Invasion of Private Affairs or Home Prohibited

A witness who identifies the defendant at a properly held pre-trial lineup may testify to that effect at trial. The witness may also identify the defendant in court before the jury based upon observations of the suspect(s) at the scene of the crime or at the lineup.

Evidence of a witness' identification of a defendant at lineup is offered by the prosecution primarily to strengthen the witness' in-court identification.

Where the witness is unsure in court, or is unable to point the defendant, the prosecutor will offer evidence that on a prior occasion the witness had selected the defendant from a lineup.

Washington Criminal Practice And Procedure Vol. 13

§3224

In Appellant Bluford's Trial, at Direct Examination of one MaryLisa Friebe-Olson concerning a Photo Montage that was presented to Ms. Reant Unida, the supposedly rape victim, did not identify Appellant Bluford as the perpetrator of this crime. DNA From Rings and Rape Kit, clearly Exempt Appellant Bluford From the Charged Crime. Verbatim Report of Proceedings Pg. 64

This Objection alone with countless others, such as CP and Verbatim Report of Proceedings 15, 34, 54, 63, 66, 71, 79, 80, 81, 82, 84, 107, were preserved, and also put impartiality upon Identification.

Evidence as to an accused being identified in a preindictment lineup conducted after the occurrence of the crime with which defendant was later charged, was inadmissible notwithstanding that the accused was not represented by counsel at the time of the lineup. State v. Brewer, 73 Wn. 2d 58, 436 P.2d 473, (1968).

In State v. Smith, First, the appellant contends the court erred in permitting the grandmother to testify about statements Tony made to her, relating what L had said to him, because the testimony contained double hearsay. ER 801 (c). See State v. Stubbsjoen, 48 Wn. App. 139, 147, 738 P.2d 306, (1987) State v. Smith 56 Wn. App. 909, 786 P.2d 320 (1990) Wash. App. No. 9440-5-111

While State v. Tanner, argues that his right to due process was violated by the admission of unreliable hearsay evidence. Specifically, he claims that the trial court abused its discretion when it determined that M.A.'s statement to Cate and Dellinger - Frye, satisfied the nine factors. State v. Ryan, 103 Wn.2d 165, 175-76, 691 P.2d 197 (1984). State v. Tanner Court of Appeal of Washington, Division One 2015 Wash. App. No. 72523-8-1

Federal Hearsay Case Law

In Lilly v. Virginia, The confrontation clause ensures the reliability of evidence against a defendant by subjecting it to rigorous testing in an adversary proceeding. Maryland v. Craig, 497 U.S. 836, 845, 111 L.Ed.2d 666, cross-examination of a declarant, See California v. Green 399 U.S. 149, 158, 26 L.Ed.2d 489, 90 S.Ct. 1930.

Hearsay statements are sufficiently dependable to allow their untested admission against an accused only when (1) the statements fall "within a firmly rooted hearsay exception" or (2) they contain "particularized guarantees of trustworthiness" such that adversarial testing would be expected to add little, if anything, to their reliability. Roberts, 448 U.S. at 66, 65 L.Ed.2d 597, 100 S.Ct. 2531. Lilly v. Virginia 527 U.S. 116, 144 L.Ed.2d 117, 119 S.Ct. 1887

U.S. COA 9th Circuit Hearsay Case Law

In Remis v. Edward U.S. The city and certain police officers, in the civil rights action filed by appellant injured party. The court held that the district court properly excluded the statements on the 911 tape as hearsay because neither declarant had first hand knowledge of the events he described.

Remis v. Edward U.S. Court of Appeals 9th Circuit

45 F.3d 1369, 1995 U.S. App. Lexis 1358, Fed. R. Evid.

Serv. (Callaghan) 383, 95 Cal.

The testimony of witnesses concerning extra judicial identification of the defendant is inadmissible as evidence and does deny the defendant the right to confrontation since such witnesses were present in court and subject to cross examination.

State v. Simmons, 63 Wn. 2d 171, 385 P.2d 389 (1963).

Washington Rules of Evidence (E R)

Title VIII. Hearsay

won't stay far behind, Rule 801 States:

(c) Hearsay. "Hearsay" is a statement, other than one made by the declarant while testifying at the trial or hearing, offered in evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted.

Arguments

§ 2401 Exclusionary Rule

The exclusionary rule is a judicially created remedy which results in the suppression, at a criminal trial of evidence obtained directly or indirectly through a violation of a defendant's constitutional rights. Not only must the illegally obtained evidence be suppressed, but all evidence obtained by exploitation of the primary illegality must also be excluded.

The exclusionary rule of criminal procedure is based on the principle that the <sup>state</sup> should not profit by its own wrong in using, in criminal proceedings, evidence obtained by unconstitutional methods.

Furthermore, the exclusionary rule has a deterrent effect by denying any reward to police officers who may be tempted to use illegal methods to obtain incriminating evidence. In other words the exclusionary rule is designed to deter unlawful police conduct and thereby protect the integrity of the judicial process from the effects of such conduct.

Mapp v. Ohio 367 U.S. 643, 81 S. Ct. 1684, 6 L. Ed. 2d 1081 (1961)

The King County Sheriff Department used inappropriate action, when seizing items from Appellant Bluford's Residence. The Police were in this residence with a valid search warrant and they in this residence able to search for any number of things, things as small as movie ticket. Some of these officers were searching this house very thoroughly, searching for any number of things. And the police were also searching for evidence of the second male suspect at Reant Unida rape and robbery as well as a female suspect or potential suspect at Reant Unida's rape and robbery. Verbatim Report of Proceedings of State v. Bluford Pg. 31

Once the court has ruled the police action illegal the primary evidence is automatically subject to suppression. However, the exclusionary rule applies not only to items initially obtained through illegal conduct, but also to any derivative evidence which is discovered through the illegal activity, known as fruits of the poisonous tree, must be excluded.

The purpose of exclusionary rule is to protect the integrity of the judicial process from the effects of unlawful government conduct.

In which this rule also applies to Appellant Bluford instant case.

The exclusionary rule is applicable in Federal proceeding.

Constitutional Law, Due Process

Protections Provided and deprivations prohibited in General Rights, Interests, Benefits, or Privileges Involved in General Liberties and Liberty Interest

The Due Process of Law Clause of The Fourteenth Amendment exacts from the States for the lowliest and most outcast, all that is implicit in the concept of ordered liberty, embracing all those rights which courts must enforce because they are basic to a free society. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. 14
What constitutes due process of Law within meaning of The Fourteenth Amendment must be determined by the court and not by the gradual and empiric process of inclusion and exclusion. U.S.C.A. Const. Amend. Wolf v. People of the state of Colo, 69 S.Ct. 1359, 338 U.S. 25 (1949)

The Fourth Amendment to The United States Constitution guarantees "the right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures... There is a distinction between a "seizure" and a "search". A seizure affects an individual's possessory interests, whereas a search affects an individual's privacy interest.

The Federal Rule of Evidence Rule 103, 28 U.S.C.A.
Federal Court Rules
Federal Rules of Evidence
Article I. General Provisions

Rule 103. Rule on Evidence
(2)(d) Preventing the Jury from Hearing Inadmissible Evidence. To the extent practicable, the court must conduct a jury trial so that inadmissible evidence is not suggested to the jury by and near

Conclusion

Appellant Bluford seeks redress to each one of his violations, under state and Federal Constitution. Violations of Appellant Bluford's Identification Lineup and Spoliation of Exclusionary Evidence, Requires Dismissal of all charges and remand Appellant Bluford back to a state court of competent judgment. The Separation of the Powers of The State of Washington from the judicial System violated a substantial right of Appellant Bluford and require a Reversible Error and Re-sentencing.
