

Faulk, Camilla

---

From: Suzanne Hayden [shaydencpd@hotmail.com]
Sent: Friday, September 09, 2011 8:46 AM
To: Faulk, Camilla
Subject: offices for public defenders

Is there a firm definition of "office"? Seems to me many part-time public defenders can reasonably use any conference room, which provides a confidential setting to meet. A post office box is appropriate for mail; indeed many office settings prefer to receive their mail at a post office box, because the box is more confidential than mail delivered by the postperson sitting on the receptionist's desk. A cell phone can provide immediate contact, immediate response, and confidential voice mail.

Suzanne M.B. Hayden
Staff Attorney, Juvenile Court
Clallam Public Defender
CPD Annex, 212 E. 5th St.
Port Angeles, WA 98362
360-452-3307
360-457-0739 FAX
shaydencpd@hotmail.com