Part II: Narrative Explanation

This bill would provide that any person or property injured by a peace officer acting under the color of authority of the law would have a cause of action against the officer and other officers who failed to prevent the injury. The bill would provide that the officer's employer may be a named defendant in this cause of action. A defense to the individual officer is provided if the officer is acting according to orders from the superior officer. This defense would not apply to the employer.

Part II.A – Brief Description of what the Measure does that has fiscal impact on the Courts

Section 3 – Would provide that any person injured in person or property by a peace officer acting under color of authority would have a cause of action against the peace officer and against any other peace officer who had the power through reasonable diligence to prevent or aid in preventing the injury from occurring and failed to do so.

Section 4- Would provide that a court must award damages as determined by the trier of fact. The prevailing plaintiff must also be awarded costs and attorney fees. Would provide that a court may also grant injunctive or declaratory relief as appropriate.

Section 7 – Would provide for a three-year statute of limitations.

II.B - Cash Receipt Impact

None.

II.C – Expenditures

Indeterminate, but not expected to be significant. This bill could increase litigation in superior courts, but there is no data available to provide for an estimate of how many new civil cause of actions may be filed.

Court education, updates to civil cause codes, caseload reports, and manuals would be required. These impacts would be managed within existing resources.
