emphasis added). Thus, Kitsap County’s policy favors preservation of nonconforming uses. There is no provision in Chapter 17.460 authorizing termination of a nonconforming use right.

Likewise, KCC 17.455.060 says nothing about termination of a nonconforming use right. It only provides that a nonconforming use “shall not be altered or enlarged in any manner” unless doing so will create “greater conformity with uses permitted within, or requirements of, the zone[.]” KCC 17.460.010. Washington common law favors free use of property, and holds that zoning ordinances shall “not be extended by implication to cases not clearly within the scope of the purpose and intent manifest in their language.” State ex rel. Standard Mining & Dev. Corp. v. City of Auburn, 82 Wn.2d 321, 326, 510 P.2d 647 (1973). Therefore, KCC 17.455.060 does not terminate a nonconforming use right.

Remedies for land use violations are provided by the “Enforcement” chapter of Title 17, KCC 17.530. There are three enforcement mechanisms, none of which authorize termination of a nonconforming use right. The first mechanism is a civil infraction, which can result in monetary penalties, restitution, or community service. KCC 17.530.020, 2.116.140, 2.116.150. The second is administrative enforcement, which can result in voluntary correction by the landowner or abatement by the County. KCC 17.530.030, 9.56.030, 9.56.040, 9.56.050, 9.56.060. The third is a suit for injunction to abate a nuisance. KCC 17.530.030. County code does not authorize termination of a nonconforming use right as a remedy for change, expansion, unpermitted development, nuisance, or increased use.

The trial court also cited KCC 17.381 and 17.420. CP 4083 (COL 34–35). These chapters create zoning classifications and a process to obtain a conditional use permit. They do not authorize termination of a nonconforming use right, which exists independently of such later-enacted zoning classifications. See generally, KCC 17.460.

Like Kitsap County Code, Washington common law provides no authority for termination of the Club's nonconforming use right. The trial court cited Rhod-A-Zalea but that case does not authorize termination. 136 Wn.2d at 7. Instead, it emphasizes the great extent to which nonconforming use rights are protected against termination by the Washington constitution and common law.

In Rhod-A-Zalea, the local government required the owner of a nonconforming use to obtain a grading permit even though no such permit was historically required of his peat-mining business. Id. at 3–4, 8–9. The Washington Supreme Court held the permit was required because it was imposed by a reasonable health and safety regulation that would not terminate the nonconforming use. Id. at 19. The landowner had already undertaken the grading and excavation activities that required the permit. Nevertheless, its nonconforming use right was not terminated, and a conditional use permit was not required. Id. at 17. The court distinguished cases where a regulation had the effect of terminating a nonconforming use right or rendering further nonconforming use impractical. Id. at 12–13. Rhod-A-Zalea, therefore, does not support termination, but actually protects the Club from it.

The very essence of a nonconforming use right is its protection of the use against immediate termination by later-enacted government regulation. Id. at 9–10. “[I]t would be unfair and perhaps unconstitutional to require an immediate cessation of a nonconforming use.” Id. at 7.

The only grounds for termination recognized by Rhod-A-Zalea are abandonment by the landowner and amortization by ordinance. 136 Wn.2d 17–19. The court did not find abandonment, and there is no applicable amortization ordinance. The County did not allege abandonment in its pleadings or argue for termination based on abandonment. Even if abandonment could be considered, the Club never abandoned its use of its Property as a shooting range. Abandonment and amortization provide no grounds for termination of the Club’s nonconforming use right.

The trial court terminated the Club’s nonconforming use right on the grounds that there had been a change of the use, the use had expanded, there was unpermitted site development, the use was a nuisance, or the use had increased. There is no legal authority for termination on such grounds. Termination of the Club’s nonconforming use right was in error.

B. The Club Is Not a Noise Nuisance.

The trial court made numerous findings of fact regarding sounds from the Property. See CP 4070, 73–74 (FOF 70, 80–87). The court then concluded the sound of the Club is a public nuisance, and issued a corresponding judgment. See CP 4075–78 (COL 3, 13, 18, 20, 21); CP 4084–85 (Judgment). In essence, the court decided the amount of sound leaving the Property increased from its historical levels—particularly within the last five or six years—and at some point became a public nuisance to the community within two miles of the Club. See, e.g., CP 4073–74 (FOF 84–85).

At trial the County presented no objective sound measurements or expert testimony regarding sound. The County admitted it possesses a decibel meter, which it typically uses to police its sound ordinance. VT 568:16–19. The County did not use the decibel meter in this case and never alleged a sound ordinance violation. VT 597:7–598:9; 626:5–10.

The County’s evidence of sound from the Club consisted almost entirely of lay witness testimony regarding their subjective perceptions. Almost half of the County’s witnesses were not particularly bothered or impacted by the expected noise coming from their pre-existing gun club neighbor. Although the County’s discovery included some audio and video recordings with audible sounds of shooting at the Club, none were calibrated to a decibel meter. The County’s chief building official testified he was not aware of any County study to determine whether the Club was in conformance with the County’s noise ordinance. VT 187:15–18, 268:19–269:3. The trial court denied the Club’s motion for a site visit to the Club and never listened to a live demonstration of shooting at the Club from any location. VT 13:14–14:14.

There are dozens, if not hundreds of homes within two miles of the Club. Ex. 3. Eighteen witnesses who lived within two miles of the Club gave subjective testimony about sound from the Club. See Ex. 3 (depicting locations of County witnesses). Six testified it was not objectionable. The rest had complaints, but there was little agreement about the specifics. The trial court did not find that the sounds from the Club affected equally the rights of every citizen within the “two-mile” community. Instead, the finding was that the complaints of the vocal minority were “representative of the experience of a significant number of home owners within two miles of the Property.” CP 4073 (FOF 84) (emphasis added).

Six of the eighteen witnesses confirmed sounds from the Club do not substantially interfere with the use and enjoyment of their property.⁴ Among the twelve who complained, some complained of only modest annoyances.⁵ Others expressed negative attitudes that appear to have arisen only after learning the Navy's nearby shooting range had closed.⁶ Some let their imagination regarding safety or the sources of sounds get the better of them.⁷ Subsequent owners of the same property had dramatically different experiences.⁸ Some of the most vociferous complaints were made by individuals living furthest from the Club.⁹ It is difficult and unnecessary to reconcile these wildly varying accounts.

⁵ Craig Hughes testified the noise bothers him, but only when he is outside. VT 911:8–12. He testified, “I love where I live,” and he intends to stay. VT 917:21–25. Colby Swanson testified sounds from the Club were only an issue after 10 o'clock at night. VT 520:8–17. Donna Hubert hears sounds from the Club inside her house only “on occasion.” VT 873:220–25. The sounds upset her but have not caused her to change habits or stop inviting visitors. VT 876:18–877:7. William Fernandez admits the sounds he hears in his home are generally “sporadic and distant.” VT 406:17–21.

⁹ Like Mr. Kermath, Mr. Gross lives approximately 1.5 miles from the Club. VT 1388:25–1390:2; Ex. 3. Mr. Gross is the only witness who claims rifle shooting at the Club causes “echoes” or “reverberations” throughout the community. VT 1407:6–14, 1407:24–1408:7.

What is clear is that the rights of landowners within two miles of the Club were not all equally affected.

1. There Is No Noise Nuisance Because the Club Is Exempt From Sound Limitations Between 7AM–10PM.

Washington State and Kitsap County define a nuisance in terms of “unlawful” activity and declare that activity expressly authorized by the legislature cannot be deemed a nuisance. RCW 7.48.120; RCW 7.48.160; KCC 17.110.515; Linsler v. Booth Undertaking Co., 120 Wash. 177, 206 P. 976 (1922) (defining “nuisance” to mean “the unlawful doing of an act”). The State and County have established objective, decibel-based sound regulations that are the prevailing standards for the community surrounding the Club. WAC 173-60-040; KCC 10.28.040. These regulations expressly exempt authorized shooting ranges, such as the Club, from sound limitations between the hours of 7 am and 10 pm. WAC 173-60-050(1)(b); KCC 10.28.050(2). Even if sound regulations were applicable to the Club, there is no evidence the Club ever exceeded them. On this record, the Club is not a noise nuisance.

Under Washington law, a nuisance: “consists in unlawfully doing an act, or omitting to perform a duty, which act or omission either annoys, injures or endangers the comfort, repose, health or safety of others...”

RCW 7.48.120 (emphasis added). This statute is incorporated into the definition of “nuisance” found in KCC. See KCC 17.110.515.

RCW 7.48.160 provides: “Nothing which is done or maintained under the express authority of a statute, can be deemed a nuisance.” This statute is incorporated into Kitsap County Code. KCC 17.110.515. The Washington Supreme Court applied RCW 7.48.160 in Judd v. Bernard, 49 Wn.2d 619, 304 P.2d 1046 (1956). There, landowners brought a nuisance claim to prevent the state from poisoning fish in a lake, which was expressly authorized by statute. Id. at 619–21. The court reasoned it could not find a nuisance because to do so would “usurp legislative and lawfully delegated administrative powers of the state.” Id. at 622.

Under Washington law, statutes, regulations, and ordinances authorizing certain acts must be respected when determining whether an activity is a nuisance. To find a noise nuisance arising from use of the Club’s shooting range between 7 am and 10 pm would usurp the authority of the State, Kitsap County, and the Department of Ecology, which exempt the Club from sound limitations during that time.

State and county regulations regarding permissible sounds from the Club are virtually identical. They each permit a range of levels from 55 to 70 dB, depending on the types of properties. WAC 173-60-040; KCC 10.28.040. They each exempt “[s]ounds created by the discharge of firearms on authorized shooting ranges” between the hours of 7 am and 10 pm. WAC 173-60-050(1)(b); KCC 10.28.050(2).¹⁰ Kitsap County has never argued these exemptions are unreasonable, contrary to law, an abuse of the police power, or otherwise ineffective.

The trial court found the Club’s shooting range was authorized pursuant to its nonconforming use right, as confirmed by the County in 1993. CP 4055 (FOF 10); CP 4075 (COL 6). The only time the Club’s shooting range has ever been unauthorized was when the Club was shut down between the trial court’s decision and the stay of that decision by this Court. At the time of trial, the Club was still authorized, and its exemption from sound limitations should have disposed of the sound-based nuisance claim. The trial court erred in failing to conclude, pursuant to State and local regulations, that shooting sounds from the Club are not a nuisance between 7 am and 10 pm, regardless of volume.

If the shooting range sound exemptions somehow were not applicable to the Club, the decibel limitations themselves would set the standard for the County’s noise nuisance claim. The County failed to explain at trial how it could claim a property owner was a noise nuisance when it had no evidence of any exceedance of its own established decibel limitations, which set the levels deemed reasonable by Kitsap County itself. The proper application of sound regulations to a noise nuisance claim is illustrated by Gill v. LDI, 19 F.Supp.2d 1188 (W.D. Wash. 1998). There, the plaintiffs alleged a quarry was a noise nuisance, and submitted expert testimony and decibel measurements at summary judgment as evidence that the quarry exceeded the applicable state and local regulations. Id. at 1199. The objective decibel evidence allowed the plaintiff to continue to trial on the noise nuisance claim. Id.

Another instructive case is Woodsmall v. Lost Creek Township Conservation Club, Inc., 933 N.E.2d 899 (Ind. App. 2011). There, landowners near a shooting range claimed a noise nuisance. The trial court denied the claim after a bench trial. Id. The Indiana Court of Appeals affirmed, noting, “[t]he decibel level was not addressed in the evidence adduced.” Id. at 903; see also, Concerned Citizens of Cedar Heights—Woodchuck Hill Road v. DeWitt Fish & Game Club, 302 A.D.2d 938, 755 N.Y.S.2d 192 (N.Y. App. 2003) (affirming summary judgment dismissal of noise nuisance claim against gun club because no evidence of violation of local noise control ordinance); see also Lehman v. Windler Rifle & Pistol Club, 44 Pa. D. & C.3d 243, 246, 1986 WL 20804 (Pa. Com. Pl. 1986) (dismissing noise nuisance claim against rifle range based on “general rule” that “no one is entitled to absolute quiet in the enjoyment of his property; but one may insist on a degree of quietness consistent with the standard prevailing in the locality in which one lives”).

The Club is exempt from sound limitations between 7 am and 10 pm. WAC 173-60-050(1)(b); KCC 10.28.050(2). Even if it were not exempt, State and local law measures and limits sounds based on decibels. Without such evidence, the County’s noise nuisance claim relies entirely on the apparently delicate “aesthetic sense” of a handful of lay witnesses, which cannot prove a nuisance. See Mathewson v. Primeau, 64 Wn.2d 929, 395 P.2d 183 (1964) (“That a thing is unsightly or offends the aesthetic sense of a neighbor, does not ordinarily make it a nuisance”). The Club’s counsel is aware of no appellate opinion in Washington where a historical sound source exempt from sound regulations was held a public noise nuisance solely upon the subjective testimony of a few lay witnesses who found it annoying. The trial court’s decision that the sounds of shooting at the Club are a public noise nuisance to the community within two miles from the Club was in error and should be reversed.

2. There Is No Public Noise Nuisance Because Sounds from the Club Do Not Affect the Rights of All Members of the Community Equally.

In addition, the trial court’s decision that the Club is a public noise nuisance should be reversed because the evidence does not show the rights of all members of the community within two miles of the Club were equally affected by sounds from the Club. Since at least 1881, the State of Washington has defined a “public nuisance” as “one which affects equally the rights of an entire community or neighborhood, although the extent of the damage may be unequal.” RCW 7.48.130. Under this statute, a public nuisance does not exist if the rights of only some members of a community are impacted, nor even if a substantial portion of the community is impacted. The rights of the “entire” community must be impacted “equally.” Id.

In State v. Hayes Investment Corp., 13 Wn.2d 306 (1942) the plaintiffs alleged a noise nuisance and sought an injunction against a public beach and trailer camp owned and operated by the State. The Washington Supreme Court on review found the plaintiffs were “not in agrément as to the cause for complaint.” Id. at 311. Therefore, it was clear the activities at issue “d[id] not affect ‘equally the rights of an entire community or neighborhood,’” and there was no public nuisance pursuant to RCW 7.48.130. Id.

In Crawford v. Central Steam Laundry, 78 Wash. 355, 139 P. 56 (1914) the Washington Supreme Court reversed the trial court’s finding of nuisance. The plaintiffs complained of “noises, odors, smoke, and soot,” but their testimony showed they were “not similarly affected.” Id. at 356. The court held it was improper to abate the laundry as a nuisance simply because it was “offensive to some of the residents and property owners within its immediate vicinity.” Id. at 357–58 (emphasis added).¹¹

Under RCW 7.48.130, Hayes Investment Corp., 13 Wn.2d at 306 and Crawford, 78 Wash. at 355, a public nuisance exists only if it has an equal effect on the rights of an entire community or neighborhood. When numerous witnesses from an alleged community testify they have no problem with sounds from a shooting range, the rights of all members of the community are not equally affected. In such a case, there is no public nuisance.

Numerous witnesses who live within two miles from the Club testified that noise from the Club is not a problem for them. Several of these witnesses were called to testify by the County itself, and had no connection with the Club other than their proximity. Among the witnesses who felt the Club’s sounds are annoying, there was substantial disagreement and the evidence was entirely subjective. The rights of the entire community are not equally impacted by sounds from the Club. Therefore, as a matter of law, the trial court’s conclusion that the sounds constitute a public nuisance within two miles of the Club was erroneous. The public noise nuisance decision should be reversed.

¹¹ The claim in Crawford was not a “public” nuisance claim, but the court treated it like one because the plaintiffs were a group of ten people who owned or occupied property in the vicinity of a steam laundry, which they sought to enjoin as a nuisance.

C. The Club Is Not a Safety Nuisance.

The trial court expressly found that the U.S. Navy inspected the Club's pistol range while it was used for small arms military training between 2004 and 2010 and determined the facility was acceptable for training. CP 4072 (FOF 75–76). Despite the Navy's determination, with all its expertise, the trial court concluded the Club is so unsafe as to constitute a public nuisance. CP 4075–78 (COL 3, 11, 21).

The trial court supported its decision with three findings of fact regarding the safety of the range. CP 4070 (FOF 67–69). They include no finding that any particular activity at the Club is unsafe. They include no finding that any bullet from the Club ever struck a person or a nearby property. Instead, the court found that “more likely than not, bullets escaped from the Property's shooting areas” and “more likely than not, bullets will escape the Property's shooting areas[.]” CP 4070 (FOF 68) (emphasis added). The Club's “shooting areas” cover only eight of its 72 acres. CP 4054–55 (FOF 8).

The trial court added that the Club's facilities, safety protocols, and enforcement are “inadequate to contain bullets to the Property[.]” CP 4070 (FOF 69). Yet the court could not find that bullets are likely to leave the Club Property and cause substantial harm. The court found only that bullets from the Club “will possibly strike persons or damage private property in the future.” CP 4070 (FOF 68) (emphasis added). The trial court’s findings of fact do not support its conclusion that the Club is a safety nuisance.

Washington courts recognize that a mere possibility of harm does not constitute a safety nuisance. In Hite v. Cashmere Cemetery Assn., the Washington Supreme Court affirmed that a cemetery was not a nuisance to public health and safety in spite of landowners’ allegations that the cemetery could contaminate their drinking water well. 158 Wash. 421, 424, 290 P. 1008 (1930). The evidence showed the groundwater flowed in the direction of the well, so there was a possibility of harm. Id. The court held that for there to be a nuisance the likelihood of harm must be “reasonable and probable.” Id.

The Indiana Court of Appeals applied similar reasoning in Woodsmall v. Lost Creek Township Conservation Club, Inc., where it affirmed that a shooting range was not a safety nuisance. 933 N.E.2d 899 (Ind. App. 2011). An expert testified it was “possible” for an errant bullet from the range to “potentially” strike a nearby property. Id. at 904. In addition, there was evidence bullets had been found on nearby properties, bullets could ricochet off rocks in the range backstop, bullets had impacted nearby trees, and the overall safety of the range could have been improved. Id. Yet, no one had ever been struck by a bullet leaving the range, and there was no proof that any bullets found off-range had come from the range itself, as opposed to other potential sources in the area. The court found this evidence did not prove a nuisance. See also Lehman v. Windler Rifle & Pistol Club, 44 Pa. D. & C.3d 243, 1986 WL 20804 (Pa. Com. Pl. 1986) (dismissing claims that rifle range was safety nuisance where the chance of an accidental shooting was largely speculative and conjectural, ruling: “[t]he wrong or injury resulting from the pursuits of a trade or business must be plainly manifest or certain”).

The Club acknowledges it is possible for a hypothetical person to violate the Club’s well-enforced rules and safety protocols and shoot into the air, causing a bullet to leave Club property. VT 2109:19–2114:16 (discussing Club safety protocols). Such inappropriate behavior could occur almost anywhere, however, and there is no evidence the Club allows, encourages, or assists in such conduct. Enforcement of rules to prevent misbehavior militates against a nuisance claim. See State v. Hayes Inv. Corp., 13 Wn.2d 306, 312, 125 P.2d 262 (1942) (finding public beach was not a nuisance where operator policed rules prohibiting profanity, drinking, and other misbehavior).

Moreover, whether the Club poses an unlawful safety risk that constitutes a public nuisance should be measured against the County’s lax firearm safety regulations. The County permits shooting outside the Club with few restrictions, allowing any lawful firearm to be shot on virtually any parcel larger than five acres. See KCC 10.24.090. Given the County’s minimal standards for shooting safety, it is ironic that one of the few organizations that invests substantial resources into providing a safe place for shooting has been deemed a safety nuisance.

As the trial court’s findings indicate, the County failed to prove any bullet fired on the Club property has ever caused any actual harm to any person or property. The County also failed to prove that such harm was likely to occur. The evidence fell far short of the “reasonable and probable” likelihood of harm required by Washington law. The trial court’s decision that the Club is a safety nuisance was in error.

D. There Was No Expansion, Change of Use, or Enlargement.

The trial court concluded, on multiple grounds, that the Club unlawfully expanded, changed, and enlarged its use between 1993 and 2009. CP 4075–76 (COL 8–10); CP 4079–82 (COL 25–28, 30, 32–33).¹² This conclusion was in error. The Club has not expanded its use because its areas of active use are confined within the same historical eight acres that were in use when the County affirmed its nonconforming use right in 1993. There was no change of use because the Club has continuously used its Property as a nonconforming shooting range. The Club has intensified its use gradually over the years, largely as a result of the County's own policies. See VT 2102:13–17. Its intensification is protected by the Washington constitution.

The trial court first erred by finding that some activities at the Property constitute “new or changed uses” because they do not fall within the current zoning definition of “private recreational facility.” See CP 4080 (COL 25.b–26) (quoting KCC 17.110.647). This was error because, by its very nature, a nonconforming use is not defined or limited by later-enacted zoning classifications.

Under Washington law, a nonconforming use right is described by the historical use of the property, not by a subsequent zoning classification. See Keller v. City of Bellingham, 92 Wn.2d 726, 727–28 (1979) (“chlorine operations”); Miller v. City of Bainbridge Island, 111 Wn. App. 152, 164 (2002) (“concrete casting business”). In addition, a “use” should not be confused with the individual “activities” associated with it. See KCC 17.110.730 (defining “use” to mean “the nature of occupancy, type of activity or character and form of improvements to which land is devoted”).

To identify an expansion, change, or enlargement of a nonconforming use, the historical use must be identified and then compared to the current use. Instead, the trial court erroneously compared the Club's current use to the type of use that would be permitted under the current zoning definition of "private recreational facility." This reversible error appears to have infected the court's entire analysis of expansion, change, and enlargement.

The trial court compounded its error by failing to identify the extent to which the Club has permissibly intensified its use. Under Rhod-A-Zalea, the Club's nonconforming use is protected by the "broad limits" of the Washington constitution. 136 Wn.2d 1, 7. One of those limits is that intensification of the use is allowed unless an ordinance "specifically prohibit[s] intensification of a nonconforming use by reference to a specified volume of such use[.]" Keller v. City of Bellingham, 92 Wn.2d 726 (1979) (emphasis added). There is no such ordinance here.

When there is no ordinance prohibiting a specific volume of intensification, Keller provides the applicable legal standard. Keller involved a nonconforming chlorine plant that added six cells to its electrolytic cell building. Local citizens brought suit to challenge this as a violation of the facility's nonconforming use right. Id. at 728–29. The Washington Supreme Court ruled:

"Intensification is permissible, however, where the nature and character of the use is unchanged and substantially the same facilities are used. The test is whether the intensified use is ‘different in kind’ from the nonconforming use in existence when the zoning ordinance was adopted.”

Id. at 731 (citations omitted) (emphasis added). The court then applied this standard and held the additional manufacturing cells were a lawful intensification. Id. at 729, 732.

Under Keller, analysis of expansion, change, and enlargement requires a trial court to correctly identify not only the historical use, but also any permissible intensification of that use. This is the only way to determine the full scope of a nonconforming use right and whether and to what extent the limits of lawful intensification have been exceeded. It is the only way to account for the extent to which the County’s own policies contributed to increased use of the Club. VT 2102:13–17; (explaining intent of County code was to direct more shooters to ranges such as the Club). It is the only way to determine what, if anything, must be done to remedy a violation of the Club’s nonconforming use right. The trial court’s failure to identify the Club’s lawful intensification is reversible error.

The trial court also erred in concluding the Club’s intensification of use constitutes an expansion, change, or enlargement. Though the Club’s nonconforming use has intensified over time, it has always been the same kind of use: a gun club and shooting range for “sport and national defense.” CP 4054 (FOF 6) (emphasis added). This use has not unlawfully expanded, changed, or enlarged.

“Expansion” refers to the geographic area or footprint of the use. See KCC 17.460.020.C (“the area of such [nonconforming use] may not be expanded”). The trial court correctly found that shooting was not historically confined to the developed ranges and cleared areas at the Property, but also took place in “wooded or semi-wooded areas of the Property, on the periphery of the pistol and rifle ranges and within [the] claimed eight-acre ‘historic use’ area.” CP 4059 (FOF 29) (emphasis added). The trial court correctly found the Club’s current active and intensive use and occupancy is confined to “approximately eight acres.” CP 4054–55 (FOF 8); Exs. 438, 486 (maps delineating eight acres). The trial court correctly found the remainder of the Club’s 72-acre Property consists of “resource-oriented lands passively utilized by the Club to provide buffer and safety zones[.]” CP 4054–55 (FOF 8) (emphasis added). As these findings show, the Club conducts its shooting activities within the same geographic area or footprint used historically. This is not an expansion of the nonconforming shooting range use.

A “change” of a nonconforming use occurs when a historical use is discontinued and a property becomes devoted to new and different activities. For example, in Miller there was a change of use when a historical concrete casting business in a residential zone was discontinued, the property changed ownership, and the new owner leased the property for a variety of new purposes. 111 Wn. App. at 158, 164–66. There was a change of the nonconforming use.

The trial court correctly decided the Club: “enjoyed a legal protected nonconforming status for historic [sic] use of the existing eight acre range.” CP 4075 (COL 6). The court also referred to “the nonconforming use at the Property as a shooting range[.]” CP 4080 (COL 26). The court even construed the 2009 Deed as “an acknowledgement of eight geographic acres of land that were used for shooting range purposes.” CP 4083 (COL 36).

In this case, the nonconforming use has not changed—it has always been a shooting range. The Club was founded in 1926 “for sport and national defense.” CP 4054 (FOF 6) (emphasis added). The Club has occupied the Property “[f]rom its inception.” CP 4054 FOF (6, 7). In 1993, the County affirmed the Club’s nonconforming use right to operate its shooting range. CP 4055 (FOF 10). Until 2009, the State owned the Property and leased it to the Club under a series of agreements. CP 4055 (FOF 11). Since 2009, the Club has owned the Property. CP 4056 (FOF 14). These findings show the Club has continuously used its Property as a gun club and shooting range since long before 1993, without a change of that specific use.

As discussed above, the test for whether intensification is so severe as to constitute a “change” or “enlargement” is whether the use has become “different in kind.” Keller, 92 Wn.2d at 731. A use is not different in kind if “the nature and character of the use is unchanged and substantially the same facilities are used.” Id. Careful review of the findings and evidence shows the Club’s use has lawfully intensified and is not of a different nature or character.

The Club’s historical use of the Property included a wide variety of shooting and firearm-related activities. As of 1993, Club activities included rapid-fire shooting, use of fully automatic firearms, use of cannons, use of explosives, and “sight in” season for hunters. CP 4059, 4071–74 (FOF 30, 72, 83, 87). Current activities still include these same activities: rapid fire shooting, use of fully automatic firearms, use of cannons, and use of explosives. CP 4073–74, 82 (FOF 81–82, 85–87; COL 32–33). The trial court found these activities have become more common, but such intensification is lawful and does not constitute a change or enlargement of the use.

Next, the trial court concluded the Club’s use has changed or enlarged because its current activities include practical shooting practices and competitions. CP 4070, 82 (FOF 70; COL 32–33). The trial court described this activity as involving “rapid-fire shooting in multiple directions.” CP 4070 (FOF 70). Two witnesses with personal knowledge of the Club’s historical activities testified in detail about shooting competitions and activities that involved rapid-fire shooting, sometimes in multiple directions, that historically took place at the Club. VT 1782:21–1784:12 (Andrew Casella); VT 1873:10–13, 1907:14–23 (County Sheriff Deputy Kenneth Roberts). The trial court was wrong to conclude practical shooting has turned the range into a different kind of use.

To ensure safety, the Club created berms and shooting bays within its historic eight acres using native materials from the Property. CP 4082–84 (FOF 33, 37). Earthen berms or backstops are among the features historically built and maintained at the shooting range. CP 4081 (FOF 29). Continuing that tradition by creating new berms and bays is not a change or enlargement of the use.

The Club has never been a historical preservation or re-enactment society. CP 825. It is and always has been a dynamic community shooting organization. Its historical support for practical shooting reflects the continuing interests of the community to provide for “sport and national defense,” as reflected in the Club’s charter. The Club supports these activities by improving its safety infrastructure in areas where shooting historically took place with fewer berms and backstops. The Club's current use of its historical eight acres is not different in kind from the use that historically occurred there.

Next, the trial court concluded small arms military training activities that formerly occurred at the Club between 2002 and 2010 constitute a change or enlargement of the use. See CP 4071–73, 75–80 (FOF 71–79; COL 8(2), 25.a–b). Yet, as the trial court found, firearm qualification exercises occurred at the Club in the early 1990s. CP 4071 (FOF 72). The Navy training from 2002 to 2010 took place only on the pistol range and on no more than nine days per month. CP 4072 (FOF 75). This limited activity is consistent with the Club's historical mission of supporting national defense. CP 4054 (FOF 6). This is an important interest in Kitsap County and the Bremerton area, where it is common knowledge that the U.S. Navy has had a robust presence for decades, and Navy personnel are members of the community. The Navy training was part of the Club's normal use as a shooting range. See VT 2291:12–23.

Moreover, official U.S. Navy training ceased at the Club in the Spring of 2010. CP 4073 (FOF 79). Such discontinued activities cannot establish a change of use. See Rosema v. City of Seattle, 166 Wn. App. 293, 301, 269 P.3d 393 (2012) (affirming nonconforming use of residential duplex where former unlawful use as triplex had ceased).

Health Servs., 122 Wn.2d 738, 743, 863 P.2d 535 (1993); see also Strand v. State, 16 Wn.2d 107, 115, 132 P.2d 1011 (1943) (defining equitable estoppel).

For estoppel to affect a “governmental” action, as opposed to a “proprietary” one, it must also be shown that (2) manifest injustice will occur without estoppel and (1) government functions will not be impaired. Id. at 743–44. Each element must be proven with “clear, cogent, and convincing evidence.” Id. at 744. Case law regarding estoppel against the government suggests it is highly fact dependent.

The first element of estoppel, inconsistency, can arise from a difference between the government’s current claims and a prior resolution regarding land. See Finch, 74 Wn.2d at 165 (resolution conveying title estopped city from disputing party’s title to property); see also Green County v. Tennessee Eastern Elec. Co., 40 F.2d 184 (6th Cir. 1930) (resolution authorizing dam estopped county from claiming damages for raising of dam).

Inconsistency can also arise from a government’s attempt to repudiate its prior approval or commitment regarding a land use. Spokane, 6 Wash. at 521. In Spokane, a party authorized by ordinance to construct a railway did so in an unauthorized location. Id. at 522, 524. The city was estopped from seeking to remove the track because “the municipal Likewise, the isolated instance in 2009 when U.S. Navy personnel practiced shooting from a military “Humvee” does not constitute a change or enlargement of use because it is within the Club’s chartered purpose and there is no finding or evidence that it was not a historic use or that it will ever happen again. See CP 4072 (FOF 78).

The fact that the Club allowed use of its facility for firearms training by the U.S. Navy and private firearm instructors (for a nominal fee) also fails to prove a change or enlargement of the use. See CP 4071–72 (FOF 73–75). When a Property hosting a nonconforming use is rented to a non-owner, the “decisive inquiry” is not the nature of the entities involved but whether there is a “common use that the various operations share.” Hendgen v. Clackamas County, 836 P.2d 1369, 1371 (Or. App. 1992) (finding off-premises business rented property for same nonconforming use as former on-premises business).

The Club has a long history of firearm training. VT 1875:2–20, 1877:3–21; VT 1917:16–1918:25. From 1976 to 1980, the Club trained “over a thousand” students how to shoot firearms, including .44 magnum pistols and shotguns. VT 1917:16–1919:21. This historical use of the Club is comparable to the Navy’s small arms military training between 2002 and 2010. VT 1320:5–12, 1321:23–1323:7, 1327:21–1328:6, 2027:20–2031:7. Administration of firearm training by a third party, as opposed to the Club, does not change the use to something other than a shooting range.

Next, the trial court concluded there was a change or enlargement of use because of increased hours of shooting at the Club. Yet the trial court specifically found shooting historically occurred at the Club “during daylight hours.” CP 4059 (FOF 30). One of the County’s witnesses and staunch Club opponent, Terry Allison, has lived adjacent to the Club since 1988. He testified that in 1988, hunters shot at the Club as early as 6 am, which is around daybreak in September. VT 1027:24–1028:14, 1096:10–18. Daylight can last until as late as 10:15 pm. VT 1068:18–21. Mr. Allison specifically recalled shooting as late as 9 pm, though he could not recall whether the Club allowed shooting until 10 pm. VT 1068:28–25, 1069:7–9. Ken Roberts, a County Sherriff Deputy, who has been a member of the Club since 1975, confirmed that prior to 1993 the Club allowed shooting until 10 pm. VT 1872:14–19, 1895:6–8. At the time of trial, the Club’s hours were from 7 am to 10 pm. CP 4073 (FOF 80). These hours are within its historical hours of operation and not a change or enlargement of the use.

The trial court found hours of active shooting, historically, were “considerably fewer” than they are today. CP 4073 (FOF 80). The trial court found that as of 1993 shooting occurred at the Property “only occasionally, and usually on weekends and during the fall “sight-in” season for hunters. CP 4059 (FOF 30). Similarly, the trial court found that in the early 1990s shooting sounds from the range were “typically audible for short times on weekends, or early in the morning during hunter sight-in season (September)”; and hours of active shooting were “considerably fewer.” CP 4073 (FOF 80). These vague findings are not supported by substantial evidence in the record because the County’s only evidence is circumstantial testimony regarding perceptions of audible sounds from a distance. Moreover, any increase in the total hours of active shooting throughout the year or the number of shooters at any particular time is a lawful intensification.

Next, the trial court concluded the Club expanded and changed its use when it installed stormwater culverts across the rifle range and constructed of berms in and to the north of shooting Bay 4 in 2006. CP 4065–69 (FOF 52–57, 64–65); CP 4081–82 (COL 28, 30). There was no finding that this work expanded the Club’s geographic area of active use beyond its historical eight acres. This work did not change the kind of use or activities at the Property. It simply routed water away from potential spent metals to protect the nearby wetland from contamination.

Next, the trial court concluded the Club’s clearing and grading in 2005 of an area referred to as the “300 meter range” was an expansion of its use of the Property. CP 4081 (COL 27). This area was outside the historical eight acres, though it had been harvested for timber in 1991. CP 4063 (FOF 41). When the County became aware of the Club's exploratory work in 2005 and issued an oral "stop work" order, the Club complied with the order. CP 4063 (FOF 41–42). The County then informed the Club it was required to obtain a CUP because the work had expanded the Club's land use. CP 4063–64 (FOF 44). In response, the Club abandoned its plans to develop the 300 meter range. CP 4064 (FOF 46). The Club attempted to reforest the area in 2007 but the new trees did not survive. Id. (FOF 48).

If the Club had developed and used the area as a 300-meter range, it would have constituted an expansion of the geographic footprint of the Club's use. Because the Club abandoned the idea, however, there was no expansion of the use or need for a CUP. At trial, chief building official Jeff Rowe confirmed this when he suggested an expansion of a nonconforming use could be brought "back into nonconformity," and then agreed that "if the Club were to withdraw and retract this alleged expansion then it would not need a conditional use permit[.]" VT 278:17–279:15. This was consistent with the County's position in 2006, as described by its code compliance supervisor who met with the Club regarding the proposed 300 meter range before the project was abandoned. VT 590:7–22; VT 591:13–17, 596:22–597:6, 604:1–11; CP 2371–72.

The testimony of Mr. Rowe and the County’s code compliance supervisor is contrary to the trial court’s decision and consistent with decisions by other courts. For example, in Richland Township v. Prodex, Inc., 634 A.2d 756 (Pa. Com. 1993), the trial court determined both the scope of the expansion and the scope of the lawful nonconforming use right. The court did not abruptly terminate the entire use or require it to obtain a conditional use permit for its lawful operations to continue. Id. It only required the use to retract. On appeal, the court affirmed this approach, and modified the trial court’s order to allow a 20% expansion in area of use based on a local ordinance. Id. at 766.

Mr. Rowe’s testimony highlights the trial court’s errors in terminating the Club’s nonconforming use and failing to identify the extent to which the Club has lawfully intensified. According to Mr. Rowe, if there were some expansion, change, or enlargement, the Club would have the option to retract or return to nonconformity without a conditional use permit. The trial court’s decision forecloses this option and forces the Club to obtain a CUP in order for any operations, however, minimal, to continue. This makes all the difference in the world to the Club for two reasons. First, there is no guarantee that the Club can obtain a CUP. VT 283:1–17. Second, the CUP process would give the County carte-blanche to micromanage virtually every aspect of the Club—without the safeguards provided by civil rules of procedure and injunction law. See KCC 17.421.030.B (authorizing broad range of CUP conditions).

In sum, the trial court’s decision regarding expansion, change, and enlargement of the Club’s nonconforming shooting range use is riddled with errors. This Court should either decide on this record that the Club has not unlawfully expanded, changed, or enlarged, or it should remand the case with instructions for the trial court to determine the precise contours of what the Club can and cannot do within its nonconforming use right and its constitutional right of intensification.

E. The Trial Court Erred in Denying the Club’s Breach of Contract Counterclaim and Accord and Satisfaction Defense.

The trial court denied the Club’s affirmative defense of accord and satisfaction and its closely related counterclaim for breach of contract. The affirmative defense alleges the 2009 Deed settled their potential disputes regarding the Club’s nonconforming use and prior potential code violations, and affirmed the Club’s right to operate and improve its facilities within the historical eight acres without jeopardizing its nonconforming use right or obtaining a conditional use permit. CP 1778–80. The Club’s related counterclaim for breach of contract sought a judgment declaring the Club's rights under the Deed and declaring the extent to which the County's claims in this lawsuit are in breach of the Deed. CP 1778-79; 83-84. The trial court erred by not granting the Club's affirmative defense and counterclaim.

The trial court concluded the Deed: "cannot be read as more than a contract transferring Property from the County to the KRRC." CP 4083 (COL 36); see also CP 4087-89 (Deed). This conclusion is incorrect because the Deed contains numerous provisions regarding the rights and obligations of the parties. See generally, CP 4087-89 (¶¶2-4). It is not a mere conveyance of the Property. Id.

The trial court also concluded the language in the Deed does not prohibit or have any effect on the County's enforcement of its ordinances against the Club. CP 4083 (COL 36). This conclusion is in error because it: (1) it fails to give effect to the plain language of the "improvement" clause in paragraph three of the Deed; (2) it fails to give effect to the County's implied duty to allow the Club to provide public access as required by paragraph four of the Deed; (3) it fails to give effect to the County's implied duty not to frustrate the purpose of the contract, which was to allow the Club to continue operating its shooting range at the Property; and (4) it disregards extrinsic evidence that the Deed was intended to clarify the Club's nonconforming use rights and allow the Club to continue as it then existed.

The trial court's first error was in failing to effectuate the plain language of the "improvement" clause in paragraph three of the Deed. Washington follows the "objective manifestation theory of contracts." Hearst Communications, Inc. v. Seattle Times Co., 154 Wn.2d 493, 503, 115 P.3d 262, 267 (2005). Under this approach, the parties' intent is determined by the "objective manifestations of the agreement," and not by the "unexpressed subjective intent of the parties." Id. The goal is to determine "the reasonable meaning of the words used." Id.

Paragraph three of the Deed grants the Club the right to "upgrade or improve" its facilities within its historical eight acres so long as they are "consistent with management practices for a modern shooting range." CP 4089 (¶ 3). With this clause, the parties identified the controlling standard by which the Club's improvements within its historical eight acres would be judged and permitted to continue. The clause does not require improvements within the eight acres to comply with the rules and regulations of Kitsap County for development of private land. This omission must be given effect because the next clause, regarding "expansion," expressly provides that such rules and regulations would apply to any "expansion beyond the historical eight (8) acres[.]" Id. If the parties intended land development ordinances to apply to improvements within the eight acres, the Deed would have said so. Instead, it says the Club may improve the eight acres consistent with management practices for a modern shooting range.

The County never alleged, and the trial court did not find, that any of the Club's improvements violated the "modern shooting range" standard. Instead, the trial court applied County land development ordinances to find certain past, unpermitted improvements within the eight acres are unlawful. See CP 4060–69 (FOF 33–36, 40–46, 49–51, 54–56, 62–64); CP 4079–83 (COL 24–34). The trial court should have effectuated the Deed by holding the improvements were authorized by the Deed, do not require any land development permits, and do not constitute an unlawful expansion, change of use, or enlargement of the nonconforming use. The trial court should have enforced the improvement clause by dismissing the County's claims regarding improvements within the eight acres.

The trial court's second error was in failing to give effect to the County's implied duty to allow the Club to perform the public access provision in the Deed. Washington courts recognize an implied duty in every contract for each party to allow the other to perform its contractual obligations, i.e., a party cannot take action to prevent or interfere with the other's performance of the contract. E.g., Long v. T-H Trucking Co., 4 Wn. App. 922, 926, 486 P.2d 300 (1971); G.O. Geyen v. Time Oil Co., 46 Wn.2d 457, 460–61, 282 P.2d 287 (1955); McCartney v. Glassford, 1 Wash. 579, 20 P. 423 (1889).

G.O. Geyen is particularly instructive. There, an oil company leased property with a requirement that the lessor maintain a service station there. G.O. Geyen, 46 Wn.2d at 460. The oil company controlled the products the lessee was permitted to sell. Id. When the lessee agreed to maintain the service station, it was depending on the company to deliver its products. After entering into the lease, the oil company stopped delivery of its products, preventing the lessee from maintaining the station. Id. at 459. The court held there was an implied obligation for the company to deliver the products because this was necessary for the lessee to maintain the station as the lease required. Id. at 460–61. The oil company breached the contract by preventing the lessee from performing its side of the contract, and it was liable for damages.¹³

Paragraph four of the Deed requires the Club to immediately offer public access to its existing shooting range at the Property being sold by the County. CP 4089 (¶ 4). At the time of the Deed, the County controlled whether the Club would be allowed to continue or whether its existing facilities and operations would be subject to an enforcement action. The Club was depending on the County's approval of its then existing facilities and operations when it agreed to provide public access. After the parties entered into the Deed, the County brought suit to shut the Club down based on alleged violations that existed at the time of the Deed. The suit constitutes breach of contract because it seeks to prevent the Club from performing its side of the contract. The trial court erred in failing to recognize this.

The trial court's third error was in failing to give effect to the County's implied duty not to frustrate the Deed's purpose of allowing the Club to continue operating its nonconforming shooting range as it existed within the historical eight acres of active use. This purpose is evident in the public access provision discussed above and in the confinement clause of paragraph three. CP 4088–4089. That clause provides that the Club "shall confine its active shooting range facilities on the property consistent with its historical use of approximately eight (8) acres of active shooting ranges[.]" Id. This language expresses the manifest understanding between the parties that the Club was purchasing the Property for the purpose of continuing to operate its nonconforming shooting range within its historical eight acres.

When a sale is for a particular purpose, the seller implies that what is sold is suitable for that purpose, and bears the risk if it is not. Tiegs v. Boise Cascade Corp., 83 Wn. App. 411, 426, 922 P.2d 115 (1996) aff'd sub nom. Tiegs v. Watts, 135 Wn.2d 1, 954 P.2d 877 (1998). In Tiegs, the Washington Court of Appeals held the defendant breached a lease that required him to supply water because the water turned out to be contaminated. The seller had an implied obligation to supply clean water because the contract showed the water was intended to be used for irrigation. 83 Wn. App. at 414. The defendant did not know the water was contaminated when he delivered it. Nevertheless, the seller bore the risk that what he sold was not suitable for its intended purpose.

The Deed shows its purpose was to allow the Club to continue operating its nonconforming shooting range within the eight acres. As seller, the County implied the Property was suitable for that purpose, and bears the risk if it is not. The purpose of the Deed should be given effect by dismissing the County's claims and declaring that the County must allow the Club to continue operating its nonconforming shooting range—as it existed on the date of the Deed—within the eight acres. Alternatively, if the Property is not suitable for its intended purpose, the County should be held liable for the Club's defense, abatement, and other costs related to Property's inability to satisfy the purpose of the sale.

The trial court's fourth error was in disregarding the extrinsic evidence affirming the plain meaning and implication of the provisions discussed above. Washington contract law allows extrinsic evidence to be used to show the meaning of "specific words and terms used," though not to show an intention independent of the contract or to vary or modify the written words. Hearst, 154 Wn.2d at 493. Extrinsic evidence may be used to show: (1) the subject matter and objective of the contract; (2) the circumstances surrounding its formation; (3) subsequent acts and conduct of the parties; and (4) the reasonableness of the parties' respective interpretations. Id. at 502. In Chevalier v. Woempner, this Court reversed a trial court's erroneous contract interpretation that was contrary to the words in the contract and the extrinsic evidence of its intended meaning. 290 P.3d 1031, 1036 (Wash. Ct. App. 2012). The Court should do the same here.

The trial court found that the 2009 Deed came about because the County did not want ownership of the Property but had to take it in order to acquire desirable parkland from the State. CP 4056–57 (FOF 16–17, 19). The County commissioners first initiated the idea of the Club taking title to the property and approached the Club with that idea. VT 2842:11–

25. Retaining ownership was not an option for the County because its appraiser found a $2–3 million environmental cleanup might be required at the Property. CP 4057 (FOF 21). The Deed reflects the County’s strategy for avoiding this liability by selling the Property to the Club subject to the Club’s agreement to indemnify the County against any environmental liability at the Property. CP 4088–89 (¶ 1). The trial court found the Club’s interest in the Deed was motivated by concern that if the County took ownership of the Property it might cancel the Club’s long-term lease. CP 4057 (FOF 18). As this finding suggests, the Club’s only interest in the Property was so that it could continue operating there, and the County knew this. This explains why the Club’s attorney drafted the “improvement” clause in paragraph three, which the County accepted. VT 2881:25–2882:2; Ex. 400 at 1–2.

The parties’ motivations for entering into the Deed are also reflected in the County’s resolution, approved in a public meeting on May 11, 2009, with representatives of the Club present. Ex. 477 at 3–4.¹⁴ The resolution is, by definition, an expression of the County’s intent. See Baker v. Lake City Sewer Dist., 30 Wn.2d 510, 518, 191 P.2d 844 (1948) (“[a resolution] is simply an expression of the opinion or mind of the official body concerning some particular item of business”). It contains the following finding of the County regarding the intent of the Deed:

“WHEREAS the County finds that it is in the public interest for firearm safety as well as in the best economic interest of the County to provide that KRRC continue to operate with full control over the property on which it is located[.]”

Ex. 477 at 3 (resolution) (emphasis added). The resolution also contains statements supporting the Club’s existing facilities and operation, its prior use for military training, and the public benefits of allowing the Club to continue. Id.

During the negotiations leading up to the resolution and Deed, both parties were aware that some individuals within the County had taken issue with the Club in the past. In 2005, the Club was exploring the possibility of developing a 300 meter rifle range outside its historical eight acres. CP 4063 (FOF 40). The Club had already done some exploratory work in this area when the County issued a stop work order and alleged the Club would need a conditional use permit (CUP) and other permits, including a site development activity permit (SDAP) if it wanted to continue with its plans. CP 4063 (FOF 40–44). The County had never taken action to substantiate those allegations, but the potential for dispute was known to both parties.

The parties were also both aware, prior to the Deed, that landowners were making allegations against the Club regarding noise, safety, nonconforming use violations, and unpermitted site development. In 2009 the County hosted public meetings regarding its plans for the Property and adjacent parkland owned by the State. Club representatives attended those meetings, where landowners publicly alleged excessive noise, unpermitted land development, and unsafe facilities at the Club. VT 1850:13–1853:21, 2213:1–20. At least one of the Commissioners was informed by the Club’s neighbor, Terry Allison, that he took issue with the Club’s noise, safety, and perceived expansion and change of use. VT 1091:3–25. The County had been aware of some of these allegations since as early as 2005. VT 420:25–427, 432:22–437:13 (testimony of County code compliance supervisor Steve Mount describing complaints as of 2005). Moreover, Mount expressly informed the County’s employee charged with negotiating the Deed, Matt Keough, that there were unresolved zoning enforcement issues regarding clearing of the property and expansion of Club activities, and that he was concerned about the Club’s hours of operation, noise, and safety. VT 2827:3–9, 2828: 19–23, 2829:19–2831:3.

Not only was the County fully aware of the potential issues surrounding the Property, but it had substantial knowledge of the Property and full access to it prior to entering into the Deed. In 2005, personnel from the County Department of Community Development visited the Property on at least three occasions. CP 4064 (FOF 47). On at least one of these visits, County personnel walked through the developed shooting areas en route to and from the 300 meter range area. Id. In 2009, the County's appraiser visited and inspected the Property prior to the execution of the Deed. CP 4057–58 (FOF 21).

Keough also visited and inspected the Property prior to the execution of the Deed. VT 2078:6–2079:8; 2851:2–2852:14. The County was given full access to the Property prior to the Deed. Id. Keough himself testified there were discussions between the parties about what the Club could continue to do on each portion of the Property upon taking title. VT 2827:3–9, 2828:19–23, 2845:22–2646:13. Keough knew the Club was concerned about the long term viability of its operations at the Property. VT 2833:8–13. He knew it was concerned about its existing facilities and its ability to renovate them. VT 2844:21–24.

Keough testified that in his discussions with the Club it was understood that part of the Property was an “active range,” the active range with its “existing facilities” was “expected to continue,” and “expansion” or “going beyond the existing facilities” was “an item for future discussion” that “was going to require County review.” VT 2827:3–9, 2828:19–23, 2845:22–2846:13. Keough was very clear that when he referred to the Club’s “active range” he was referring to it as it existed “under the lease of the DNR,” which was in effect up until the Club took title to the Property. VT 2848:18–2849:3; CP 4055 (FOF 11); Ex. 136 (lease). The parties were clearly negotiating over the Club’s ability to continue as it then existed, and not as it existed at some earlier time.

The trial court found the unpermitted improvements at issue in this case occurred between approximately 1996 and May 2010. CP 4061 (FOF 33). These improvements include shooting bays and culverts within the Club’s historical eight acres. CP 4059–61, 65–66 (FOF 29, 33, 52–54); see Exs. 438. With the exception of one bay created between April 2009 and May 2010, each of these improvements was found to have pre-dated the Deed. The trial court found the County did not know about the culverts until after the Deed. CP 4067 (FOF 57). This was in error because the Club informed the County DCD about the culvert work before it took place, and there is no evidence of any inquiry or objection whatsoever from the County. VT 2049:1–2054:8, Ex. 416 at 2–3.

The County was familiar with the Club and the potential for further dispute when Commissioner Josh Brown entered a letter into the public record stating that the Commissioners had already granted assurance “that the Club and its improvements were not at odds with the County’s long-term interest in the property, and would not jeopardize future planning efforts.” Ex 293. This shows the Deed was a land use policy decision by the County to reject the allegations that had been raised regarding the Club’s compatibility with the community. See also, Exs. 330, 332, 336, 293, 405 (additional extrinsic evidence of Commissioners’ intent to support Club as it existed).

Considering the compelling extrinsic evidence regarding the intent of the Deed, the trial court erred when it found, “[t]he only evidence produced at trial to discern the County’s intent at the time of the 2009 Bargain and Sale Deed was the deed itself.” CP 4058 (FOF 26). The extrinsic evidence consistently and overwhelmingly supports the Club’s interpretation of the Deed, which is that it was intended to clarify the Club’s nonconforming use rights and allow the Club to continue as it existed.

The trial court also erred when it found the minutes and recordings of the BOCC meetings regarding the Deed do not reveal any intent to settle disputed claims or land use status, and that the parties did not negotiate for resolution of such issues. CP 4058 (FOF 23, 25). This finding is in error because the evidence discussed above shows the parties were aware of landowner allegations and prior issues raised by the County that could threaten the Club’s future and resolved to clarify the Club’s rights and allow it to continue. The parties never discussed a “release” or “settlement” in those express terms because there were no pending claims or adversarial allegations by the County that would have caused the Club’s volunteer attorney to negotiate an express release or settlement. See VT 2886:16–2888:4; 2890:6–2893:2; 2893:13–2894:4. On the contrary, the County was voicing strong public support for the Club, and the parties’ negotiating agents discussed the land sale as a “win/win” situation and a “partnership” between the parties. VT 2869:5–15; 2872:24–2873:24; see also VT 2096:3–22. The Deed and other evidence manifest the mutual desire to secure the Club’s future for the public benefit by clarifying the Club’s nonconforming use rights and agreeing it had the right to continue.

Another error in the trial court’s analysis is apparent in its conclusion that the Washington Open Public Meetings Act (“OPMA”), 42.30 RCW, somehow limits the legal effect of the Deed. CP 4083–84. As shown above, the resolution and Deed were public actions in full compliance with OPMA. County commissioners have “broad general powers” to “have the care of the county property . . . and, in the name of the county to prosecute and defend all actions for and against the county, and such other powers as are or may be conferred by law.” Finch v. Matthews, 74 Wn.2d 161, 173, 443 P.2d 833, 841 (1968); RCW 36.32.120(2). The power to prosecute and defend includes the power to reasonably settle or compromise disputes. There is no finding that the Commissioners acted unreasonably or exceeded their authority in supporting the Club and entering into the Deed. The County has never sought rescission of the Deed and the Club is not seeking to enforce a separate contract entered into secretly behind closed doors without public notice or opportunity for comment. OPMA is not a rule of contract interpretation. The only dispute is over the legal effect of the Deed.

Although the Prosecutor's office bringing this case may not have been in control of the County's decision to enter into the Deed, the County and public received the benefit of that decision and the County must be bound by that decision in this action. The intent of the Deed should be given effect by reversing the trial court's judgment for the County and directing the Court to enter judgment in favor of the Club approving all conditions and activities existing as of the 2009 Deed, declaring that the Club's improvements within its historical eight acres must be judged by whether they are consistent with management standards at a modern shooting range, and remanding for a determination of the County's liability to the Club for breach of contract.

F. The Club's Estoppel Defense Should Be Granted.

Like the Club's accord and satisfaction defense and contract counterclaim, the Club's affirmative defense of estoppel is rooted in the Deed. CP 1780–81, 4087–92 (Deed). The trial court denied the Club’s estoppel defense without making any conclusions of law regarding estoppel. This is troubling because the estoppel defense was a focal point of the case and the trial court denied the County’s pre-trial motion to strike it from the pleadings. CP 1608 (order); CP 1452–81 (motion). The trial court may have denied the defense on the grounds that the County’s allegations in this case are not inconsistent with what the County did or said to induce the Club to enter into the Deed. See FOF 24. There are numerous inconsistencies, however, and the estoppel defense does not require the Club to show that the County had already made an official decision to sue the Club when the Deed was executed. Even without such a blatant misrepresentation, the record presents a compelling case for estoppel.

The estoppel defense should have been granted because the Club entered into the Deed in reliance on the words and conduct of the County. The County led the Club to reasonably believe the Deed was intended to secure the Club’s right to continue and improve its nonconforming use within the eight acres. The County now denies this intent. The County led the Club to reasonably believe the County had made a final determination that the Club’s existing facilities and operations were lawful. Shockingly, the County failed to disclose the internal allegations of its chief enforcement officer that the Club was an unlawful nuisance.

The Club would not have executed the Deed as it was written if it had known what the County is now saying regarding the intent of the Deed, the lack of a final determination by the County, and the allegations of its chief enforcement officer. As a result of the Deed and the County's inconsistent positions, the Club's existence, future, and control of its operations are in jeopardy. This manifest injustice can be corrected by reversing the trial court's decision and granting the estoppel defense. This will improve the way the government functions and increase trust in the government by creating an incentive for it to act more honestly and openly with its citizens.

Government entities have been subject to equitable estoppel in property and land use disputes for over 100 years. See Spokane St. Ry. v. Spokane Falls ("Spokane"), 6 Wash. 521, 33 P. 1072 (1893) (estopping city from denying prior approval of railway). Estoppel consists of the following elements: "(1) a party's admission, statement or act inconsistent with its later claim; (2) action by another party in reliance on the first party's act, statement or admission; and (3) injury that would result to the relying party from allowing the first party to contradict or repudiate the prior act, statement or admission." Kramarevcky v. Dept. of Social and officers, from the mayor down” knew the company was acting in reliance on the city’s approval, and “no objection was made.” Id. at 524. The city’s claim was inconsistent with its prior approval.¹⁵

Silence can be inconsistent with a party’s later assertion of an adverse claim, especially when “honesty and fair dealing” demand disclosure of information. Board of Regents of the Univ. of Washington v. City of Seattle (“BRUW”), 108 Wn.2d 545, 741 P.2d 11 (1987) (estopping state from challenging condemnation award to which it had previously acquiesced); Bunn v. Walch, 54 Wn.2d 457, 463, 465, 342 P.2d 211 (1959) (estopping lienholder from objecting to auction and disbursement of proceeds to which it had previously acquiesced).

The law requires a property seller to disclose any known material fact not apparent to the buyer. Sorrell v. Young, 6 Wn. App. 220, 225, 491 P.2d 1312 (1971). A material fact is any “information that substantially adversely affects the value of the property . . . or operates to materially impair or defeat the purpose of the transaction.” RCW 18.86.010(9); accord Sorrell, 6 Wn. App. at 225. In Sorrell, the seller had a duty to disclose the presence of fill at an undeveloped property because the fact was not apparent to the buyer. Id.

Sponburgh*, 66 Wn.2d 135, 143–44, 401 P.2d 635 (1965) (holding liquor control board could be estopped from objecting to change of location it had previously approved); City of Charlestown Advisory Planning Commn. v. KBJ, LLC, 879 N.E.2d 599 (Ind. App. 2008) (estopping city from enforcing development ordinance against land use it had previously approved). A change in “political winds” does not justify repudiation of a prior approval. Id. at 603.

Knowledge of a code violation is a material fact that must be disclosed by a seller with superior knowledge of the violation. Barder v. McClung, 93 Cal. App. 2d 692, 694, 697, 209 P.2d 808 (1949). In Barder, the seller had not been cited for an unpermitted dwelling unit over the garage, but there was evidence the seller knew it was unlawful. 93 Cal. App. 2d 692, 694, 697, 209 P.2d 808 (1949). The buyer knew the apartment was there, but did not know it was unlawful. Id. at 697. The seller had a legal duty to disclose that information. Id. The information affected the value of the property and undermined the purpose of the sale because the seller told the buyer she would be able to rent the unlawful apartment for income. Id. at 694; accord, Morgera v. Chiappardi, CV990172388S, 2003 WL 22705753, *3 (Conn. Super. Ct. Oct. 28, 2003) aff'd, 87 Conn. App. 903, 864 A.2d 885 (2005) (holding seller had duty to disclose knowledge of alleged code violations and fraudulently induced buyer to believe city approved of properties).

Here, the County's present claims are inconsistent with its resolution regarding the intent of the Deed, its approvals and commitments to the Club, its nondisclosure of the allegations of its chief enforcement officer, and its other words and conduct that induced the Club to enter into the Deed. See supra, Part E (regarding manifest intent of Deed). The evidence regarding the County's nondisclosure of the allegations of its chief enforcement officer, Steve Mount, is particularly compelling.

Prior to the Deed, the County DCD's chief enforcement officer communicated to the Commissioners and the County's Deed negotiator the same allegations of land use violations and public nuisance that form the bulk of the County's case. VT 2827:3–9, 2828:19–23, 2829:19–2831:3 (negotiator); VT 415:17–25; 574:9–576:3 (compliance supervisor) The Club was never informed of these facts; it was never informed that anyone from the County believed there were any code violations at the Property; it was never informed that anyone from the County believed it to be in violation of law. VT 2887:1–7, 2891:18–25; VT 2090:4–15, 2095:6–10, 2097:2–7.

The County's silence regarding the adverse claims of its enforcement officer is inconsistent with the County's later assertion of the claims in this lawsuit. Although the Club knew landowners were making these types of allegations, it is a completely different matter for the allegations to be made by the County's own land use enforcement authority. The Commissioners and Keough knew about Mount's allegations. Keough knew the Club was concerned about potential land use disputes and its ability to continue. The Commissioners made numerous statements approving of the Club and confirming the Deed was intended to allow the Club to continue. Yet the Commissioners and Keough never disclosed their knowledge that the County's chief enforcement officer was alleging the Club to be an unlawful nuisance.

Similarly, there is no evidence the County disclosed to the Club that the Deed was not intended to secure its right to continue and improve its nonconforming use. There is no evidence the County disclosed to the Club that its approval of the Club was not a final determination. There is no evidence the County disclosed its position that the Club could be sued for its existing facilities and operations and shut down at any time after giving the County the benefits of the Deed. The County's astounding silence regarding these material facts is inconsistent with its present case.

This evidence shows the County's words, actions, and nondisclosure constitute a conscious concealment of material facts, and not a simple mistake. But even if the County had been suffering from some mistaken understanding when it dealt with the Club, estoppel would be appropriate. A government cannot correct an earlier mistake to the detriment of those who relied on it. See Kramarevcky, 122 Wn.2d at 743; Strand v. State, 16 Wn.2d 107, 119–20, 132 P.23d 1011 (1943) (holding "actual knowledge of the state's officials of the falsity of their representations" is not necessary).

In Strand, the state sold public land as “attached tidelands” and later approved a subsequent owner’s title. Id. at 108–09. Later, the state decided the property actually included detached tidelands or islands, the conveyance was a mistake, and the land should be returned to the state for use as public shooting grounds. Id. at 109. The court held such a mistake could not defeat estoppel because the state, as property seller, had a “duty and responsibility to investigate” before selling the property as attached tidelands, and if it was mistaken the landowner who had relied on that mistake should not bear the consequences. Id. at 120–21.

The second element, reliance, is proven by showing a party would have acted differently if the opposing party had always acted consistently with the allegations in its lawsuit. Reliance may result from communications that create a predictable misunderstanding. Harbor Air Serv., Inc. v. Board of Tax Appeals, 88 Wn.2d 359, 367, 569 P.2d 1145 (1977) (estopping department of revenue where it could have easily prevented misunderstanding). A citizen may rely on the acts of a government subdivision that are within its “general powers . . . even though such powers have been exercised in an irregular and unauthorized manner[.]” Finch, 74 Wn.2d at 171. Such powers include the broad power of county commissioners to sell property and settle disputes. Id. at 166, 172–73; see also Franklin County v. Carstens, 68 Wash. 176, 122

P.999 (1912), overruled in part on other grounds by Gustaveson v. Dwyer, 83 Wash. 303, 310, 145 P. 458, 460 (1915). A citizen is entitled to rely on government officials and assume they know what they are doing. Strand v. 16 Wn.2d at 119.

Here, if the Club is mistaken about the intent and contractual effect of the Deed, then the words and conduct of the County predictably created that misunderstanding. The County's position in this lawsuit is that the Deed was intended to reserve and not affect the County's right to bring enforcement action against the Club's existing facilities and operations. Yet the County never communicated this to the Club and its words and actions led the Club to believe the exact opposite.

There is no question that the Club negotiated and executed the Deed in reliance on the County's words and conduct that were inconsistent with its present allegations. For example, the Club's attorney testified that if the Club had known there was "any kind of possibility that the Club was facing potential loss of its land use status," she "would have said absolutely don't sign [the Deed]." VT 2893:13–2894:4. As she explained, the Club could not accept the Deed's indemnity provision unless the Deed also secured the Club's nonconforming use right because if the shooting range were shut down the Property would be a hazardous waste site. VT 2894:7–2895:9. In that event, the indemnity provision would expose the Club to the multi-million dollar cleanup liability found by the County's appraiser. CP 4087-88 (Deed indemnity provision); CP 4057-58 (FOF 21); VT 2840:3-2841:8 (testimony of County negotiating agent Matt Keough).

The Club's Executive Officer confirmed that if the Club had any idea its legality was a lingering issue within the County, the Club would not have agreed to the indemnity provision. VT 2097:8-16. He explained the Club's decision to sign the Deed and take on the potential liabilities at the Property as follows:

"The totality of it, again, gave us control to be able to operate in a way that we had which had been forward thinking. We have an environmental program we had a good grasp of, we were going to be able to limit better certain liabilities that had been a concern to us in the past such as the ability to fence the property off to keep people from wandering inadvertently into an active shooting range area. And with the knowledge that we've had in being able to run a facility safely and cleanly, we felt that it was worth the risk as it were."

VT 2098:6-19; see also VT 2092:3-20; 2090:4-23. The evidence clearly proves the Club agreed to the indemnity provision in reliance on the specific words and conduct of the County. See also VT 2097:2-7; 2098:6-19, 2222:18-2223:8 (testimony that Club agreed to public access provision and later spent approximately $40,000 improving the Property in reliance on specific words and conduct of the County).

Further evidence shows the internal allegations of the County's code compliance supervisor were unknown to the Club and that it reasonably believed the Deed would secure its right to continue operating and improving its nonconforming shooting range. In 2005 the Club was informed it would need a CUP and other permits to proceed with the 300 meter range project it was exploring. CP 4063-64 (FOF 44). It was also informed that if the Club abandoned the project and retracted to its historical eight acres it would not need a CUP. VT 278:17-279:15, 590:7-22, 591:13-17, 596:22-597:6, 604:1-11; CP 2371-72. The Club attempted to resolve the issue by abandoning its development of the 300 meter range and replanting trees. VT 2041:24-2043:14. In 2007 the Club confirmed the owner of the Property, DNR, was satisfied with the replanting, and shared that information with the County. VT 2043:9-14. The County never informed the Club a permit was still required, never inspected the replanting, and never issued a notice of violation. VT 2043:9-14. Based on the County's conduct and DNR's satisfaction, the Club reasonably believed it had resolved the issue. VT 2038:10-2041:6; 2041:24-2043:14 (describing interactions between Club and code compliance supervisor Steve Mount).

The third element, injury, is satisfied where a landowner takes title and improves a property in reliance on the government's words and actions. See Finch, 74 Wn.2d at 175; Strand, 16 Wn.2d 123–24. It is also satisfied where “the whim of an administrative body could bankrupt an applicant who acted in good faith in reliance upon a solemn written commitment.” State ex rel. Shannon v. Sponburgh, 66 Wn.2d at 143. As discussed above, the Club signed the Deed and took title to the Property in reliance on the County’s words and conduct. VT 2097:2–2098:19, 2090:4–23, 2092:3–20, 2893:13–2894:4. It also spent tens of thousands of dollars improving the Property. VT 2222:18–2223:8. The Club’s existence, future, and control over its shooting range are now in jeopardy. See 283:1–17 (issuance of CUP not guaranteed); KCC 17.421.030.B (authorizing broad range of CUP conditions). The element of injury is satisfied.

Moreover, the greatest injury may be that the County’s inequitable conduct induced the Club to accept the Deed as drafted without giving it fair notice and an opportunity to negotiate over the specific allegations the County was concealing. The County now argues the Deed gives the County all of the benefits it sought but omits the benefits the Club thought it was receiving. This is precisely the type of injury equitable estoppel prevents. See Finch, 74 Wn.2d at 175 (applying estoppel to prevent unjust enrichment of city). The primary elements of inconsistency, reliance, and injury are clearly proven in this case.

To the extent the Club seeks to estop the County from acting in a “governmental” as opposed to “proprietary” capacity, the additional elements of “manifest injustice” and “impairment of government functions” must be analyzed. Kramarevsky, 122 Wn.2d at 743–44. In this case, the Club’s estoppel defense applies to both types of conduct by the County.

At minimum, the Club seeks to estop the County from denying that the Deed was intended to secure the Club’s right to continue and improve its nonconforming shooting range. The Deed was a proprietary action because the government “acts in its proprietary capacity when it undertakes to dispose of public lands.” Strand, 16 Wn.2d at 117. Therefore, the County can be estopped in its proprietary capacity from denying the intent of the Deed. As a result, the County’s enforcement action would be a breach of the Deed but it would only suffer proprietary consequences. The enforcement action could continue but the County would be declared liable for any resulting damages, including defense and abatement costs. Failing to estop the County in its proprietary capacity would give the County an unfair advantage in the marketplace by immunizing it from the legal consequences of its proprietary actions. Id. at 118 (holding government can be estopped where it “puts itself on the plane of the ordinary citizen”).

The estoppel defense also applies if some or all of the County's actions are governmental. The defense seeks dismissal of the County's claims alleging code violations and a public nuisance, which are brought in its governmental capacity. The County should be estopped in every capacity and its claims should be dismissed because this will prevent manifest injustice to the Club while improving, and not impairing, government functions.

"Manifest injustice" exists if there is harm and injustice to the party seeking estoppel. Kramarevcky, 122 Wn.2d at 748. The manifest injustice in this case is evident in the numerous facts discussed above. In particular, the County's concealment and nondisclosure of material facts, especially the allegations of its code compliance official, show the County was not dealing with the Club honestly and in good faith. Moreover, considering the County's numerous assurances that induced the Club to enter into the Deed, it engaged in both active deception and passive concealment. As in Finch, it is "unlikely that any state of facts . . . would impose more manifest injustice" than what the County seeks and the trial court decided in this case. 74 Wn.2d at 175.

In evaluating estoppel, Washington courts hold that "in its business relations with individuals the state must not expect more favorable treatment than is fair between men." Finch, 74 Wn.2d at 161. Some courts even require the government to act with “a more scrupulous regard to justice than belongs to the ordinary person.” Strand, 16 Wn.2d at 107. This is because the government exists to secure “impartial justice” and must “not be heard to repudiate its solemn agreement, relied on by another to his detriment.” Id.

As evident, Washington courts have improved the government by holding it to the same standards of fairness that apply between private citizens. They suggest government functions will be enhanced still further by applying the highest and most scrupulous standards of justice. This reasoning prevailed in Kramarevcky, where estoppel prevented the government from recovering public assistance benefits paid by mistake. 122 Wn.2d at 749. The court emphasized that the mistake arose from the government’s error alone, and estoppel would improve governmental functions by providing an incentive for the government to avoid such mistakes in the future. Id.

The County’s intentional nondisclosure and misleading statements create an even more compelling case for estoppel than the mistake at issue in Kramarevcky. As in that case, estoppel will improve and not impair the County’s governmental functions because it will prevent the County from repeating the type of conduct exhibited here. It will create an incentive for the County to fully and honestly disclose material information about public lands before selling them to its citizens. Creating an incentive for the County to act more honestly and fairly in the future will only improve the way it functions. The benefit of granting the Club's estoppel defense in this case far outweighs the benefit of allowing the type of manifest injustice present here. 122 Wn.2d at 749.

The Club's defense of equitable estoppel should be granted. The County should be estopped from denying any duty to disclose the allegations of its code compliance supervisor prior to selling the Property to the Club. The County should be estopped from denying that the Deed was intended to secure the Club's right to continue and improve its nonconforming shooting range. The County should be estopped from denying that it made a final determination that the Club's facilities and operations were lawful at the time of the Deed. The County's claims should be dismissed and the Club's breach of contract counterclaim should be granted.

G. The Injunctions and Warrant of Abatement Should Be Reversed and Set Aside.

After abruptly terminating the Club's nonconforming use right, the trial court issued two injunctions. The first prohibits all shooting at the Club without a CUP. CP 4085. The second injunction prohibits: (1) the use of automatic firearms; (2) the use of rifles larger than "nominal .30 caliber”; (3) the use of exploding targets and cannons; and (4) shooting before 9 am or after 7 pm. CP 4085. These injunctions were in error because there is no legal basis to terminate any aspect of the Club’s nonconforming use right or hold any of its facilities or activities unlawful, for the reasons discussed above. In addition, even if some aspect of the Club were unlawful, the injunctions would be arbitrary, overbroad, and not appropriately tailored to address specific harms without prohibiting reasonable activities.

Injunctive relief cannot be upheld if it is based upon untenable grounds, manifestly unreasonable, or arbitrary. Walmart, Inc. v. Progressive Campaigns, Inc., 139 Wn.2d 623, 628, 989 P.2d 524, 526 (1999). A decision is manifestly unreasonable if “it is outside the range of acceptable choices, given the facts and the applicable legal standard[.]” In re Marriage of Horner, 151 Wn.2d 884, 894, 93 P.3d 124 (2004). It is based upon untenable reasons if “it is based on an incorrect standard or the facts do not meet the requirements of the correct standard.” Id. The terms, scopes, or duration of an injunction are proper grounds for appeal. King v. Riveland, 125 Wn.2d 500, 504, 886 P.2d 160, 163 (1994).

A trial court “must precisely tailor a permanent injunction to prevent a specific harm[.]” DeLong v. Parmelee, 157 Wn. App. 119, 236 P.3d 936 (2010). The order must “set forth the reasons for its issuance,” it must be “specific in terms,” and must “describe in reasonable detail . . . the act or acts sought to be restrained.” CR 65(d).

Appellate courts routinely reverse and modify an injunction that is excessively broad and not precisely tailored to prevent a specific harm. For instance, in Chambers v. City of Mount Vernon, 11 Wn. App. 357, 361 (1974), the Washington Court of Appeals reversed and modified an injunction enjoining “any quarry operations” because the alleged nuisance conditions could have been remedied without completely shutting down the quarry. Id. at 361.¹⁶

Under Washington law, an injunction must be narrowly tailored to prevent a specific harm, and may only prohibit activities to the extent they create a nuisance. In addition, courts are reluctant to require more mitigation of a nuisance than is practicable. E.g., Payne v. Johnson, 20 Wash.2d 24, 145 P.2d 552 (1944).

At least one court has applied these principles to reverse an excessive injunction of a shooting range. In Christensen v. Hilltop Sportsman Club, Inc., the Ohio Court of Appeals reversed an injunction prohibiting all shooting at a rifle club after neighbors brought a nuisance action alleging excessive noise. 573 N.E.2d 1183 (Ohio App. 1990). The prohibition was “excessive and far out of proportion” because it prevented the club's "reasonable use" of its property at "reasonable times." Id. at 1186. The court reversed with instructions for the injunction to prohibit "no more than is required to eliminate the nuisance." Id.

Here, it appears the trial court issued the first injunction, shutting the Club down unless it obtains a CUP, on the grounds that the Club's nonconforming use right is terminated. Because the Club retains its nonconforming use right, the zoning ordinance does not apply and a CUP is not necessary.

The trial court may have also issued the first injunction to abate common law public nuisance activities or violations of code or statute. See CP 4073, 4077–78, 4081–85 (FOF 67–69, 84–85, COL 16–20, 27–32). However, even if some aspect of the Club were held a nuisance, expansion, change of use, enlargement, or site permitting violation, the injunction would be arbitrary, excessive, and inappropriately tailored.

If any aspect of the Club were a nuisance, the harm would have to be abated by an appropriately tailored injunction. With respect to sound, that would require an objective standard to identify when the sound from the Club is and is not a nuisance. With respect to safety, that would require a clear standard to identify when and under what conditions an activity at the Club is and is not so unsafe as to constitute a nuisance. The trial court found no such standards here. The injunction would also have to allow the Club to continue with any activities that do not cause a specific harm, including its historical activities. After all, the Club operated for decades without allegations of a noise or safety nuisance, so it is acceptable under some circumstances. The trial court's injunction do not satisfy these tailoring requirements.

Likewise, the first injunction is not narrowly tailored to abate an unlawful expansion, change of use, or enlargement of the Club's nonconforming use. The injunction prohibits even those activities lawfully within the Club's nonconforming use right and right to intensify. To be appropriately tailored, the injunction would have to allow those lawful activities, but the trial court did not determine what they are.

The trial court's findings of site permitting violations at the Club should be reversed by the Deed and estoppel defenses. But even if they were allowed to stand, they would fail to support the excessive scope of injunction. These violations relate to specific improvements in specific parts of the Property. The remainder of the Club's improvements are lawful, and shutting the Club down over site development permits would cause the Club irreparable harm. By analogy, a person is not evicted from her home simply because of an unpermitted electrical outlet. A tailored injunction would either order the Club to obtain the permits or, at worst, prohibit the use of only those improvements that require permits, pending abatement.

The requirement of a CUP does not change the disproportionate nature of the first injunction. A CUP would give the County broad power to limit, control, and condition the Club's activities without any narrow tailoring requirement. The first injunction must be reversed. If there were some unlawful condition or activity that had to be enjoined, the case would have to be remanded with instructions for the trial court to determine clear standards for distinguishing between lawful and unlawful activities and improvements.

In addition, the trial court's second injunction prohibiting specific activities should be reversed because it is both arbitrary and excessive. There is no finding or conclusion that the activities enjoined are nuisances per se. These activities are not nuisances per se because no ordinance or statute prohibits them outright. See RCW 9.41.190; KCC 10.24.090; WAC 173-60-050. The only possible grounds for these specific injunctions is that they are nuisances in fact that cannot possibly be allowed at the Property without creating a nuisance. Yet, no such finding of fact or conclusion of law exists in this case. Like the first injunction shutting the Club down, these injunctions are not based on any clear standard determined by the trial court for distinguishing between nuisance and non-nuisance activities. They only reflect the trial court's arbitrary opinions, while corroborating the court's statements at trial suggesting a lack of personal familiarity with firearms. See VT 254:16–25; 521:6–523:1; 254:16–25; 521:6–523:1; 522:24–523:1.

To illustrate, the fourth injunction limits the Club's hours of operation to 9 am to 7 pm. CP 4085. At the time of trial, the Club allowed shooting from 7 am to 10 pm, which corresponds with the hours in which shooting ranges are exempt from state noise regulations and the County's noise ordinance. 2045:1–5; WAC 173-60-050(1)(b); KCC 10.28.050(2). There is no finding to suggest shooting from 7–9 am or 7–10 pm constitutes a safety nuisance. The trial court concluded to allow shooting from 7 am to 10 pm constituted "expanded hours," which have increased noise emanating from the Club and contributed to the noise nuisance. CP 4074 (FOF 85); CP 4078 (COL 21). Yet the trial court also found the Club historically allowed shooting during daylight hours, which are from as early as 6 am to as late as 10:15 pm. CP 4059 (FOF 30). By prohibiting all shooting during early and late hours, the trial court fails to distinguish between an amount of shooting that was historically acceptable within the community and an amount of shooting that is unacceptable.

The same is true for the other specific injunctions because they prohibit activities that historically existed at the Club, yet they are not based on any clear standard. Each of the specific injunctions is arbitrary and excessive.

Finally, the trial court erred by granting the County a warrant of abatement. CP 4085. Pursuant to RCW 7.48.010 and KCC 17.530.030, the County may seek a warrant authorizing it to abate a specific code violation at a property. If there is no violation, there is no basis for a warrant of abatement. Even if there were a violation, however, the warrant of abatement would be in error because it fails to set forth the conditions of abatement in any specific terms. CP 4085 (“the detail of [the warrant of abatement] shall be determined . . . at a later hearing”). The trial court’s failure to craft specific relief again reflects the County’s inability to establish any clear standards to distinguish between lawful and unlawful activities and improvements at the Property. Because there is no basis for the warrant of abatement and it fails to authorize any specific abatement measures, it should be set aside along with the injunctions.

VI. CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the Club respectfully requests entry of an order:

1. Reversing the trial court’s declaratory judgment terminating the Club’s nonconforming use right;

2. Reversing the trial court's judgment declaring the Club a public nuisance, and declaring it is not a nuisance;
3. Reversing every aspect of the trial court's injunction and warrant of abatement and either permanently setting them aside or remanding with instructions for the trial court to narrowly tailor the injunction and warrant of abatement to reflect clear and objective standards and to prevent specifically identified harms.

(1) Issuance.

(a) When the director determines that a violation has occurred or is occurring, he or she shall attempt to secure voluntary correction by contacting the person responsible for the alleged violation and, where possible, explaining the violation and requesting correction.

(b) Voluntary Correction Agreement. The person responsible for the alleged violation may enter into a voluntary correction agreement with the county, acting through the director.

(i) Content. The voluntary correction agreement is a contract between the county and the person responsible for the violation in which such person agrees to abate the alleged violation within a specified time and according to specified conditions. The voluntary correction agreement shall include the following:

(A) The name and address of the person responsible for the alleged violation;

(B) The street address or other description sufficient for identification of the building, structure, premises, or land upon or within which the alleged violation has occurred or is occurring;

(C) A description of the alleged violation and a reference to the regulation which has been violated;

(D) The necessary corrective action to be taken, and a date or time by which correction must be completed;

(E) An agreement by the person responsible for the alleged violation that the county may enter the property and inspect the premises as may be necessary to determine compliance with the voluntary correction agreement;

(F) An agreement by the person responsible for the alleged violation that the county may abate the violation and recover its costs and expenses (including administrative, hearing and removal costs) and/or a monetary penalty pursuant to this chapter from the person responsible for the alleged violation if the terms of the voluntary correction agreement are not satisfied; and

(G) An agreement that by entering into the voluntary correction agreement, the person responsible for the alleged violation waives the right to a hearing before the violations hearing examiner under this chapter or otherwise, regarding the matter of the alleged violation and/or the required corrective action.

(ii) Right to a Hearing Waived. By entering into a voluntary correction agreement, the person responsible for the alleged violation waives the right to a hearing before the violations hearing examiner under this chapter or otherwise, regarding the matter of the violation and/or the required corrective action.

(v) Collection of Costs. If all terms of the voluntary correction agreement are not met, the person responsible for the alleged violation shall be assessed a monetary penalty commencing on the date set for correction and thereafter, in accordance with Section 9.56.040(5), plus all costs and expenses of abatement, as set forth in Section 9.56.060(4) and allowed by RCW 35.80.030.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.035 Prerequisite to notice of abatement.

Absent conditions which pose an immediate threat to the public health, safety or welfare of the environment, the procedures for abatement of conditions constituting a nuisance pursuant to this chapter should be utilized by the county only after correction of such conditions has been attempted through use of the civil infraction process, as specified in Title 17 and Chapter 2.116 of the Kitsap County Code. Once it has been determined by the county that correction of such conditions has not been adequately achieved through use of the civil infraction process, then the county shall proceed with abatement of such conditions pursuant to the provisions of this chapter.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.040 Notice of abatement.

(1) Issuance.

(a) When the director determines that a violation has occurred or is occurring, and is unable to secure voluntary correction pursuant to Section 9.56.030, he or she may issue a notice of abatement to the person responsible for the alleged violation.

(b) Under the following circumstances the director may issue a notice of abatement without having attempted to secure voluntary correction as provided in Section 9.56.030:

- (i) When an emergency exists;
- (ii) When a repeat violation occurs;
- (iii) When the violation creates a situation or condition which cannot be corrected;
- (iv) When the person responsible for the violation knew or reasonably should have known that the action was in violation of a county regulation; or
- (v) When the person responsible for the violation cannot be contacted when reasonable attempts to contact the person have failed, or the person refuses to communicate or cooperate with the county in correcting the alleged violation.

(2) Content. The notice of abatement shall include the following:

- (a) The name and address of the person responsible for the alleged violation;
- (b) The street address or description sufficient for identification of the building, structure, premises, or land upon or within which the alleged violation has occurred or is occurring;
- (c) A description of the violation and a reference to the provision(s) of the county regulation(s) which has been allegedly violated;
- (d) The required corrective action and a date and time by which the correction must be completed and, after which, the county may abate the unlawful condition in accordance with Section 9.56.060;

(e) The date, time and location of an appeal hearing before the violations hearing examiner which will be at least twenty, but no more than sixty days from the date of the notice of abatement, unless such date is continued by the violations hearing examiner for good cause shown;

(f) A statement indicating that the hearing will be canceled and no monetary penalty will be assessed, if the director approves the completed, required corrective action prior to the hearing; and

(g) A statement that the costs and expenses of abatement incurred by the county pursuant to Section 9.56.060(4), and a monetary penalty in an amount per day for each violation as specified in subsection (5) of this section, may be assessed against the person to whom the notice of abatement is directed as specified and ordered by the violations hearing examiner.

(3) Service of Notice. The director shall serve the notice of abatement upon the person responsible for the alleged violation, either personally or by mailing a copy of the notice by certified or registered mail, with a five-day return receipt requested, to such person at their last known address. If the person responsible for the violation cannot be personally served within Kitsap County, and if an address for mailed service cannot be ascertained, notice shall be served by posting a copy of the notice of abatement conspicuously on the affected property or structure. Proof of service shall be made by a written declaration under penalty of perjury executed by the person effecting the service, declaring the time and date of service, the manner by which the service was made and, if by posting, the facts showing the attempts to serve the person personally or by mail. If the person responsible for the alleged violation is a tenant, a copy of the notice of abatement shall also be mailed to the landlord or owner of the property where the alleged violation is occurring. If the alleged violation involves a junk motor vehicle, notice shall be provided to the last registered and legal owner of record of said vehicle (unless the vehicle is in such condition that identification numbers are not available to determine ownership), as well as to the property owner of record, as shown on the last equalized assessment roll.

(4) Extension. Extensions of the time specified in the notice of abatement for correction of the alleged violation may be granted at the discretion of the director or by order of the violations hearing examiner.

(5) Monetary Penalty. The monetary penalty for each violation of this chapter is $250.00 per day or portion thereof.

(6) Continuing Duty to Correct. Payment of a monetary penalty pursuant to this chapter does not relieve the person to whom the notice of abatement was issued of the duty to correct the alleged violation.

(7) Collection of Monetary Penalty.

(a) A monetary penalty imposed pursuant to subsection (5) of this section constitutes a personal obligation of the person to whom the notice of abatement is directed. The monetary penalty must be paid to the county within ten calendar days from either the date of mailing of the violations hearing examiner's decision following a hearing, or the date of mailing the violations hearing examiner's default order if the person responsible for the violation failed to appear for the hearing. Any such monetary penalty also constitutes a lien against the affected real property, in the manner set forth in Section 9.56.060(6).

(b) The prosecuting attorney is authorized to take appropriate action to collect the monetary penalty.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.050 Hearing before the violations hearing examiner.

(1) Notice. A person to whom a notice of abatement is issued will be scheduled to appear before the violations hearing examiner not less than twenty, nor more than sixty calendar days after the notice of abatement is issued. Continuances may be granted at the discretion of the director, or by the violations hearing examiner for good cause.

(2) Prior Correction of Violation. The hearing will be canceled and no monetary penalty will be assessed, if the director approves the completed required corrective action prior to the scheduled hearing.

(3) Procedure. The violations hearing examiner shall conduct a hearing on the notice of abatement and alleged violation pursuant to hearing examiner procedures approved by the board of county commissioners.

(a) Junk Motor Vehicles Placed or Abandoned on Private Property. If a junk motor vehicle is placed or abandoned on private property without the consent of the property owner, the owner of the property on which the vehicle is located may appear in person at the hearing or present a written statement in time for consideration at the hearing, and deny responsibility for the presence of the vehicle on the property with his/her reasons for denial. If it is determined by the violations hearing examiner that the vehicle was placed on the property without the consent of the property owner and that he/she has not subsequently acquiesced in its presence, then the costs of administration or removal of the vehicle shall not be assessed against the property upon which the vehicle is located, or otherwise collected from the property owner.

(4) Hearing Decision. At the conclusion of the hearing on the violation, the violations hearing examiner shall either: (i) affirm the issuance of the notice of abatement if he or she determines by a preponderance of the evidence that the violation exists substantially as stated in the notice of abatement; (ii) dismiss the notice of abatement and grant the appeal if he or she determines that the violation does not exist substantially as stated in the notice of abatement; or (iii) modify the abatement depending on the specifics of the violation. A copy of the violations hearing examiner's ruling shall be mailed to the person found responsible for the violation, the county, and if the person responsible for the violation is a tenant, to the landlord or owner of the property where the violation is occurring.

(5) Monetary Penalties. The violations hearing examiner may assess monetary penalties in accordance with Section 9.56.040(5).

(a) The violations hearing examiner has the following options in assessing monetary penalties:

(i) Assess monetary penalties beginning on the date the notice of abatement was issued and thereafter;

(ii) Assess monetary penalties beginning on the correction date set by the director, or an alternate correction date set by the violations hearing examiner and thereafter;

(iii) Assess less than the established monetary penalty set forth in Section 9.56.040(5), based on the criteria of subdivision (5)(b), below, of this section; or

(iv) Assess no monetary penalties.

(b) In determining the monetary penalty assessment, the violations hearing examiner shall consider the following factors:

(i) Whether the person to whom the notice of abatement was issued responded to attempts to contact the person, and cooperated to correct the violation;

(ii) Whether the person failed to appear at the hearing;

(iii) Whether the violation was a repeat violation;

(iv) Whether the person showed due diligence and/or substantial progress in correcting the violation; and

(v) Any other relevant factors.

(c) The violations hearing examiner may double the monetary penalty schedule if the violation was a repeat violation. In determining the amount of the monetary penalty for repeat violations, the violations hearing examiner shall consider the factors set forth in subdivision (5)(b), above, of this section.

(6) Failure to Appear. If the person to whom the notice of abatement was issued fails to appear at the scheduled hearing, the violations hearing examiner will enter an order of default with findings pursuant to subsection (4) of this section and assess the appropriate monetary penalty pursuant to subsection (5) of this section. The county may enforce the violations hearing examiner's order and recover all related expenses, including attorney fees, plus the costs of the hearing and any monetary penalty from the person to whom the notice of abatement was issued. A copy of the order of default shall be mailed to the person to whom the notice of abatement was issued and against whom the default order was entered, the county, and if the person found responsible for the violation is a tenant, to the landlord or owner of the property where the violation is occurring.

(7) Time Period for Correction. If a notice of abatement is affirmed by the violations hearing examiner, the person responsible for the violation shall have thirty days to abate the violation and bring the property into compliance with the terms of this chapter or the county may perform the abatement required therein, and shall bill the costs in the manner provided in Section 9.56.060 of this chapter.

(8) Judicial Review. Any person with standing to bring a land use petition under Chapter 36.70C RCW, including the county, may seek review of the violations hearing examiner's decision by filing a land use petition in superior court and complying with all requirements of Chapter 36.70C RCW.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.060 Abatement by the county.

(1) The county may abate a condition which constitutes a nuisance under this chapter when:

- (a) The terms of the voluntary correction agreement pursuant to Section 9.56.030 of this chapter have not been met;
- (b) A notice of abatement has been issued pursuant to Section 9.56.040, a hearing has been held pursuant to Section 9.56.050, and the required correction has not been completed by the date specified in the violations hearing examiner's order; or
- (c) The condition is subject to summary abatement as provided for in subsection (2) of this section.

(2) Summary Abatement. Whenever any nuisance causes a condition, the continued existence of which constitutes an immediate threat to the public health, safety or welfare or to the environment, the county may summarily and without prior notice abate the condition. Notice of such abatement, including the reason for it, shall be given to the person responsible for the violation as soon as reasonably possible after the abatement. If the person responsible for the violation is a tenant, notice of such abatement shall also be given to the landlord or owner of the property where the violation is occurring. No right of action shall lie against the county or its agents, officers, or employees for actions reasonably taken to prevent or cure any such immediate threats, but neither shall the county be entitled to recover any costs incurred for summary abatement, prior to the time that actual notice of same is provided to the person responsible for the violation.

(3) Authorized Action by the County. Using any lawful means, the county may enter upon the subject property and may remove or correct the condition that is subject to abatement. The county may seek such judicial process as it deems necessary to effect the removal or correction of such condition.

(a) Removal of Junk Motor Vehicles, Vehicle Hulk or Parts Thereof. If the owner or person found responsible for a nuisance involving a junk motor vehicle, vehicle hulk or any parts thereof fails to correct his/her nuisance within the date specified in the violations hearing examiner's order or notice of summary abatement, the county, upon notification from the director, may enter the subject property to inspect and certify that a vehicle meets the criteria of a junk motor vehicle as defined in this chapter. The law enforcement officer or county agent making the certification shall record the make and vehicle identification number or license number of the vehicle if available and/or legible, and shall also document in detail the damage or missing equipment to verify whether the approximate value of the vehicle is equivalent only to the approximate value of the scrap in it (only if that is one of the definitional criteria that was alleged in the notice of abatement issued by the county). The vehicle shall then be photographed by the officer or county agent, removed from the property by the county, and disposed of by a licensed vehicle wrecker, hulk hauler, or scrap processor with notice to the Washington State Patrol and the Washington State Department of Licensing that the vehicle has been wrecked. The vehicle shall only be disposed of as scrap.

(b) Photographic Record. The county shall maintain a photographic record of all abated junk motor vehicles for a period of two years following abatement. At the conclusion of the two-year period, a written report, along with copies of the photographs, shall be forwarded to the board of county commissioners.

(4) Recovery of Costs and Expenses. The costs of correcting a condition which constitutes a nuisance under this chapter, including all incidental expenses, shall be billed to the person responsible for the nuisance and/or the owner, lessor, tenant or any other person entitled to control the subject property, and shall become due and payable to the county within fifteen calendar days of the date of mailing the billing for abatement. The term "incidental expenses" includes, but is not limited to, personnel costs, both direct and indirect and including attorney's fees; costs incurred in documenting the violation; towing/hauling, storage and removal/disposal expenses; and actual expenses and costs of the county in preparing notices, specifications and contracts associated with the abatement, and in accomplishing and/or contracting and inspecting the work; and the costs of any required printing and mailing. All such costs and expenses shall constitute a lien against the affected property, as set forth in subsection (6) of this section.

(5) Interference. Any person who knowingly hinders, delays or obstructs any county employee acting on direction of the director in the discharge of the county employee's official powers or duties in abating a nuisance under this chapter, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment not exceeding ninety days and/or a fine not exceeding $1,000.00.

(6) Lien – Authorized. The county shall have a lien for any monetary penalty imposed, the cost of any abatement proceedings under this chapter, and all other related costs against the real property on which the monetary penalty was imposed or any of the work of abatement was performed. The lien shall run with the land, but shall be subordinate to all previously existing special assessment liens imposed on the same property and shall be superior to all other liens, except for state and county taxes, with which it shall be on a parity.

(a) The director shall cause a claim for lien to be filed for record within ninety days from the later of the date that the monetary penalty is due, the work is completed, or the nuisance abated.

(b) The claim of lien shall contain sufficient information regarding the notice of abatement, as determined by the director, a description of the property to be charged with the lien and the owner of record, and the total amount of the lien.

(c) Any such claim of lien shall be verified by the director, and may be amended to reflect changed conditions.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.070 Environmental mitigation agreement for outdoor storage of junk motor vehicles on private property.

Pursuant to subdivision (10)(b)(iii)(A) of Section 9.56.020 of this chapter, an environmental mitigation agreement between a property owner and the department is required before the outdoor storage of up to six screened junk motor vehicles will be approved. A property owner may enter into such agreement with the department for a one-time fee of $10.00 per vehicle, the proceeds from which shall be used to assist with clean up costs associated with this chapter. In order to mitigate any potential environmental impact from the storage of these junk motor vehicles, the property owner must agree to institute one of the following two preventative measures:

- (1) Each junk motor vehicle must be drained of all oil and other fluids including, but not limited to, engine crankcase oil, transmission fluid, brake fluid and radiator coolant or antifreeze prior to placing the vehicle on site; or
- (2) Drip pans or pads must be placed and maintained underneath the radiator, engine block, transmission and differentials of each junk motor vehicle to collect residual fluids.

Either preventative measure shall require that the owner of such vehicle(s) clean up and properly dispose of any visible contamination resulting from the storage of junk motor vehicles. The agreement will require the property owner to select one of the two preventative measures and to allow for an initial inspection of the property by the department to assure that the preventative measure has been implemented to the satisfaction of the department. By entering into the agreement, the property owner further agrees to allow the department entry onto the property on an annual basis for re-inspection to assure compliance with the approved agreement. If a property is found to be in compliance with the terms of the agreement for two consecutive inspections, the department may waive the annual inspection requirement. A property owner found to be in violation of the agreement may be fined a monetary penalty in accordance with Section 9.56.040(5), and the property may be deemed a nuisance in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.080 Additional enforcement procedures.

The provisions of this chapter are not exclusive, and may be used in addition to other enforcement provisions authorized by this code.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

9.56.090 Removal of personal property and/or solid waste placed onto public access.

(1) Once personal property and/or solid waste belonging to an evicted tenant has been placed onto public right-of-way pursuant to a court-ordered eviction per Title 59 RCW, the evicted tenant/owner of the personal property and/or solid waste or his/her designee shall have twenty-four hours to remove said personal property and/or solid waste from the public right-of-way. Notice of such removal after twenty-four hours shall be given to the evicted tenant/owner of the personal property and/or solid waste or his/her designee. If, after twenty-four hours, the evicted tenant/owner or his/her designee has not removed the personal property and/or solid waste from the public right-of-way, the property shall be deemed a nuisance, and the landlord/property owner or his/her designee shall remove the personal property and/or solid waste for proper disposal within forty-eight hours or the county shall seek to abate the nuisance, pursuant to Section 9.56.060, to be billed to the landlord/property owner or his/her designee.

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

(Ord. 261 (2001) § 1 (part), 2001)

Chapter 17.381
ALLOWED USES

Sections:

- 17.381.010 Categories of uses established.
- 17.381.020 Establishment of zoning use tables.
- 17.381.030 Interpretation of tables.
- 17.381.040 Zoning use tables.
- 17.381.050 Footnotes for zoning use tables.
- 17.381.060 Provisions applying to special uses.

17.381.010 Categories of uses established.

This chapter establishes permitted, conditional, and prohibited uses, by zone, for all properties within Kitsap County. All uses in a given zone are one of four types:

- A. Permitted Use. Land uses allowed outright within a zone and subject to provisions within Kitsap County Code.
- B. Administrative Conditional Use. Land uses which may be permitted within a zoning designation following review by the director to establish conditions mitigating impacts of the use and to ensure compatibility with other uses in the designation.
- C. Hearing Examiner Conditional Use. Land uses with special characteristics that may not generally be appropriate within a zoning designation, but may be permitted subject to review by the hearing examiner to establish conditions to protect public health, safety and welfare.
- D. Prohibited Use. Land uses specifically enumerated as prohibited within a zone.

(Ord. 415 (2008) § 140, 2008; Ord. 367 (2006) § 105 (part), 2006)

17.381.020 Establishment of zoning use tables.

The tables in Section 17.381.040 establish allowed uses in the various zoning designations and whether the use is allowed as "Permitted," "Administrative Conditional Use," or "Hearing Examiner Conditional Use." Uses with approval processes that will be determined at a future date are identified as "Reserved." The zone is located at the top of the table and the specific use is located on the far-left of the vertical column of these tables.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 105 (part), 2006)

17.381.030 Interpretation of tables.

A. Legend. The following letters have the following meanings when they appear in the box at the intersection of the column and the row:

P	Permitted Use
ACUP	Administrative Conditional Use Permit
C	Hearing Examiner Conditional Use Permit
PBD	Performance Based Development
X	Prohibited Use
R	Reserved

B. Additional Use-Related Conditions. The small numbers (subscript) in a cell indicate additional requirements or detailed information for uses in specific zones. Those additional requirements can be found in the table footnotes in Section 17.381.050. All applicable requirements shall govern a use whether specifically identified in this chapter or not.

C. Unclassified Uses. Except as provided in Section 17.100.040, Allowed uses, if a use is not listed in the use column, the use is prohibited in that designation.

(Ord. 415 (2008) § 141, 2008; Ord. 367 (2006) § 105 (part), 2006)

 - (c) "Adult cabaret,"
 - (d) "Adult novelties,"
 - (e) "Adult entertainment."

(4) Primary signs for adult movie theaters may contain the additional phrase, "Movie Titles Posted on Premises."

- i. Each letter forming a word on a primary or secondary sign shall be of a solid color, and each such letter shall be the same print-type, size and color. The background behind such lettering on the display surface of a primary sign shall be of a uniform and solid color.

ii. Secondary signs shall have only one display surface. Such display surface shall:

- (a) Be a flat plane, rectangular in shape;
- (b) Not exceed twenty square feet in area;
- (c) Not exceed five feet in height and four feet in width; and
- (d) Be affixed or attached to any wall or door of the establishment.

6. Storage of Junk Motor Vehicles.

a. Storage of junk motor vehicles on any property outside of a legally constructed building (minimum of three sides and a roof) is prohibited, except where the storage of up to six junk motor vehicles meets one of the following two conditions:

- (1) Any junk motor vehicle(s) stored outdoors must be completely screened by a sight-obscuring fence or natural vegetation to the satisfaction of the director (a covering such as a tarp over the vehicle(s) will not constitute an acceptable visual barrier). For the purposes of this section, "screened" means not visible from any portion or elevation of any neighboring or adjacent public or private property, easement or right-of-way; or
- (2) Any junk motor vehicle(s) stored outdoors must be stored more than two hundred fifty feet away from all property lines.

b. Environmental Mitigation Agreement. The owner of any such junk motor vehicle(s) must successfully enter into an environmental mitigation agreement with the department of community development (the "department") regarding the property where such vehicle(s) will be located or stored.

- (1) An environmental mitigation agreement between a property owner and the department is required before the outdoor storage of up to six screened junk motor vehicles will be approved. A property owner may enter into such agreement with the department for a one-time fee of $10.00 per vehicle, the proceeds of which shall be used to assist with clean-up costs associated with the administration of Chapter 9.56.

(2) In order to mitigate any potential environmental impact from the storage of these junk motor vehicles, the property owner must agree to institute one of the following two preventative measures:

- i. Each junk motor vehicle must be drained of all oil and other fluids including, but not limited to, engine crankcase oil, transmission fluid, brake fluid and radiator coolant or antifreeze prior to placing the vehicle on site; or
- ii. Drip pans or pads must be placed and maintained underneath the radiator, engine block, transmission and differentials of each junk motor vehicle to collect residual fluids.
- iii. Either preventative measure shall require that the owner of such vehicle(s) clean up and properly dispose of any visible contamination resulting from the storage of junk motor vehicles. The agreement will require the property owner to select one of the two preventative measures and to allow for an initial inspection of the property by the department to assure that the preventative measure has been implemented to the satisfaction of the department. By entering into the agreement, the property owner further agrees to allow the department entry onto the property on an annual basis for reinspection to assure compliance with the approved agreement. If a property is found to be in compliance with the terms of the agreement for two consecutive inspections, the department may waive the annual inspection requirement. A property owner found to be in violation of the agreement may be issued a civil infraction pursuant to this title and could later be deemed a nuisance in accordance with Chapter 9.56.

7. Model Homes. Notwithstanding any other provision of this code, model homes may be constructed within a subdivision prior to final plat approval by the board. The purpose of the model homes shall be to demonstrate a variety of housing designs together with associated on-site improvements, e.g., landscaping, improved driveway, patios. Model homes shall be subject to the following requirements:

- a. The subdivision shall have received preliminary plat approval;
- b. One model home may be occupied as a temporary real estate office;
- c. A model home may not be occupied as a dwelling unit or sold until the approved final plat is recorded;

- d. The number of model home permits that may be issued for any approved preliminary plat or division thereof shall not exceed six;
 - e. If the lots to be used for model home purposes are in a block of two or more contiguous lots, temporary uses may be incorporated onto one or more lots, including temporary offices, parking, parks and playgrounds, subject to the approval of the director, and subject to obtaining a temporary use permit, which shall authorize the temporary uses for a period of one year. The director may extend the temporary use permit for up to two additional periods of six months each;
 - f. Lots used for model homes must be clear of restrictions or easements that may be subject to line changes before recording;
 - g. Stormwater management facilities must be in place and/or approved for recording. Temporary erosion control must be completed prior to occupancy of a model home;
 - h. Roads must be constructed to final alignment and grade such that the building inspector can determine if connecting driveways meet county standards prior to occupancy of a model home;
 - i. Permanent or temporary fire flow for the final plat must be approved by the fire marshal, constructed and operational prior to occupancy of a model home; and
 - j. Final plat restoration bonds must be posted prior to occupancy of a model home.
8. Guest Houses. Guest house may be located in those zones specified in Section 17.381.040 subject to the following conditions:
- a. Guest houses shall not exceed nine hundred square feet. Dimensions are determined by exterior measurements;
 - b. Guest houses shall not include any kitchen plumbing, appliances or provisions for cooking;
 - c. Guest houses shall not include more than one bathroom (may be full bathroom);
 - d. Guest houses shall not include more than two habitable rooms and a bathroom;
 - e. Guest houses shall not be rented separately from the primary residence;

- f. Only one guest house is allowed per parcel;
- g. No guest house is allowed on a parcel with an existing accessory dwelling unit or accessory living quarters;
- h. Newly constructed guest houses must meet the required setbacks for a single-family dwelling consistent with their zone. Legally established, existing structures built before May 7, 1998, may be remodeled into guest houses at their existing setback;
- i. Guest houses must be within one hundred fifty feet of the primary residence;
- j. Guest houses must use the same street entrance as the primary structure;
- k. Guest houses must meet all applicable health district standards for water provision and sewage disposal; and
- l. The property owner must record a notice to title outlining these conditions. This notice must be approved by the department and may not be extinguished without the county's written permission.

17.420.010 Purpose and applicability.

The purpose of this chapter is to set forth the procedure and decision criteria for administrative conditional use permits. An administrative conditional use permit is a mechanism by which the county may place special conditions on the use or development of property to ensure that new development is compatible with surrounding properties and achieves the intent of the Comprehensive Plan. This chapter applies to each application for an administrative conditional use and to uses formerly permitted after site plan review.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.020 Administrative conditional use permit procedure.

- A. The department may approve, approve with conditions, or deny an administrative conditional use permit through a Type II process as set forth in Title 21 of this code.
- B. Applications for an administrative conditional use permit shall contain the information required by the submittal requirements checklist established by the department as set forth in Section 21.04.045.
- C. When an application is submitted together with another project permit application, the administrative conditional use permit shall be processed as set forth in Section 21.04.035.
- D. Upon a determination of a complete application, the director shall have fourteen calendar days to notify the applicant whether the application shall be reviewed administratively or by the hearing examiner at a scheduled public hearing. A public hearing will be required when a component of development located within a commercial zone involves the conversion of previously undeveloped land which abuts a residential zone. Further, the director may refer any proposal under this section to the hearing examiner for review and decision.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.030 Previous use approval.

Where, prior to December 11, 2006, approval was granted for establishing or conducting a particular use on a particular site through a site plan review process, such previous review and use approvals are by this section declared to be continued as an administrative conditional use permit.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.035 Third party review.

The director may require a third party review from a technical expert to provide information necessary to support an administrative decision. The expert will be chosen from a list of prequalified experts prepared and kept current by an annual solicitation by the department. The applicant shall select the expert from a list of three names selected by the director from the larger pre-qualified list. The expert will be contracted to the county and report their findings to the director and the applicant. The cost of such report will be the responsibility of the applicant.

(Ord. 415 (2008) § 186, 2008)

17.420.040 Decision criteria – Administrative conditional use permits.

A. The department may approve, approve with conditions, or deny an administrative conditional use permit. Approval or approval with conditions may be granted only when all the following criteria are met:

1. The proposal is consistent with the Comprehensive Plan;
2. The proposal complies with applicable requirements for the use set forth in this code;
3. The proposal is not materially detrimental to existing or future uses or property in the immediate vicinity; and
4. The proposal is compatible with and incorporates specific features, conditions, or revisions that ensure it responds appropriately to the existing character, appearance, quality or development, and physical characteristics of the subject property and the immediate vicinity.

B. The department may impose conditions to ensure the approval criteria are met.

C. If the approval criteria are not met or conditions cannot be imposed to ensure compliance with the approval criteria, the administrative conditional use permit shall be denied.

(Ord. 415 (2008) § 187, 2008; Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.050 Revision of administrative conditional use permits.

A. Revision of an administrative conditional use permit or of conditions of permit approval is permitted as follows:

1. Minor revisions may be permitted by the department and shall be properly recorded in the official case file. No revision in points of vehicular access to the property shall be approved without prior written concurrence of the director of the department of public works. Minor revisions shall be processed as a Type I application; and
2. Major revisions, including any requested change in permit conditions, shall be processed as a Type II application;

B. Minor and major revisions are defined as follows:

1. A "minor" revision means any proposed change which does not involve substantial alteration of the character of the plan or previous approval, including increases in gross floor area of no more than ten percent; and
2. A "major" revision means any expansion of the lot area covered by the permit or approval, or any proposed change whereby the character of the approved development will be substantially altered. A major revision exists whenever intensity of use is substantially increased, performance standards are reduced below those set forth in the original permit, detrimental impacts on adjacent properties or public rights-of-way are created or increased, including increases in trip generation of more than ten percent, or the site plan design is substantially altered.
3. Any increase in vehicle trip generation shall be reviewed to determine whether the revision is major or minor. The traffic analysis shall be filed by the applicant at the same time as the request for revision. The traffic analysis will follow Traffic Impact Analysis guidelines as set forth in Chapter 20.04.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.060 (Repealed)*

* Editor's Note: Former Section 17.420.060, "Vacation of administrative conditional use permit," was repealed by § 5(b) of Ord. 490 (2012). Section 110 (part) of Ord. 367 (2006) and § 188 of Ord. 415 (2008) were formerly codified in this section.

17.420.070 (Repealed)*

* Editor's Note: Former Section 17.420.070, "Revocation of permit," was repealed by § 5(c) of Ord. 490 (2012). Section 110 (part) of Ord. 367 (2006) and § 189 of Ord. 415 (2008) were formerly codified in this section.

17.420.080 Transfer of ownership.

An administrative conditional use permit runs with the land and compliance with the conditions of any such permit is the responsibility of the current owner of the property, whether that is the original applicant or a successor.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.090 Land use permit binder required.

The recipient of an administrative conditional use permit shall file a land use permit binder on a form provided by the department with the county auditor prior to initiation of any further site work; issuance of any development/construction permits by the county; or occupancy/use of the subject property or the building thereon for the use/activity authorized, whichever comes first. The binder shall serve both as an acknowledgment of and agreement to abide by the terms and conditions of the permit and as a notice to prospective purchasers of the existence of the permit.

(Ord. 367 (2006) § 110 (part), 2006)

17.420.100 Effect.

No building or other permit shall be issued until after the end of the period allowed to appeal the hearing examiner's decision. A. Except as hereinafter specified, any use, building, or structure lawfully existing at the time of the enactment of this title may be continued, even though such use, building, or structure may not conform to the provisions of this title for the zone in which it is located. A use or structure not conforming to the zone in which it is located shall not be altered or enlarged in any manner, unless such alteration or enlargement would bring the use or structure into greater conformity with the uses permitted within, or requirements of, the zone in which it is located.

The hearing examiner shall review and approve requests for alteration or enlargement of the use or structure through the conditional permit review procedures as set forth in Chapter 17.420. In no case shall the enlargement of these uses be allowed beyond the limits of existing contiguously owned parcels at the time of the passage of the amended ordinance.

adjoining or contiguous property without an approved zone change or conditional use permit, and further, any expansion on the original parcel shall comply with the standards contained in the zone within which the use is permitted.

(Ord. 415 (2008) § 214, 2008; Ord. 234 (1999) § 2 (part), 1999; Ord. 216 (1998) § 4 (part), 1998)

- B. Temporary storage of structures for the housing of tools and supplies used in conjunction with the building of roads or other developments;

Chapter 17.460
NONCONFORMING USES AND STRUCTURES

Sections:

- 17.460.010 Purpose.
- 17.460.020 Nonconforming uses of land.
- 17.460.030 Nonconforming structures.
- 17.460.040 Nonconforming uses of structures.

17.460.010 Purpose.

Unless specifically stated elsewhere in this title, a use lawfully occupying a structure or site on the effective date of this title or of amendments thereto which does not conform to the use regulations for the zone in which it is located, is deemed to be a non-conforming use and may be continued, subject to the regulations hereinafter.

(Ord. 281 (2002) § 11, 2002; Ord. 216 (1998) § 4 (part), 1998)

17.460.020 Nonconforming uses of land.

A. The director may grant an application for a change of use if, on the basis of the application and the evidence submitted, the director makes the following findings:

1. That the proposed use is classified in a more restrictive category than existing or preexisting uses by the zone regulations of this title. The classifications of a nonconforming use shall be determined on the basis of the zone in which it is first permitted; provided, that a conditional use shall be a more restrictive category than a permitted use in the same category.
2. That the proposed use will not more adversely affect the character of the zone in which it is proposed to be located than the existing or preexisting use.
3. That the change of use will not result in the enlargement of the space occupied by a nonconforming use. Except that, a nonconforming use of a building may be extended throughout those parts of a building which were designed or arranged to such use prior to the date when such use of the building became nonconforming, provided that no structural alteration, except those required by the law, are made.

The decision of the director may be appealed to the hearing examiner.

B. Unless specifically stated elsewhere in this title, if a nonconforming use not involving a structure has been changed to a conforming use, or if the nonconforming use ceases for a period of six months or more, said use shall be considered abandoned, and said premises shall thereafter be used only for uses permitted under the provisions in the zone in which it is located.

C. A nonconforming use not involving a structure, or one involving a structure (other than a sign) having an assessed value of less than two hundred dollars, shall be discontinued within two years from the date of passage of this title.

D. A use which is nonconforming with respect to provisions for screening shall provide screening within five years from the date of passage of this title.

E. If an existing nonconforming use or portion thereof, not housed or enclosed within a structure, occupies a portion of a lot or parcel of land on the effective date hereof, the area of such use may not be expanded, nor shall the use or any part thereof, be moved to any other portion of the property not theretofore regularly and actually occupied for such use; provided, that this shall not apply where such increase in area is for the purpose of increasing an off-street parking or loading facility to the area specified in this title for the activity carried on in the property; and provided further that this shall not be construed as permitting unenclosed commercial activities where otherwise prohibited by this title.

(Ord. 281 (2002) § 12, 2002; Ord. 216 (1998) § 4 (part), 1998)

17.460.030 Nonconforming structures.

A. A structure nonconforming to the dimensional standards of this title may not be altered or enlarged in any manner unless such alteration or enlargement would bring the structure into conformity with the requirements of the zone in which it is located; provided structural change may be permitted when required to make the structure safe for occupancy or use, provided structural enlargements may be allowed in conformity with the setback requirements of the zone in which it is located, and provided structural enlargements may be allowed if they would not further violate setback requirements, and provided further, that a nonconforming mobile home may be replaced notwithstanding the setback and density provisions of this title, so long as the structure does not further encroach upon any required yard.

B. A nonconforming structure may be maintained with ordinary care.

C. A mobile home and/or single-family residence located on a legal nonconforming lot, may be replaced if destroyed.

(Ord. 216 (1998) § 4 (part), 1998)

17.460.040 Nonconforming uses of structures.

A. Continuation of Nonconforming Use. Any nonconforming use of a structure which was lawfully established and which has been lawfully, actively and continually maintained, may be continued subject to the limitations of this section. In all proceedings other than criminal, the owner, occupant or user shall have the burden to show that the use or structure was lawfully established.

B. Change of Nonconforming Use. A nonconforming use may be changed to another non-conforming use so long as no structural alterations are needed to the structure in which the use is located; provided, any such change of use shall be to a use of equal or greater conformity to those permitted in the zone.

C. No Expansion of Nonconforming Use. A nonconforming use shall not be enlarged or expanded; provided, the structure containing the nonconforming use may be structurally altered to adapt to new technologies or equipment.

D. Expansion of Nonconforming Structures. A structure which is nonconforming by reason of substandard lot dimensions, setback requirements, lot area or a building height in excess of that which is permitted by this title but which does not contain non-conforming uses, may be enlarged or expanded so long as the enlargement or expansion conforms to the requirements of this title; provided, a structure may be expanded to the building line but it may never be expanded to encroach upon a street or be within five feet of a property line other than a street property line.

E. Destruction of Nonconforming Use or Structure. If any nonconforming use or structure is destroyed by any cause, it shall be allowed to be reconstructed or reinstated as a non-conforming use in a similar size and appearance within a period of one year from the date the use or structure was destroyed.

F. Discontinuance of Nonconforming Use or Structures. Any nonconforming use or structure for which the use or occupancy is discontinued for a period of one year shall not thereafter be allowed as a nonconforming use or structure.
