I suggest the words "facsimile machine document" be replaced with "fax." Everyone knows what a fax is. I have never heard anyone use the term "facsimile machine document."

Likewise, I suggest the words "electronic mail" be replaced with "email." Again, everyone knows what that term means.

The word "Said" should be replaced with "The," which is what "Said" means in that context. The drafters of the court rules generally strive to avoid legalese.

A shorter rule is better than a longer rule.
