It is my understanding the supreme court is considering having more persons acting as CPG's to be on the Board. It does seem to me this is a reasonable proposal. One of the things that has come up over the years I have had my license (since 2014) is that sometimes the Board seems out of touch with the individuals who have a license, but don't have my clients, and tend to work mostly for Medicaid and/or intellectually disabled people who don't have resources. It is difficult and expensive to maintain this license, and a little more understanding for those who carry small caseloads might be a good thing.

thank you
