The Court may assess actual costs or other sanctions for a violation of this rule.

(i) Trial Briefs. Trial briefs shall be submitted in all cases. The submitting party shall file the original with the Clerk and provide a bench copy to the Judge and one copy to each opposing party. [Adopted March 19, 2020]

LFLCR 16
PRETRIAL PROCEDURE, FORMULATING ISSUES, AND MEDIATION

(b) Pretrial Order.

(1) Settlement Conference. The Court may order a settlement conference in any family law case on its own motion or on the motion of a party. The motion of a party for a settlement conference shall be noted on the family law motion calendar. If a settlement conference is ordered, all parties and their attorneys, if any, shall attend personally unless excused by the settlement Judge and all persons in attendance shall be prepared to discuss in detail and in good faith the issues of fact and law remaining, the evidence pertaining to the issues, and the respective positions of the parties on settlement. Settlement conference proceedings shall be privileged and not recorded. If a settlement is not reached, the settlement Judge shall not make any subsequent rulings or preside at that trial on the merits without consent of all parties.

(2) Pretrial Conference. In all family law cases, the Court Administrator will schedule a pretrial conference on the family law motion calendar the week before the week the case is scheduled for trial. Prior to the pretrial conference, if the parties have not agreed on the division of the parties' assets and liabilities, each party shall, utilizing a format consistent with that set forth in the form available at this link: <http://www.co.grays-harbor.wa.us/DivofAssets-Liabilities.pdf>, file and exchange a document setting forth that party's proposed allocation and the estimated values of the items before the Court for division. The attorneys and/or parties shall attend the pretrial conference to discuss the status of the case and readiness for trial.

(A) Pretrial Statement. In any contested family law action in which property division, the parenting plan, spousal maintenance, or child support is at issue, each party shall serve on the other party and file with the Court a written summary setting forth a brief statement of the issues in dispute and a brief statement of the party's proposed resolution of the issues.

Unless otherwise excused by the Court, each party's pretrial statement must be served and filed no later than the day of pretrial conference or settlement conference, whichever occurs first, unless otherwise ordered by the Court. Failure to timely serve and file the pretrial statement as required may result in sanctions.

(c) Mediation

(1)(a) Mediation requirement for cases without children. All contested family law matters where custody of minor children is not at issue are subject to mandatory mediation prior to being set for trial. Upon the Court's determination that there is good cause not to require mediation, including cases involving domestic violence, power imbalances, and child abuse (RCW 26.09.016), the court may waive the mediation requirement. A history of reported domestic violence or criminal history of domestic violence is not required for the Court to make a finding of good cause not to require mediation. The Court's determination with regard to whether mediation is inappropriate due to domestic violence, power imbalance, or child abuse concerns will be made based on the evidence submitted by the parties, including any history of protection orders.

(1)(b) Mediation requirement for cases with children. In all contested family law matters where custody of minor children is at issue, the court may, but is not required to order mediation. Mediation may be ordered upon the motion of any party or the court may order it on its own motion if the court determines that mediation is appropriate.

(2) Mediators. The parties may select a mediator from the following categories.

- (i) Mediation Panel. There shall be a panel of family law mediators established by the Court. The list of mediators and their information sheets will be available to the public in the Court Administrator's office.
- (ii) Any family law mediator certified as such by a Washington State dispute resolution center is qualified to serve as a mediator under this paragraph.
- (iii) The parties may stipulate to a mediator not listed on the panel or holding a current state certification so long as that mediator is otherwise qualified by training, education and/or experience.
- (iv) If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, the Court shall upon motion by any party appoint a mediator. Appointment of a mediator is subject to the mediator's right to decline to serve.

(3) Authority of Mediator. The mediator has the authority to determine the time, place and duration of mediation. Each party shall submit available dates to the mediator within 14 days of the appointment of a mediator. In appropriate cases, the mediator shall have the authority to terminate the mediation prior to completion. The mediator has authority to cancel or terminate mediation if a party's Mediation Statement is materially deficient.

(4) Cost of Mediation. If the parties are unable to agree on the allocation of mediation costs, the Court will determine responsibility for the cost of mediation upon motion of any party. The parties shall submit financial declarations if the Court is asked to determine responsibility for the cost of mediation. Mediators may require payment in advance.

(5) Mediation Orders and Process. Upon the filing of a Response to a Petition for dissolution, legal separation, custody or visitation, major modification of a parenting plan, or non-parental custody, the Petitioner shall note the matter for mandatory mediation on forms prescribed by the Court and available at the Court's website.

An order shall be entered setting forth the following:

Mediation status (whether the case is to be mediated); and

Mediation terms (including but not limited to the mediator and allocation of costs of mediation).

If the parties agree as to mediation status and/or terms, they may submit an agreed order for the Court's approval. If the parties are unable to agree to the status and/or all terms of mediation, a party may file and note a motion for entry of an order setting the status and terms of mediation.

(6) Timing of Mediation. Mediation shall occur within 180 days of the case being filed unless waived or extended by the Court.

(7) Discovery. The requirement of mediation shall not prevent the Court from entering temporary orders or affect the parties' discovery obligations.

(8) Applicable Law. All mediations undertaken pursuant to this Rule are subject to the provisions of RCW Chapter 7.07, the Uniform Mediation Act, including its provisions regarding privilege and confidentiality, and RCW 26.09.015. To the extent there is any inconsistency, the provisions of RCW 26.09.015 apply.

(9) Family Law Mediation Statements. All parties shall prepare and deliver a Family Law Mediation Statement to the mediator and all other parties (including the State of Washington if the State is a party), no later than one week prior to the mediation. The Mediation Statement Form is available on the court's website. The Mediation Statement is intended to inform the mediator and opposing party of the submitting party's position on the major issues to be resolved. Parties are only required to complete those portions of the Mediation Statement that relate to matters in dispute. The Mediation Statement shall not be filed with the Court.

Any party may submit supplemental Mediation Statements prior to the scheduled mediation if the party's analysis or proposal to resolve the issues has changed after reviewing another party's Mediation Statement.

If a party fails to submit a Mediation Statement, or if the Court finds that a Mediation Statement is materially deficient, or that a party's lack of preparation prohibits a meaningful mediation, the Court may impose monetary sanctions, award attorney fees, or other remedies as the Court deems appropriate.

If a Guardian ad Litem has been appointed, the Guardian ad Litem shall submit a report to the parties and the mediator/settlement judge at least seven days before the mediation.

(10) Appearance at Mediation. Each party who files an appearance in a contested proceeding of the type described above shall attend mediation in person unless the Court orders in advance that they may be present by telephone or exempts them from participation in mediation. Parties residing out of state will be allowed to participate by telephone or other audio/visual applications.
