Part II: Narrative Explanation

This bill would change the circumstances for when the one hundred and twenty day timeline to try already incarcerated defendants for unrelated crimes is measured and would require, prior to a person's release from custody, that the incarcerating facility make arrangements for the person to have continued health insurance coverage.

Part II.A – Brief Description of what the Measure does that has fiscal impact on the Courts

Section 1(1) – Would create circumstances for which the one hundred and twenty day timeline to try already incarcerated defendants for unrelated crimes would be waived. These circumstances would include:

- (a) When the pretrial, trial and sentencing on unrelated charges is in a different county than where the pending charges are located;
- (b) When there are proceedings related to competency to stand trial on pending charges; and
- (c) Time during which the person is detained in federal jail or prison.

Section 1(2) – Would require the superintendent having custody of the person to inform any prosecuting attorney or court requesting transportation of the person to resolve untried indictments of the person's current location and their availability for trial.

Section 3 – Would require the superintendent to make health care arrangements at least thirty days prior to the person's release date from custody. These arrangements would include the person's planned release date to the person's healthcare insurance provider, arrangements to get the person enrolled in a healthcare plan if they do not have coverage, and share health insurance providers additional health information to assist with continuity of care.
