Hi.

I am moving out of this state after my wife was the victim of an attempted kidnapping and attempted rape and the judge thought it was fair to let him out of custody THE SAME DAY with 0$ bail. 5 generations of raising law abiding tax paying members of the community will be coming to an end because of the immoral lawlessness that starts at the very top.

My email is an attempt to give a voice to your future victims. Have any of you been a victim of a serious violent crime? Is that the problem - you aren't able to see the pain and lasting torment the victim or survivor is subjected to so you plain just don't care? That is certainly what it feels like. What happened to the idea that bad people that do bad things are.... BAD for society and should be locked up, to the fullest extent of the existing laws, and not given any other consideration. Stop blaming the criminals circumstances, you are enabling them. I promise your future families and the future families of every other Washington citizen will thank you for doing the right thing, not the evil thing. Stop justifying the criminal's behavior. Segregate them entirely from the innocent victims that are just trying to go to work (to pay YOUR salaries) and raise their children peacefully.

The choice is simple. Right, or Wrong. Good, or Evil.

Pass these new laws and in my opinion, not only are you wrong, but you are indeed EVIL. Kids have nightmares about the boogeyman under their beds. Us parents have nightmares about the PURE EVIL that lives within those who are making us extremely unsafe with their poorly thought out ideas that they are choosing (It IS your choice) to impose on the innocent citizens of this state.

Do the right thing by the law abiding citizens. Not the evil ones. Which side are you on?

-Ryan
